

City Post Offices Return to Normal Service

By HUGH REYNOLDS

"As far as I'm concerned, we're right back to normal service," Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk told The Freeman, in regards to the Senate's temporary reprieve on postal cutbacks.

Newkirk said he received word by telephone last night about 10 p. m. to maintain normal Saturday service. Subsequently, the city's three post offices, the main post office at 90 Cornell Street, Uptown Branch at 50 Main Street and the Roundout Station at 58 Broadway, were open until noon today.

In Washington, D.C., late yesterday. Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson, upon learning of the Senate's 47-16 vote to exempt mailmen from a congressional payroll cutback order, said telegrams would be sent out to 12,000 post offices ordering them to ignore a previous directive on cutbacks.

Newkirk said today he has yet to receive a telegram from Watson.

Watson had told Congress he had to cut 83,238 employees over the next four years to get back to the June 30, 1966 employment level Congress had dictated.

Third Largest

The post office is currently the nation's third largest employer with 714,000 workers. The defense department is number one followed by General Motors Corp.

Newkirk noted today that cutbacks would not effect his regular employees. Cuts would fall on special employees such as the seven college students, hired last summer. Newkirk special help for the Christmas holidays. "We have to get the mail out," he said.

Senate Debates 4 Hours

The senate debated four hours before acting to exclude the expected to continue hiring Post Office along with the Federal Aviation Administration because of the latter's air traffic control shortage. The cuts came as part of Congress' price for a income tax increase requested by President Johnson.

The Senate action came as an amendment to a bill making it a federal crime to assault or harm a Post Office employee. "Presently, only postal inspectors are covered under such a statute."

Chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee A. S. Mike Maroney, said yesterday that the mail service cutbacks proposed by Watson would result in "third and fourth class service to first class users."

Under Watson's plan Saturday window service would have been curtailed and Saturday collection of mail from street deposit boxes would also be adjusted to conform to the generally less - frequent Sunday collections.

The department said these were the first steps in a sharp curtailment of operations that eventually would lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and restricting of residential deliveries to four days a week.

The Senate added its exemption as a rider to a minor post office bill, opening the way for House approval without having to go through the committee process.

Congress is scheduled to adourn next Friday until September so members can attend the national political conventions.

Watson said he put off the cutbacks "because the vote of the Senate today indicates an understanding of our highly critical problem of handling a larger workload with a smaller work force."

Under the income tax bill, which increased the individual tax rate 10 per cent and ordered federal spending cut by $6 billion, all government agencies are to cutback personnel to the June 1966 level.

83,000 Over Two Years

This would cost the post office 83,000 employees over the next two years by preventing it from filling one in every four vacancies.

Reaction of congressmen, who felt any exemptions to the tax bill would hurt its effectiveness, was cool until reports spread on Capitol Hill late last week that the department was escalating cutbacks to include thousands of branches and eventually a four day week for some services.

Two senators, Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, and John J. Williams, R-Del., criticized Friday's action.

Lausche said it "torpedoed all the good" in the tax bill. Williams said it may have "paved the way to a major depression" by rejecting restraint.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic vice presidential picture appeared to be wide open today following Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's "final, firm" decision against accepting the position at next month's national convention.

The names of Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and Fred R. Harris and Ambassador to France Sargent Shriver were mentioned as possible running mates if front-running Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, campaigning in Kansas when the Kennedy statement was released in Boston, said the decision by the Massachusetts senator "speaks for itself" and is "understandable."

Declines Comment

But he declined, as he has all along, to comment on who might be under consideration.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared today his goal is "peace — nothing less" and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said black power is the road to black dignity and responsibility. Story on page 16.

McCarthy, Humphrey's chief rival for the nomination, had no immediate comment on either Kennedy's decision or the possibility of taking No. 2 spot himself which he has in the past rejected.

A Humphrey-McCarthy ticket would pose a problem since both men come from Minnesota and the Constitution bars a state's electoral college votes from going to residents of the same state.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., suggested that "Sargent Shriver is the only vice presidential candidate who makes sense to me if he (Humphrey) can't get McCarthy."

Shriver, Kennedy's brother-in-law who headed the Peace Corps and the antipoverty program before becoming ambassador this spring, has never run for public office.

Humphrey aides, who have insisted no decision on the vice presidency was imminent, have said that both McCarthy and Shriver are possibilities.

There is also support from within the Humphrey camp for Harris, who is co-chairman of the vice president's campaign along with Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

But an aide said the 37-year-old Oklahoma Democrat has given no thought to the possibility.

Propose Moderate

Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who had criticized the possibility of a Kennedy candidacy earlier in the week, said in Austin, Tex., that he and five other Southern and border state governors told Humphrey Thursday to choose a running mate "more moderate than you are."

In his statement, Kennedy said he would regard the nomination as "a high honor and a challenge to further public service" but that "For me, this year, it is impossible."

He said that the reasons are entirely personal in view of the heavy family responsibilities thrust on him by the assassination last month of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

The statement issued from Kennedy's Boston office ended weeks of speculation that the brother of the slain President John and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would take the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

Felt Other Pressures

In Washington, State Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he felt "pressures more political than personal" had been exerted on Kennedy "so that he and his name could be used as political assets."

Meanwhile, South Dakota Sen. George McGovern, who backed the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the presidential nomination, today refused to endorse Humphrey and said the vice president could not in good conscience run on a platform committed to rapidly ending the Vietnam war.

He said the Democrats must nominate a presidential candidate and adopt a platform committed to hastening the end of hostilities in Vietnam.

But, said the senator, "superb platform pledges alone" are not enough. He said "it is imperative that we nominate a standardbearer who can run with a clear mind and conscience in our party's platform. That is why I have declined to endorse the candidacy of an old and dear friend—the vice president."

However, McGovern did not say who he would support, and did not mention the candidacy of Sen. McCarthy, who shared many of Kennedy's views on Vietnam.

McGovern is a favorite-son candidate but has disclaimed interest in a serious bid for the nomination.

End Cleveland Crisis, Troops Withdrawn

By DAVID SPURR

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Mayor Carl B. Stokes, saying the "crisis" had passed today, withdrew all National Guard troops from the Negro East Side, torn by violence which left 10 persons dead.

He said there would be no more curfew in the area.

Stokes said 1,200 National Guard troops left at 7 a.m. EDT, today "and will not return."

He said 1,500 other troops would "remain here on a standby basis" but were expected to be withdrawn from the city by Sunday if the situation remained calm.

Stokes said he believed "the crisis is passed." He ordered the city's 2,100 policemen off the emergency 12-hour shifts they had been working since the violence erupted in the East Side Tuesday night when the 10 persons, including three white policemen, were killed.

The hot racial tempers cooled to near normal, some Negro leaders complained today that neither they nor Stokes have been given enough credit for averting a racial bloodbath.

The week might have ended with far more than three policemen and seven civilians dead, they said, had they not been allowed a 24-hour cooling off period to patrol the streets Wednesday night with National Guardsmen and white police withdrawn.

Reduced law enforcement patrols reported few incidents Friday night, even though Stokes pushed back the start of curfew to midnight to let slum residents

enjoy part of their usual Friday night out.

Police from as far as Boston planned to attend today's memorial Mass for their three slain colleagues, as the man who boasted he planned the gunfight that took their lives was charged with their murders.

"We knew Wednesday evening that if white policemen had gone into the black community Wednesday night there would have been a wholesale slaughter of black people," said William Picard, director of Cleveland's National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Stokes, who made two trips into the six-square-mile East Side trouble zone Friday to ask for citizen cooperation, ordered all city flags to be flown at half staff in honor of the slain policemen.

He and his wife sent notes of condolence to each of the three families, all of whom will hold their own, private funeral services.

Fred Ahmed Evans, the bearded black nationalist charged with murder, remained in Cuyahoga County Jail under $250,000 bond. He pleaded innocent to three earlier charges—possession of a carbine, shooting with intent to kill and possession of marijuana.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in a copyright story, said tow truck driver William H. McMillan, the first man shot in Tuesday night's sniper battle, identified Evans as the man who fired a carbine slug still in his body.

Police and guardsmen raided two hotels and Evans' home in neighborhoods frequented by black nationalists in search of weapons Friday.

Capt. George Sperber, head of the police intelligence unit, said they found rifles and bloody bandages at one hotel, and about 15 weapons at the home, including shotguns and assorted single shot and fully automatic rifles.

The body of one gunman, he added, may still be in the rubble of the burned-out home.

About 2,000 members of the Ohio National Guard remained on duty, and Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, Ohio adjutant general, said that if order was maintained half might be sent home today, and the rest Sunday.

Guerrillas Attack U.S. Thailand Base

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — A guerrilla force attacked a U.S. Air Force base in Thailand for the first time in the Vietnam war Friday night, damaging two planes, killing a Thai guard and wounding four Americans.

Two of the enemy were reported killed and one captured during the brief assault on Udorn Air Base in northern Thailand, an area which the Bangkok government says is infested by North Vietnamese-backed guerrillas.

An Air Force spokesman said it was the first time an American base in Thailand had come under attack. Udorn, with 6,500 airmen and 100 warplanes, is the largest of seven U.S. bases in Thailand from which most strikes are mounted against North Vietnam.

Associated Press correspondent Peter O'Loughlin reported

Casualties in the Vietnam War have dropped off since early June but U. S. officials refused to predict the lull will last. Story on page 16.

from Udorn that a guerrilla band of unknown size penetrated the base's perimeter with small arms fire and satchel charges and tried to reach a flight line where the main contingent of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers and reconnaissance jets was parked.

A combined Thai-American security force drove the enemy back as they tried to place explosives around the parked aircraft.

An F4 and a C141 Starlifter, a four-engine jet cargo aircraft fitted for medical evacuation, were damaged by fire. Two Air Force women corpsmen were at the evacuation craft when the attack began, but were not harmed.

The attackers also triggered sion which was brought under control quickly.

In South Vietnam, enemy gunners zeroed in with rockets for the third straight night on the Da Nang fighter base, from which attack missions are also mounted against the panhandle.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Goldsmith reported from Da Nang, 375 miles northeast of Saigon, that one squadron from the 1st Marine Air Wing was temporarily grounded after a Russian-made 100-pound rocket scored a direct hit on a hangar housing several of the Marine A6 all-weather jet intruders. One of the $6 million aircraft was destroyed and another heavily damaged.

One plane, loaded with more than 20 500-pound bombs blew up and burned. Several of the bombs exploded, wrecking the central part of the hangar. Marine maintenance men working on the planes rushed to bunkers when the first 10 rockets hit the base. No casualties were reported.

In the ground war, 1st Air Cavalry troopers discovered a major enemy base camp that contained large field hospitals, quantities of medicines, narcotics and bandages. The outpost, known as base camp 114, is about 50 miles square and lies west and southwest of the old imperial capital of Hue. It is a sector that has come under heavy B52 bombardment in recent days.

Around Saigon, ground action was reported light.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced the loss of two more fighter-bombers during strikes over North Vietnam's southern panhandle. It raised to 872 the number of American warplanes reported downed in combat over the North during the war.

Three of the four crewmen aboard the two planes were listed as missing and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

U.S. Marines battled an unknown-sized enemy force five hours Friday south of Da Nang. Fourteen Viet Cong and five Marines were reported killed and 33 Marines wounded.

In a delayed report, headquarters said U.S. Marines uncovered 37 long range rockets in a North Vietnamese weapons cache just below the central part of the demilitarized zone Thursday.

The latest two U.S. planes reported downed over the North were lost Thursday, but headquarters delayed announcement while there was a search and rescue effort on.

U.S. B52 bombers continued to pound suspected enemy troop concentrations along the Cambodian border. The eight-jet Stratofortresses launched three missions today against enemy base camps 68 miles northwest of Saigon. Some strikes were only a little more than a mile from the Cambodian border.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Early in March, 1968, Mr. Bows was encouraged by a minister to speak to the Christian Council of the growing tensions and problems of jobs, housing, schools, parks and transportation. In his speech entitled, "An opportunity for the Church and for Atlanta" he challenged the clergy, and laymen as well, to help change human attitudes, in order to relieve racial tensions so that these problems could be solved.

Dr. Moore, whose 25 years of experience as a U. S. Army chaplain had given him deep insight into these problems, was enthusiastic. He and other members of the Christian Council unanimously endorsed a resolution to "respond to the urban crisis." The Jewish community also supported the council's efforts. Mr. Bows had three specific suggestions for the church:

1. To work on at least one public housing project.
2. To encourage employers to help provide jobs.
3. To provide more interchange of ideas and activities between white and Negro churches.

Mr. Bows ended his speech with this plea: "Help us as individuals to become so involved with our concern for each other that there will be no need for violence, tensions or pressures in trying to solve our problems. If we can do all of this, maybe some day we can learn to live in the same community peacefully, with dignity and respect for each other."

Religious Freedom Was Myth in Early America

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
Our forefathers came to this country seeking religious liberty and set up a system of government under which church and state are strictly separated and every man is free to worship as he pleases.

Do you agree with that statement? Most Americans would. It's a capsule expression of one of our most cherished national myths.

It's bad history on two grounds. First, it attributes to all early settlers of America a motive that was dominant for only a small minority.

Most serious, it falsely implies that religious freedom and its necessary precondition, church-state separation, have always existed in America.

Late Bloomer
Actually, religious freedom was a late-blooming flower on the tree of American democracy.

Except in a few islands of enlightenment, such as Quaker Pennsylvania and Baptist Rhode Island, colonial America made free use of government coercion to compel religious conformity. Massachusetts in 1644 made it a crime, punishable by banishment, to be a Baptist. It was an even greater crime to be a Quaker. Convicted Quakers had an ear lopped off, or a hole burned through the tongue with a hot poker.

Although state-enforced religious bigotry subsided somewhat after the Salem witch trials of 1692, it did not disappear. Nine of the 13 colonies still had established churches at the time of the revolution.

The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, ratified in 1791, forbade the federal government to establish a church or interfere in any way with freedom of religion. But this limitation did not apply to state governments until the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted after the Civil War.

Connecticut maintained an established church until 1818. New Hampshire until 1819, and Massachusetts kept on taxing its citizens for support of the Congregationalist clergy until 1833.

Continue Favoritism
Even after the era of state churches finally came to a close, legislatures and courts continued to give favored treatment to the Christian religion as opposed to all other faiths.

In 1889, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the right of Congress to dissolve the charter of the Mormon church because Mormons practiced polygamy which, the court said, was "contrary to the spirit of Christianity and of the spirit which Christianity has produced in the western world."

And this sort of thing continued right on into the 20th century.

Even now, some state and local courts ignore the Supreme Court's view that it's unconstitutional for an agency of government to give special recognition or favored treatment to the Christian religion.

Only last week, a man named Irvin West was sentenced to a 30-day prison term in Westminster, Md., for "taking the Lord's name in vain in a public place."

Dr. Snyder and his wife reside in Woodstock and are the parents of three sons.

State Agency Set to Tackle Newburgh Slums

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The State Urban Development Corporation, the giant, multi-billion-dollar agency created by Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature to clean up city slums, may tackle its first big job in the City of Newburgh.

Edward Logue, head of the powerful new agency, is awaiting a response from Newburgh City officials to his telegram last week in which he declared the UDC ready to help develop the Lake Street area.

Logue's telegram indicated that Newburgh government and civic officials had invited the corporation to assist in efforts to provide low-income public housing, mixed-income housing, recreational, commercial, industrial and other facilities.

A Logue spokesman said today efforts were underway to arrange a meeting early next week with Newburgh officials to nail down an agreement.

The agency is empowered to condemn property in any of the state's cities and launch renewal projects even if local authorities object.

When he unveiled plans for its creation, Rockefeller predicted the UDC would attract something like $5 billion in private capital for every $1 billion the agency borrowed through bonds.

Health Clinic In Rosendale

A child health conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the Rosendale Health Office on Aug. 8 from 1 to 3 p. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties, and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, and polio.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of a sick child. Children under the care of a regular physician are not admitted except under his direction. In order to avoid overcrowded clinics, an appointment is required for admission to the clinic. Appointments may be made with the local public health nurse at the Rosendale Health Center 9-10 a. m. Monday through Friday.

The Teen Scene

by LEI

These last weeks of vacation can be a pretty frantic scene. We had so much planned for the summer, and now it is almost over, and with it, it seems, our fun for another year. This kind of thinking can make us take risks that will end this summer's plans a month early. It doesn't take a major accident to cause a lot of problems—and it doesn't take a lot of care to avoid the common summer bums.

There's more to water safety than the routine drowning prevention steps. Are you careful that the water you swim in is not polluted? That cool, bubbling country brook may be downstream from an open sewerage pipe, or may contain pesticide drainoff from somebody's lawn. Hepatitis and severe nose and ear infections can result from a dip in impure water. Scuba and skin diving is a key sport where available, but if you have a lung disease or asthma, you'd better watch from shore. Even if you're sure you're in top condition, you ought to get a rigid physical before venturing underwater. Even a mild sinus condition or mouth infection can be dangerous when your using compressed oxygen and exerting yourself underwater.

Cookout Tips

Cooking out is a part of summer, and with a very little care it can be enjoyed with no ill effects. Be sure your hot dogs, hamburger, potato salad and other spoilables are kept cold (and cold ENOUGH) until cooked or eaten. Make sure hot dogs and all ground meat products are well-cooked. Don't try to cook indoors on your charcoal barbecue or hibachi. Of course you'll be careful how you light it, but it's also smart to have a fire extinguisher handy—or at least a box of baking soda for grease fires—in case you want to extinguish a fire again.

Some people are naturally immune to poison ivy, while others are very sensitive. The best cure is to know the three-leaved crawler and avoid it. However, many people develop a rash after touching an object or animal that's been in the ivy. If you notice the rash forming, with its maddening itch, don't scratch it. Rubbing alcohol sloshed on generously will stop the itch and dry the oil that causes it as well or better than more expensive preparations. For another summer problem, a mentholated jelly will help cool sunburn that you knew how to avoid, but you got anyway.

Other accident hazards are electricity near water, and small wild animal babies which may appear to be deserted, but which are being jealously watched by protective mothers with sharp teeth. Remember, too, that the first rain after a dry spell rinses up road film and turns the road as slick as ice.

Common sense won't cut in on your summer thing—in fact you'll have a better time if you know you're not going to get totaled out by carelessness. And we all want to be in good shape for the first day of school, don't we? (And WHY did we have to bring that up...?)

A blockbuster of a block dance is being planned for area teenagers.

Slated Aug. 6 from 7 to 9 p.m., the dance will be held on Dederick Street, a short dead end street off Broadway across from the YMCA. Live music will be provided for the gala event. Rain date has been set Aug. 13. There will be no admission charge.

The dance is just one of the teen-aged events and happenings growing out of cooperative efforts of the YMCA, YWCA and the Kingston Recreation Department.

At a recent meeting of representatives from the three organizations, plans were finalized for the block dance.

At least one more happening is being considered as well as publication and distribution of a booklet designed to alert youth to the seriousness of shop-lifting.

Attending the planning session were Andrew J. Murphy III and Charles Ryan of the Recreation Department; Robert Stubbs and James Rundell of the YMCA and M. Joan Freeman and Frances Maxwell of the YWCA.

Next meeting of the group will be held at the YWCA Friday, Aug. 26. Both the YWCA and the YMCA are members of the Ulster County Community Chest.

The block dance activity is being beamed especially at younger teenagers, although all teenagers may attend.

A poster-making project in conjunction with the dance has been going on at the YWCA during the past week.

Other YMCA, YWCA and Recreation Department activities have offered a variety of summertime fun for area teenagers and the small fry too.

Headed for College-Then Go Prepared

So you're headed for college this fall? Pretty exciting prospect isn't it? But do go prepared.

Experts say there are two major adjustments to college—academic and social. To help the entering freshman, a five session course in How to Study in College will start Monday night in Ulster County Community College through the sponsorship of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA.

The essence of learning how to study on a college level is not how you read and write nearly as much as how you listen. Forty-five per cent of college classroom time is listening and absorbing. Listening wisely and well is the basis of all learning.

Varied Offerings

Subjects to be covered by five classes include:

How people learn, why we forget, the art of listening, how to take college lecture notes, motivation for maximum college performance, how to plan your time, a basic study formula, technique of review, themes and reports, preparing for and taking tests, the vocabulary of college, what you need to know about each course and professor, when and how to obtain academic assistance, understanding college libraries, personal problems in adjustment to college living.

More than 35 high school graduates have registered for the local course. Registrations are still open. Information may be obtained by contacting the YMCA office on Broadway or calling the college. Registrations will be accepted at the Y until closing 10 p.m. tonight or at the college up to class time Monday.

Teacher for the course which has proved popular across the nation will be Everett E. Lynch, undergraduate student advisor of the school of humanities, social studies and education at Purdue University. In addition, he is a pre-law student advisor and a graduate student advisor for the department of history.

Well Versed

In his role as advisor, Lynch has acquired a comprehensive knowledge of the problems that face freshman students when they leave the security of their high school senior classes and enter the "confusion and strangeness" of the college classroom. He has also viewed this transitional period as the parent of four children.

The course was developed a number of years ago by Robert F. Schwartz, dean of Purdue, and has played to students throughout the country. In 1967, it was offered at YMCA's in 45 cities to more than 4,000.

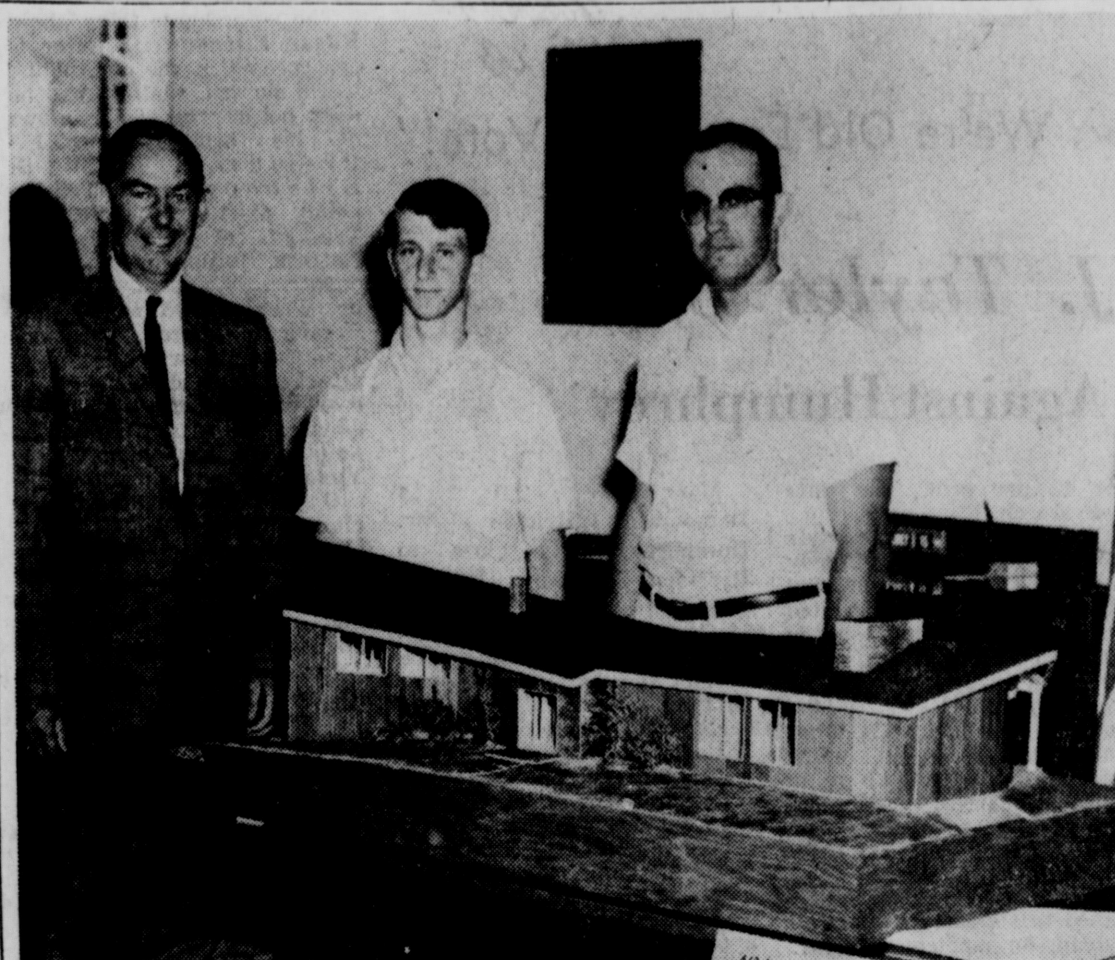

Far from remedial course, the college "survival" program is aimed at solving the transitional problems of the entering student.

And have no fear, the language of the course is far from humdrum "academese." Favoring straightforward, breezy approach, the course is geared especially for the college-bound faced with new social and academic whirls to conquer.

LEARN TO STUDY — Everett E. Lynch, a popular Purdue University instructor, prepares for How to Study in College course to be offered locally through the cooperation of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA and the Ulster County Community College. Classes for high school graduates start Monday night at the Stone Ridge campus and will continue through the week. Registration may be made at the college up to class time Monday or at the YMCA on Broadway up to closing tonight 10 o'clock.

BUDDING ARCHITECT — Onteora Central School graduate Mike Scherrer, center, receives the plaudits of Howard C. St. John, left, president of the Ulster County Savings Bank and Paul DeLora, his architectural drawing teacher for model home now on display at the bank. Mike was one of three architectural drawing students who graduated from the Boiceville school this year. Other models and drawings exhibited at the bank are by Wesley Daughtrey and Jay Morey. Mike will continue architectural studies at the University of Arizona while Jay will attend Dutchess Community College and later Pratt Institute. Wesley plans to major in oceanography at Syracuse University.

Considered Unique

Hobbit May Star In Film

The Hobbit may star in a documentary film.

The Ulster Coffee House at 73 Crown Street, considered unique in several ways, may be the subject of a movie to be produced by the Coffee House Association. The local venture is the single illustration of a community-wide sponsored coffee house.

Other communities in both Ulster and Dutchess counties have expressed interest in forming similar projects for their youth.

Some of the things which makes the Hobbit's Whole a very special coffee house were outlined by Tom Phillips, one of the managers, at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the adult steering committee. He noted that it takes seriously the youth it attempts to serve and it represents the only known instance where a coffee house has been sponsored solely by the citizens of a community.

While the steering committee consists of many responsible citizens representing many community organizations maintains the final authority, a youth steering committee was organized this week.

Youth Leaders

The young helmsmen are led by John Van Kleek, president; Keith Hults, vice-president, and Mary Kay Lannen, secretary. The youth steering committee will serve as a sounding board for teenagers served by the Hobbit.

One of the first requests was for more folk and less rock at the weekend performances.

The preferences were for more sophisticated folk music with its often thought provoking themes. There are two shows on Friday and Saturday nights at 8 and 10 o'clock. During the week The Hobbit is open evenings as a meeting place and discussion center with a little impromptu guitar strumming by the citizens of a community.

The cost of refreshments has been lowered so that the wide selection of sandwiches and beverages will be more in the range of the teen pocketbook.

Fall Forecast

The Hobbit opened in late June to standing room only audiences. In recent weeks there has been a steady clientele despite the vacation season. It is expected the Hobbit will really jump when students return to high school and college classes in the fall.

While the Hobbit continues to operate under a deficit due to initial expenditures, the steering committee is looking hopefully toward fall participation and continued help from the community.

A spokesman for the adult committee said "it is absolutely essential that members of the community send their contributions to the Ulster Coffee House Inc. if Kingston is to pride itself on providing a uniquely effective outlet for its youth."

Local Girls at Drum For Seniors Roundup

Discovery '68 for 800 Senior Girl Scouts is going on right now at Camp Drum and six girls from Ulster County are taking part.

The 12-day Hendrick Hudson Roundup started July 18 at the camp near Watertown with scouts from every part of New York New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands participating in the encampment. In addition, a guest patrol of eight girls is attending from the province of Ontario, Canada, as well as 22 specially selected girls from throughout the United States.

Girls attending from Ulster County are:

Cathie Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher of Woodstock; Kathleen Hatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Hatt of Lake Katrine; Sheila Umphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Umphrey of Mt. Tremper; Helen Turck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Turck of Bearsville; Sharon Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Brooks of Highland and Debbie Firmbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Firmbach of Esopus.

Unlike many Girl Scout encampments, the activities at the Hendrick Hudson Roundup have been planned and carried out by the girls themselves. Taking as its theme Discovery '68, the roundup is designed to help each scout discover more about herself and others and to learn new ways of working and living together.

In addition to the day to day camping activities, the scouts have access to a variety of handicrafts, arts, a continuous showing of films on current topics and a 1,000 volume collection of paperback books.

Each day also brings consultants to the campsite—leaders in business, government, education and the social sciences to lead special forums on areas of concern to the girls.

Fall Is Coming-UCCC Extensions

In its expanding plans to offer higher educational programs throughout the county, Ulster County Community College will sponsor three extension courses in the evening this fall at Ellenville High School, George B. Erbsstein, president, announced today.

The three courses are general psychology, history of civilization I, and freshman composition II.

"We began extension courses in Ellenville last year," Erbsstein said. "The response was so favorable, we are pleased to expand our offerings in the southwest region of the county."

The administration at Ellenville High School is again cooperating with college officials in the offering of the extension courses.

Each course carries three college credits. Interested persons can take the courses for college credit or audit the courses without credit.

General Psychology will be offered on Monday nights, starting Sept. 16. The course is an introduction to the principles of human behavior in everyday life. Emphasis will be given to experimental investigations of such fields as learning, emotions, attention, perception, intelligence, thinking and personality. Application of psychology principles will be considered and there will be demonstrations.

History of Civilization I, also will be offered on Monday nights, starting Sept. 16. It will trace the history of western civilization from ancient times to the end of the 16th century.

Freshman Composition II, will be taught on Wednesday nights, starting Sept. 18. It will place emphasis on development of writing skills with a view of essential rhetoric and grammar. There will be a study of essential research methods and use of library resources.

Interested persons can register by mail for the courses. Further information about the courses, and registering, can be obtained from James C. Haviland, director of community services at the college.

Wage-Price Restraint

The Cabinet Committee on Wage and Price Stability has written top executives and labor leaders to help restrain wage and price increases during the crucial next five months—or the rest of this year.

Government economists fear that wage increases during the third quarter now begun could go substantially above six per cent and wipe out much of the advantage of the surtax and federal spending cuts. Abandoning attempts to fix guidelines tied to production growth, the committee is asking the business and labor leaders to slow down the pace of their gains to help reduce inflation in the economy.

"The nation faces a critical period in its effort to return to price stability," the letter states. "When the President signed into law the tax increase and spending cut, the nation took the first step in combating inflation. Now the benefits of fiscal restraint—for which all taxpayers are paying—need to be reinforced by responsible private decisions."

Primarily, these decisions will have to start with the parties to more than 250 major contract settlements scheduled between August and the end of the year. Among the most important involve steel, aerospace, coal mining, airlines, railroad shopcraft and dock workers. They will affect hundreds of thousands of workers—and the result will in turn affect every American.

On the average, the committee finds prices are rising at an annual rate of four per cent and wages are increasing at a rate of six to seven per cent. This is a dangerous road, the committee warns, for the public interest is clearly violated by any price increases that widen profit margins and wage settlements that extend the recent disturbing pattern.

The approach is moderate and calm. We can only hope that the response will be equally responsible.

The Young Voters

How to involve the 24 million voters from 21 to 29 years of age in the two-party political process, and especially in the coming Presidential election, was the focus of the American Heritage Foundation, a non-partisan educational group, that sponsored a conference on the subject in Washington, D. C., recently.

There were almost as many proposals as there were participants, but the most interesting idea came from George H. Gallup Jr., who reported on the most startling findings from recent polls in this age group. Republican affiliation has fallen off significantly and the independents were up sharply.

The survey showed that in July, 1964, the last Presidential election year, those 21 to 29 were 20 per cent Republican and now they are 22 per cent; the Democratic affiliation was 51 per cent in 1964, now it's 38 per cent; and the independents climbed from 29 per cent four years ago to 40 per cent now.

The unaffiliated young people have become the crucial battleground for both major political parties.

Sam Brown, a 24-year-old student at Harvard Divinity School, predicted that if Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon are the nominees for President, large numbers of activists and young liberals would sit out the campaign, because of their stand on Vietnam.

Clarence M. Mitchell III, a 28-year-old Maryland state senator who is co-chairman of Youth for Humphrey, retorted, "I really can't get hung up on Vietnam." He said the major concern should be on the Vietnam of this country—the poor, the restless and the repressed. A Negro, Mitchell said that sitting out the election is not the answer to this country's challenges. After being jailed for picketing for civil rights, he realized that it was far more meaningful to be elected to the Maryland legislature to bring about the kind of change he wanted. He was elected an Assemblyman at 22 and a Senator at 26.

We rather think the young people will choose Mitchell's path, no matter who the nominees may be. They have learned as activists that they can get things done. They are not going to sulk because they don't get their way. Look at all the independents they can influence, two in five of their age group.

It was like the 18th century. Prisoners in the State Penitentiary at Richmond, Va., refused to work for the daily wage of 15 to 40 cents. They asked for 40 to 65 cents. Corrections Director W. K. Cunningham said the state budget would not permit such a high raise but he worked out a 25 to 50 cents raise. That is for a day's work, mind you. The grant emphasized that prisoners are sent to the pen for punishment, not for profit.

A divorced man who is not current on his support payments for at least six months will be refused permission to rewed in Madison, Wis. Dane County Judge William D. Byrne ruled that a man should not take on additional burdens when he can't discharge his old ones to his wife and children. Another family would suffer as the old one does.

"The President Says We're Old Enough to Vote!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Gang-Up Against Humphrey

When you see the gang-up against Mr. Humphrey. But H. Humphrey what can you feel for him but pity? Few Democrats have anything against Mr. Humphrey. But the Democratic convention is sure to seem to him like taking a joy ride on a cement bicycle.

HHH has been a mannequin for four long years. Not only doesn't a man run for the Vice-Presidency, but it is impossible to run for anything during the years in the Vice-Presidency. Yet now he is the patsy for his party's dissatisfaction against a President who withdrew and isn't even seeking renomination.

The entire McCarthy contingent at Chicago is absolutely determined to make mannequin Mr. Humphrey Humpty-Dumpty.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy first rose to challenge President Johnson on November 30, 1967. On January 12 this column remarked that "I take my hat off to Senator McCarthy in admiration for his courage."

He challenged a party leadership that applies its White House muscle power with all the force and crunch of a half nelson. And he courageously refused to wait and watch the pressure gauges of public opinion before deciding when and how loud to blow his whistle.

On February 3 the Gallup poll reported President Johnson's nation-wide majority over Mr. McCarthy as 71 per cent to 18 per cent with 11 per cent undecided. On March 1 a Roper poll forecast that Mr. Johnson would get 62 per cent of the New Hampshire Primary vote and McCarthy only 11. McCarthy got 42 per cent. The date was March 12.

On March 16 the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy announced his candidacy. But when he did this a United Press International survey showed only three state party chairmen willing to go on record as encouraging the Kennedy candidacy, 24 other state chairmen and party leaders opposed to him in varying degrees, and some nine others were non-committal but basically negative.

Senator Kennedy was expected to supplant McCarthy. Instead, he supplanted Mr. McCarthy.

Mr. McCarthy still pulled his Oregon surprise and the final California figures, obscured by the ghastly Los Angeles horror, gave Mr. Kennedy only 46 per cent of the vote and McCarthy 42.

Civil wars are fratricide, and in wars fratricide is the most bitter of all. This was fratricide within HHH's own party.

On March 31 President Johnson withdrew. But neither his withdrawal nor the ghastly assassination of Senator Kennedy two months later stopped the fratricide. It was even intensified and on a scale that makes Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's 1964 Goldwater rejection relatively mild and likewise Mr. Rockefeller's repeat performance now against Richard M. Nixon.

Party politics is a business of assimilation, not elimination, and although Mr. Rockefeller is unabashedly violating this principle as if it did not exist, his Republican foul-up is like a zephyr to a whirlwind compared with what confronts Mr. Humphrey.

Moreover, in this Democratic fratricide if Mr. Humphrey hews close to President Johnson's line he gets in trouble with both the McCarthy and Kennedy wings of his own party. But if he doesn't he gets in trouble with LBJ.

Excusing a pun, Mr. Nixon is the innocent bystander who will get hit by the Rock, but Mr. Humphrey is faced by both the crash of his liberal image and a large gang who will stay home and not vote.

Meanwhile, the Democratic National Committee has run another poll, secretly, among 3,000 county chairmen in the eight states outside the Deep South, where Mr. McCarthy couldn't get elected dogcatcher. It has received 1,875 replies. The average gives third party candidate George C. Wallace 20 per cent of the popular vote.

Gallup, in turn, now gives Wallace 47 per cent in the five Deep South states of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. This substantially exceeds both Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon. And in the entire 13-state Southern region Mr. Wallace gets 29 per cent, closely matching Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon.

It's commonly agreed that Mr. Wallace will draw fewer votes from Mr. Nixon than from Mr. Rockefeller if he were the nominee. But Mr. Humphrey gets it coming and going — in the North from Mr. McCarthy, in the South from Mr. Wallace. The Vice-President stands in Chicago something like an animal trainer who popped his head into the lion's mouth only to find the crowd pulling the jaws together.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

If I had influence with the young men of our country, I would urge them to run for public office. Politics, an artful science, is best studied from the inside. Our young men should draw up voter petitions and file for offices within reach: town council; school board; county offices; assemblymen and state senators.

We need the talent. It doesn't matter which party you join, or even if you run as an independent. Running for office will give a man a working knowledge of how government operates, which man is the real power in the area, and how to smile after being double-crossed.

It teaches many things — all of them useful in other fields. For example, party conferences teach a candidate how to refine a crude idea into a polished gem, how to debate the points of a platform, how to get out in an unfriendly neighborhood and speak without being killed.

If a citizen does it but once, he will never forget the lessons he has absorbed. One can learn as much in defeat as in victory. In school, most of us give lip service to the subject of civics, and promptly forget it. In adulthood, politics becomes a fascinating game. If you're with the majority group, you learn less because they win without you and you're no voice. If you're with the "out" segment, they will listen to your ideas because they've had sad results with theirs.

Someone from Red Bank, N. J., sent a newspaper clipping from The Red Bank Register and I found that my son-in-law Charles Frechette had tried it. I'm his fan because he's the best husband and father in the family. He has seven little ones and drives 104 miles to and from work at an Owens-Illinois Plant.

He joined the Democrats in a Republican town and was elected, 872 votes to 827. He isn't going to feed all the mouths with anything given by the Township Committee, not to mention the 120-pound dog, the baby rabbits, the rheumatic blacksnake, an iguana and some pet kangaroo rats. I live too far away to sit in the town hall the night the fight begins over whether the municipality can afford a new siren for the police car, or whether it would be better to break the chief's tooth and let him whistle.

Some time back, I ran for office twice. My reason was that, too often, writers are in the position of writing stories about which they know little. First I ran for Freeholder on the Democratic ticket in a Republican County. Seven Freeholders ran the county; if I won — a ridiculous assumption — I couldn't count without being voted down six to one.

Still, I did it. Unfortunately, I had some friends among the Republicans. There was one office on the ballot to which neither money nor power was attached: coroner. My GOP friends passed the word secretly: "Let's write in good old Jim for that one." I was beaten for Freeholder, 122,000 votes to 66,000, but received a certificate from the Secretary of State certifying me as a County coroner. So please do not say that I was never elected. A little later, I teamed up with some buddies and ran for township council. There were no street corner speeches. Citizens invited the neighborhood to their cellar game rooms and we were invited to stand up and state our case, in 10 minutes.

We campaigned for reform, repeal and revolt without ever looking the words up in a dictionary. The mayor honored me by issuing a statement denouncing everything I said as the product of a demented mind. It was the biggest notice I got.

I was shellacked by something like 5,000 votes to 2,200. I was surprised to notice that two members of my team of buddies got 3,000 votes. This meant that they had asked their friends to "bullet vote" them and ignore me. I was learning, just a little at a time.

A man must be young and be able to get off the nightly garbage detail to run for office. But, looking up from the bottom as a township candidate, you will be surprised at how much you will see that you never noticed before about government. It will make an alert civic-minded citizen of you in a short time.

Later, I went back to writing books and became lucky with one called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." The Newark Star-Ledger had someone on the copy desk with a long memory. Here's the head he wrote for the story:

JIM BISHOP (D), TWO-TIME LOSER, FINDS WINNER IN A. LINCOLN (R).

Drew Pearson Says Attack on Sen. Magnuson Hampers Democracy Abroad

WASHINGTON — One of the best ways to block the trend toward democracy in the communist world was given by Edgar Eisenhower, brother of ex-President Eisenhower, in a recent letter to Seattle voters. It will be of no help to Czechoslovakian citizens now struggling to defeat hard-line, orthodox communism.

In a letter addressed "to fellow American," Edgar Eisenhower enclosed a blue- and white window sticker featuring an appeal, "Help stop U.S.-communist trade"; then called upon Washington State voters to defeat Sen. Warren G. Magnuson because he had "introduced legislation for the Johnson administration favoring an increase in such trade."

"I am writing you because you have shown deep concern in the past about the future of this country," continued the ex-President's brother. "I am asking you to help us defeat Sen. Magnuson. His defeat would be dramatic proof that Americans want trade with the communists stopped."

The unfortunate thing about Edgar Eisenhower's letter is that people in the communist world do not realize that he does not represent the views of his brother, the ex-President. Dwight D. Eisenhower followed the policy started by President Truman of trading with Eastern European communist countries — a policy followed by President Kennedy and President Johnson. President Eisenhower was actually attacked by members of his own party, particularly Sen. John Tower, Tex., for selling jet fighter planes to Yugoslavia.

Other Republicans, including Rep. Paul Findlay, Ill., have tried to stop the shipment of surplus American wheat to Yugoslavia, Poland, and other, smaller European communist countries. However, this bipartisan policy of trading with Eastern Europe has paid off — as witnessed now by the democratic surge in Czechoslovakia.

Sen. Magnuson was carrying out this bipartisan policy when he introduced Senate bill S-3363 favoring increased trade with the European communist world.

Victor Wickersham, D-Okl., who cleaned up a small fortune in real estate as a Congressman, hasn't prospered in his investments back in Oklahoma. As a result, he's running for Congress again.

In a move to attract publicity, he announced that he was leaving for South Korea to demand the return of the Pueblo. Obviously one lone Congressman can't get the Pueblo released, but he can claim credit for it when the ship is finally released.

The astute and wily Oklahoman says he'll wage a "cheese and crackers" (poor mouth) campaign to unseat Democratic Rep. Tom Steed. One day before the July 15 withdrawal deadline for candidates, a friend of Wickersham's phoned Steed and urged him to get Wickersham a job in Washington.

"Vic is hard up," said the friend. "What he really wants is a job. He may get out of the race against you if you help him."

"Listen," exploded Steed, "don't you know it's against the law for me to do anything to discourage a candidate from running in a political election? You tell Vic that the only thing I will give him is a good licking on August 27."

Switchblade Knives
A lot of Congressmen who are against gun control, support a bill introduced by Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N. Y., prohibiting the manufacture of distribution of switchblade knives.

"There are five times as many violent incidents with knives as with guns," said Wolff.

Switchblade knives are now sold openly on the streets of New York and other large cities. Store owners get around a New York law by contending that the knives are

"inoperative." Recently, when Wolff bought one on 42nd Street, the merchant told him:

"You can make that one operative with a little spring you can buy in a hardware store down the street."

When Wolff reported this to the nearest police precinct station, he was told that the precinct dealt mainly with traffic problems and didn't have time to investigate knife sales. The desk sergeant promised to have someone look at a front window display in the store where the Congressman made his purchase.

"We'll report back to you," he was told.

Rooney's Economy

Gen. C. R. Smith, who put together one of the most efficient airlines in the world — American — has proved a good Secretary of Commerce, but is very green politically.

He bowed recently to the bulldozing of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., who sits as czar on the subcommittee which votes money for the Commerce Department.

Rooney demanded that John Black be fired as head of the U.S. Travel Service and that the service be moved up to the Flushing Meadows near his district in Brooklyn.

Secretary Smith acceded to the first and is reported to be acceding to the second.

All this came about when the United States is pushing for more tourists in order to help the dollar balance. Yet Black, who had made the United States the leading host country in attracting tourists, was fired.

Simultaneously and just as the USA is trying to attract tourists, Rooney's economies forced the closing of U.S. Travel offices in Italy, Venezuela, the Benelux countries, and all street-level offices in London, Paris and Frankfurt.

This is how politics can get mixed up with practicality.

New S. Viet Leftists Could Overcome Paris Deadlock

By BETTY FLYNN
WASHINGTON — A recently leftist organization in South Vietnam could be the key to overcoming the current deadlock in the Paris peace talks, U.S. officials are being told.

The Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam was founded last April 20 by a group of urban intellectuals, business elite, who oppose U. S. presence in Vietnam.

Most administration officials here view it as merely a respectable decoy for the tough Viet Cong guerrillas who run the National Liberation Front.

"We can't know how independent the alliance is of the Viet Cong and North Vietnam," said Snafo Gottleib, executive director of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

But, he said, it could be "the first political framework for Bourgeois Nationalists who want to operate independently of the NFL." The Viet Cong is largely a Communist-led peasant movement, while the alliance represents the urban middle class, Gottleib said.

He and Rodney Shaw, an executive of the United Methodist Church, have returned to Washington after talks with Hanoi and NLF officials in Prague and Paris last week.

Among those interviewed were Le Quang Chanh, a member of the NLF Central Committee; Pham Van Chuong, NLF diplomat in Prague, and Nguyen Thanh Le, official spokesman of North Viet Nam at the Paris talks.

Even if the NLF does control the alliance, its creation could help open a political dialog in South Vietnam, which eventually can bridge the big chasm now separating the front from the Saigon government.

Furthermore, the alliance may be a quiet indication that Hanoi and the Viet Cong are willing to seek ways toward moderation that should be matched by the present Saigon government.

"In the kind of political game being played at Paris," Gottleib said, "The other side has laid down a three-card with this alliance. Now it's our turn to put down at least a four."

Some state department officials believe the alliance may operate somewhat independently from the Viet Cong, even though their programs are almost identical and they express mutual support.

They know, for example, the Viet Cong feel a sense of isolation these days, that their power may be slipping away as the vacancies in their military ranks increasingly are filled either by North Vietnamese or by younger men who are involuntarily pressed into service.

The leaders of the alliance have been tried and condemned to death in Absentia by the Thieu-Ky government.

Hanoi and NLF leaders interviewed by Gottleib and Shaw last week liken the action to those of the early Diem Regime, in which suppression of a non-Communist opposition took place.

U.S. officials should begin to wield their influence on the present Saigon government to encourage a positive response to the alliance," Gottleib said.

"If the alliance is seen as an effort to build a more moderate left, there needs to be established in Saigon a more moderate right."

The North Vietnamese will not likely give up their persistent demand that the bombing be stopped and maintain they already have initiated "certain acts of restraint," such as the end of siege of Khe Sanh and the rocket attacks against Saigon.

The Last American

Editor, The Freeman:
I am very pleased that The Freeman is devoting more space to Ellenville and enjoyed reading the article in the July 1 issue that mentioned how Ellenville got its name.

I was on the verge of writing a letter or phoning you as to why "THE LAST AMERICAN" series was not in the July 19 and July 20 paper, but as tonight's Freeman has it, it saves me a job.

The series certainly is an eye opener as even though I know who Crispus Attucks was, I was not aware, as mentioned in: "Come a Revolution," that 5,000 Negroes fought in the Revolution that founded these United States.

It will be interesting to see what solution is given at the conclusion of: "THE LAST AMERICAN" series.

Even though relatively few workers, black or white, are ready to apply it, there is only one solution to racial hatred and that is Socialism because then no one will be able to profit from bias and hate because black and white workers will own the country.

Sincerely,
NATHAN PRESSMAN

Our Progress?

Editor, The Freeman:
Your editorial page of July 22, 1968 should cause people to wonder about our progress of the last decade.

1. An editorial on Welfare and how much Secretary Cohen would like to spend,

2. An editorial on Burglar Time not blaming criminals but commenting on what homeowners do wrong.

3. A Letter to The Editor from Ronald Sobieraj stating how the money spent in Vietnam could be divided according to population not how it could be saved.

4. A cartoon which blames gun owners not the criminals for killings.

There was a time when criminals were bad, saving tax money thought good and welfare was for those who needed help, not everybody in the country.

With a little more progress like this Lenin's prophesy will come true, we will spend ourself to death. Also we will have a guilt complex for everything someone else does wrong.

Head Start Curtailment Aired by Rondout Board

Disadvantages of a bill just passed by the Senate to curtail Head Start programs were discussed at this week's meeting of the Rondout Community Action Advisory Board.

Stanley Leyden, executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc., said the bill turns "the Head Start funds over to the states and prohibits us from operating similar educational programs as we do at the Rondout Day Care Center." Leyden went on to explain that the new bill provides for no requirement for resident participation or parent involvement in the Head Start Program and that the standards of poverty would now be left to the states.

Other disadvantages of the new bill mentioned by Leyden include the fact that no training funds will be available, no age limit for the children involved. The jobs of sub-professionals are now in jeopardy, he noted.

The Advisory Board sent a telegram to Senator Javits urging him to investigate the matter completely and urged others to write to the Senator.

A tour of the new Rondout Gardens housing complex is planned for next week. Many complaints have been received from area residents regarding the soundness of the new low income facility. Making the investigation tour will be Alexander Yosman, executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority; Mrs. Malinda Davis, Rondout Community Action director; the Rev. James Veatch; Joseph Babaiey, Ronald Woods and Marina Price.

Lack of shopping facilities in the downtown area was discussed and Mrs. Marina Price was appointed chairman of a Waters.

committee to investigate the problem. Petitions will be circulated demanding that residents in the area get necessary facilities such as drug stores. Elected to the advisory board were C. L. Burnett, Otis Thomas, Sharon Kennedy and Joseph Babaiey. The Rev. James Priest appointed a personnel committee headed by Ronald Woods. Members are Mrs. Eutla Williams and Mrs. Anny Waters.

Alternatives Offered For Extra Income

Q — I am middle-aged, single and working only part time because of illness. When I retire I will have no pension, just Social Security and dividends, so I would like to get all the income possible from my stock holdings. I have owned for about 10 years the following issues: Bank of America, Central Nat. Bank, Calif. Water, Pacific G. & E., Pac. Pwr. & Lt., Pac. Northwest Tel., Puro-lator and Rockwell. Should I sell any of these? What should I use for replacement? —C.G.

A — Your list falls into two rather distinct categories: income and moderate growth holdings. If you do not need additional income at this time, I would keep the list as it now stands, since your four lower-yielding issues should continue to enhance your capital. However, if your part-time salary is not sufficient, then I would suggest accepting profits in Bank of America, Central Nat. Bank and Puro-lator.

As replacements I would purchase equal dollar amounts of higher-yielding Lorillard, Ohio Edison and CIT Financial. Pacific G. & E. common could be switched to the 6 per cent $1.50 preferred for a $60 annual increase in income. These four replacements will add about $400 yearly to your income and will give you some prospects of appreciation.

Another possibility would be a high-yield bond such as Bell Tel. of Penn. 6 1/2 of 2008 or Houston Lt. & Pwr. 6 1/2 of 1998. This would increase your return by close to $700 yearly. However, capital would remain fixed.

Q — I would like your opinion on American Cyanamid bought at 40. I can afford to hold. Should I? —J.R.

A — Since you can afford to wait it out, I feel you are wise to do just that. Some earnings recovery was reported in the first quarter and further gains are expected in the balance of the year. Although the specter of the federal court's guilty verdict relative to monopolistic price-fixing will depress near-term price action, long-term prospects appear to justify holding.

LABOR COSTS OR PRIME COSTS

Q — I want to sell three stocks, amounting to $50,000, and would like you to suggest two or three growth stocks in industries where labor is not too much of a problem. —A.E.

A — The oil industry ranks first in meeting "your requirement of low labor costs," closely followed by electric utilities and banks. From each of these groups this year I have recommended for longer-term growth: Gulf Oil and Santa Fe International (for its stake in offshore drilling and oceanography); Commonwealth Edison, Ohio Edison and Philadelphia Electric; Continental Ill. Nat. Bank & Trust and Chemical Bank N.Y. Trust. Changing from the traditional to the contemporary mood, I have recently learned that the mobile home industry should be considered for its low labor costs. Construction of prefabricated units by semiskilled workers takes place indoors with no weather hindrances to keep idle men on the payroll, as often happens in outdoor construction. One of these new-type dwellings can be assembled in 43 minutes. One manufacturer states that his labor is only 10 per cent of his cost schedule.

Recreation Dept. Slates Dog Show and Swim Meet

The Kingston Recreation Department has announced it will hold, in addition to the annual Ken-L-Ration Kids Dog Show starting Monday, July 29, an age swim meet—the first ever held in Kingston—on July 30.

The swim meet is sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department and boys and girls from the ages of 5 to 17 are eligible to participate. There will be two events for each age group of boys and two events for each age group of girls. The two events are the 50-yard freestyle and the hundred-yard freestyle. The boys and girls will be divided into 6 age groups: open, 5-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, and 15-17 years.

At New Pool

The meet will be held at the new pool at Kingston Point Beach at 2 p. m. Application forms are available at each of the seven city playgrounds, the recreation office at the auditorium, and from any life guards at the Kingston Point Beach. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each of the events. Although there will be no entry or application fees, the forms cannot be accepted later than July 29. All boys and girls entering the contest should be a the pool by 2 p. m. and they are advised to be prompt and ready to swim for their scheduled event.

Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of recreation, and Ron Gabriele, director of activities, announced that the dog show would be held at each of the five major playgrounds in the Kingston City area, and that all children in the area were invited to bring their dogs to the show.

There will be five classes of dogs which will be judged: Best costumed dog, best trick dog, smallest dog, largest dog, and best groomed dog. The rules for the contest are as follows: all dogs must be clean, brushed, and on leashes. Each contestant must be on hand 10 minutes before show time, and dogs entered in the small dogs class have to be over six months old.

Joseph McTague, representative of the Ken-L-Ration, and Gabriele will be at each park to coordinate the program. Application forms may be obtained from any of the playground directors at Hutton, Hasbrouck, Loughran, Block and Forsyth Parks, or at the recreation office in the municipal auditorium.

The three-day dog show will begin July 29 at 1:30 p. m. at Forsyth Park, and will continue on Aug. 1, at the same time in Hutton Park. The last day of the dog show will be Aug. 9 in Loughran Park at 10 a. m. The event in past years has featured dogs ranging in size from Pekingese and chihuahuas, through German shepherds and collies to great Danes and St. Bernards.

Trophies and ribbons will be awarded the first, second, and third place dogs. For entering, each contestant will be awarded a white shirt and a package of dog food among other items.

The second field day of the summer season was held at Forsyth Park recently. The competition was between Loughran and Forsyth Parks. Forsyth won the field day competition, sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department, to determine the "Top Park of the Year," by a score of 15 to 9.

Waists Are Back and Flannel Makes Formal Scene

FASHION CURRENTS — How high the hem. Are you "mini" or "kneesie" this Fall? Burlington woollens plush houndstooth check is used by Whippette for "your choice" coordinates. With a Norfolk jacket you can wear a matching short pleated culotte skirt or a lean one to the knees. Klopman's carefree polyester crepe is used in the blouse-shirts, tote of same houndstooth check, tam is knitted — all are also by Whippette.

DOUBLE HEADLINES — The waist is back and gray flannel makes the formal scene. The belt returns leather bound on STJ's sleek knit dancing dress in yarn with a gray flannel look. His gray worsted flannel one-button dinner suit by Robert Weil is slicked with black satin at the peak lapels and striped down the trousers. It's worn with a blue shirt piped in black, black butterfly tie.

Fashion data, fed through a computer, has produced some fascinating answers to the fashion questions of fall '68. Burlington Industries recently conducted a cross-country opinion poll to determine the newest styling trends, had recipients mark their choices on computerized cards. The programmed responses were then given to famous designers who translated them into special creations, as new as tomorrow.

How High the Hem?

The big question of the hemline seems to be sliding around anywhere from the hip to the ankle. As solved by Vivian Wong, it's either a mid-calf gaucho pant or a mid-thigh pants-kilt—worn with a Norfolk jacket in a woolen check. Adler cuffed knee-highs, are wow with the minis... textured seamless pants-stockings with kneesie or midi lengths.

New interest in sportswear separates, and the whole casual mix-and-match idea led many editors into believing that only the super-chic could come up with a look compounded out of many different fabrics, patterns and textures. Designers Anne Klein and Vickie Cooper evolved their own solutions. Miss Klein with a wide-legged dinner pajama and short double breasted vest of red and black plaid gabardine over a woven crepe shirt with black satin back satin four-in-hand; Miss Cooper with an ingenious gray blouse and dirndl skirt whose wide wide waistband of yellow was shirred on elastic.

Both have a put-together look which the editors felt was the coming thing. All in double-knits.

Fashion Wrap-Up
Capes, with a capital C, are endemic for fall. As a case in point, tweed was shown in a cape and kilt... this year's uniform for Mademoiselle Magazine's College Editors. Three of them, the genuine articles, Bonnie August from Syracuse University, Joyce Ann Culkin from Barst University, and Jan McConnell from Colorado State modeled the new caped fashion, which scored high with the audience. The coat/pants costume, a chic outerwear alternative, for fall, was designed in luxurious worsted with a short belted coat over high waisted gaiter trousers, both warm and wonderful.

The New Young Couture
The New Young Couture received a stamp of approval across the board: flip-pleated cossack dress in red and green plaided polyester surrah is living proof of the editor's feeling that young designers have substituted dash for daring and that the youth phase is widening to include thirty, and even forty-year-olds!

Revolution in Men's Wear

Editors found that men explore fashion. The male has finally discovered color, prefers his town suit in peacock-bright blue plaid and his Nehru in a chili twill. Even his socks are color-coordinated. And he's looked into knits for sport slacks and blazers.

What's the Message?

Waistlines, the editors felt, were almost as capricious as hemlines, but all felt that the belt was back. Andrew Woods agreed with them, and created a mouth-watering drop waisted ball gown in moire voile. Speaking of evenings, gray flannel was declared a star. Men wear the gray in dinner clothes, slicked with black satin at the lapel and striped down the trousers.

'Jools' Is New Idol; Young Copy Her Style

NEW YORK (NEA)—The London Daily Mail said of Europe's newest singing sensation, "Julie Driscoll is 20 years old, wears white lipstick, has hair like a Brillo pad and on stage moves with all the macabre beauty of a vampire."

"Jools," as she is called, made her first record when she was 15. She is the darling of the young people of Paris. But not until her most recent disc, "This Wheel's on Fire," recorded with Brian Auger and The Trinity, did she become a sensation in her native England. That record has now been released here on Acto label on the high hope that it will be the top platter on the American hit parade within a few weeks.

If Jools becomes the idol here that she is now in Europe where her hair, make-up and clothes are wildly copied, watchers of the fashion scene are in for a shock.

"Elle," France's most successful and influential women's magazine, photographed Julie for its cover in the kind of clothes she likes to wear and even asked her to design some for their readers. And what Julie likes to wear are bits and pieces she picks up from antique stalls, even though her first job was showroom assistant to the elegant fashion house of Worth.

"I just dig old clothes," she said. "I enjoy dollying myself up like a granny. I put on an old sequin jacket or shove on a boa." Her skirts are longer than maxi—circa 1910-1918.

"If I like a dress that's too big, I just put a belt around it. I like clothes that just flop around and would fit anyone."

Not to be outdone by "Elle," our top fashion magazines are bound to feature Jools. And if American fans believe, as her European fans do, that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, here's what we can expect to see:

Miss Driscoll's wardrobe includes such gems as an Edwardian lace coat and dress, a threadbare schoolgirl coat bought for 7c 6d, floppy broad-brimmed hats and a pair of shaggy black boots.

Well, at least she'll be a boon to small business. Not only will thrift shops increase their sales, but health stores, too. For Jools buys all her make-up in health shops.

She never uses soap and water on her face. She cleanses it with milk, tissues off the milk and then pats on tonic. If her skin gets dry, she uses rosewater and honey.

For shampoo, it's a mixture of camomile and rosemary and her face make-up is loose powder with lots of yellow in it and green loose powder for her chin, cheekbones and nose. The powder is made of herbs, naturally.

If this 5-foot-8 swinger who belts out a song in a man-sized voice influences the fashion scene here, yellow and green faces and thrift shop clothes won't be the only innovations.

Coeds will be late for class and career girls late for jobs. Because it takes Julie two hours to make up her eyes in a manner sure to be imitated.

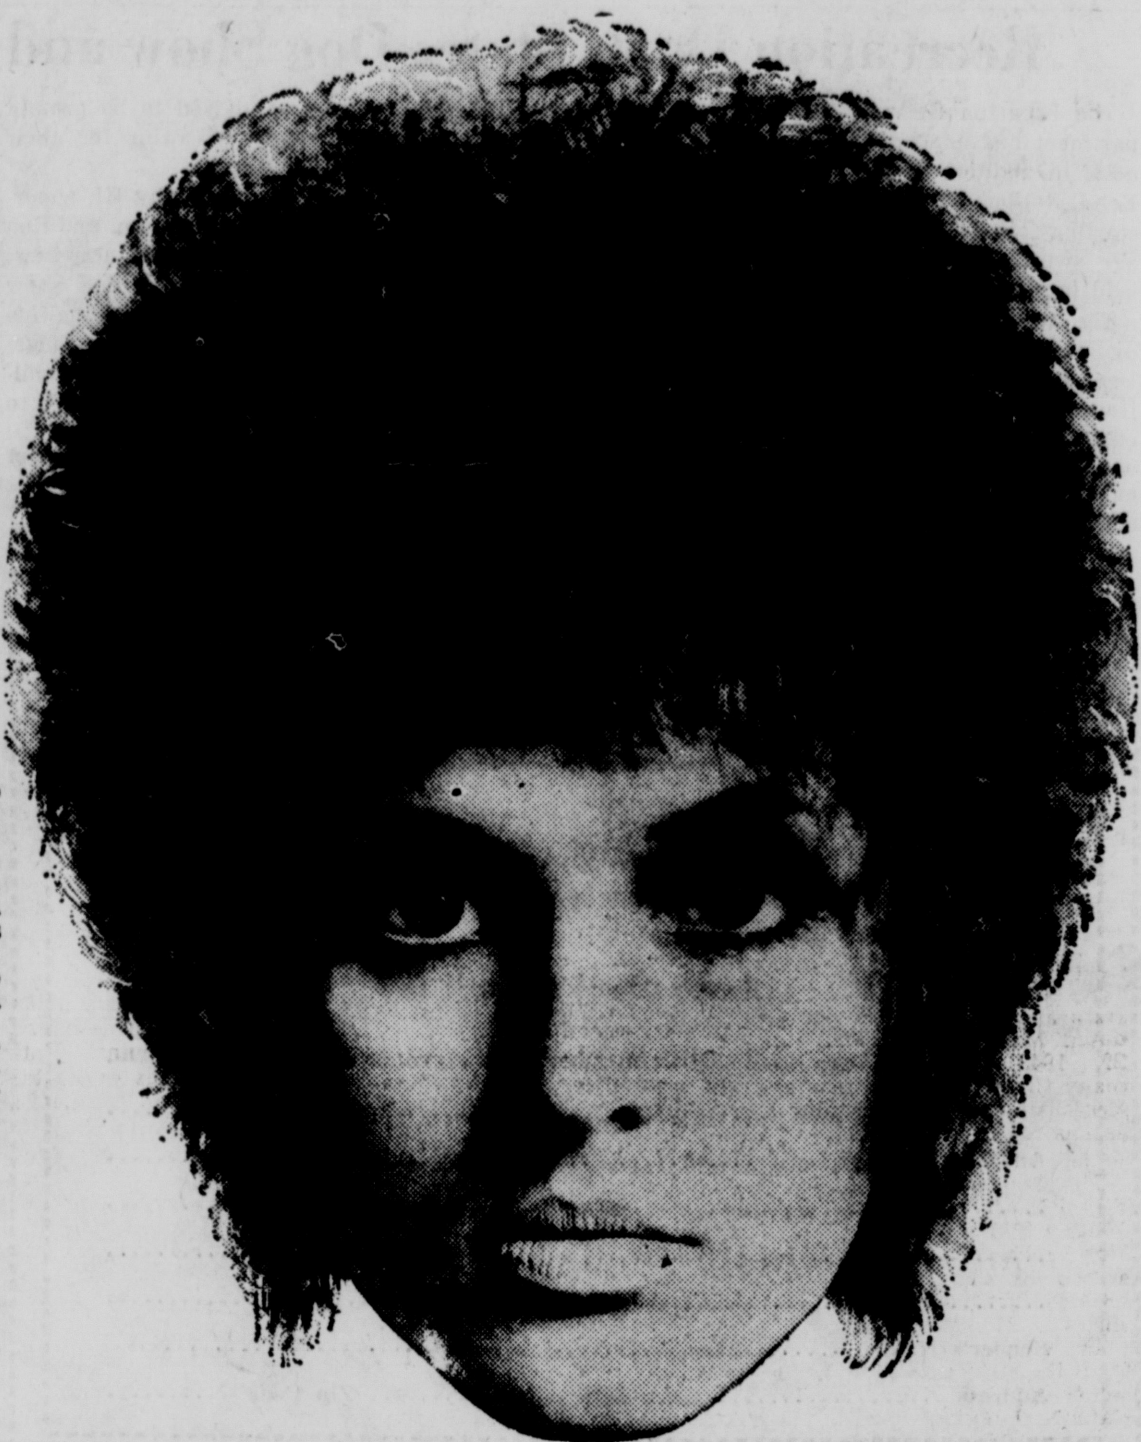

She blends a gray-tan base on her eyelids, then meticulously paints the entire upper lid in a pattern of vertical lines that give a clear-as-glass look to her round blue eyes.

And now for the topping. Julie's hair is short and frizzy as steel wool.

"I had such a hard time straightening it," she said. "Every day I had to use the tongs to take out the curl. So I got it permed instead. Me mum did it and I cut it myself."

And there you have Julie Driscoll who may soon be the original to thousands of young carbon copies on Main Street anywhere.

JULIE DRISCOLL

Nothing Like a Trip to Italy to Learn The Correct Way to Eat Spaghetti

By MARSHA DU BROW

ROME (UPI)—It took me 24 years to end my cultural deprivation with my first trip to Europe. I was not going as an "ugly American," but as a curious traveler, determined to absorb as much knowledge as I could.

Since the trip was to Italy only, naturally some of that knowledge should be in learning to eat spaghetti correctly.

My first "trattoria" was filled with only about 30 patrons.

Perhaps two or three were female.

I inconspicuously slipped out my flaming orange, green and white "Berlitz Italian for Travelers," and its companion, the sparkling gold "Diner's Dictionary."

Two Romanesque men sitting next to me came immediately to my aid. They explained each menu item ingredient by ingredient in both French and English and eventually decided to order for me.

My wine selection caused some controversy within the tiny restaurant. One contingent insisted I have white wine. Another group vociferously argued for red.

I settled the furious debate by choosing rose—and thanked all with my best "Grazie."

I congratulated myself on averting a civil war but chastised myself for not knowing Italian, at least menu Italian.

A portly, elderly Italian man walked in and sat down at my table. I must have chosen the Roman counterpart of an automaton.

He leered at me and asked, "No." "Francaise?" "Non—'Italiana'?" "No." "English?" "Scusi." But the Italians are most persistent.

"Deutsch?" "Nein." "Americano?"

Fortunately my spaghetti arrived. He was exhausting my foreign vocabularies.

Now the moment of truth had come and all my fellow diners knew it.

I swallowed my pride and began on the spaghetti.

Pseudo-confidently I took my fork and began spinning, Italian style, but the spaghetti didn't spin. I stabbed another strand and had too much success. A tomato splashed my eyes. My cheeks were turning the shade of the tomato too.

Spaghetti Technique

My neighbors once again came to my aid. One took the fork and began winding and explaining the technique.

I stuffed the wad of pasta into my mouth. My cheeks puffed as I chewed, but I choked only once, mildly, and finally downed the mass.

Enthusiastic clapping exploded. After each of my successful attempts the fascinated onlookers cried, "Bene, molto bene!" "Bravissima!"

The owner of the restaurant was so amused that he refused to accept my money. Instead, he asked me to "perform" at dinner—on the house.

The Vatican is a must on any visit to Rome. How much trouble could I get into at the Vatican? I soon found out. I was careful to observe tradition so I wore a long-sleeved dress, my longest, and a scarf despite the suffocating heat.

I scoffed at a culotte-suited woman who was being turned away from St. Peter's Basilica. She was protesting loudly in a Miami Beach accent, "Haven't you Italians ever read Harper's Bazaar?"

But he who scoffs last... Just then an Italian man ushered me out of the basilica.

He was growling "mini, mini." He rapped his umbrella on a sign which read, "Women improperly dressed are forbidden to enter."

I turned to him and coldly stated, "But sir, as you can see, I am NOT improperly dressed!"

He then rapped at my barely exposed knees.

Not a 'Mini'

That forced me to make a non-literal translation. "No mini." I raised my silk jersey dress to the optimum decency permits and said, "Questa e mini."

I shuddered free of his grip and huffed back inside.

Later, I got lost in the Vatican Museum and asked a fellow American (you can always tell one) where the Sistine Chapel was.

"Oh, the Christine Chapel?"

"That'll do."

"Straight ahead, Ma'am."

Finally my day of sightseeing ended. I panted along the Tiber River on the way back to my hotel.

Brooklynese, "My, isn't the Grand Canal high today!" Well, at least she didn't call it the Seine.

Once at my hotel I headed for a Campari with "molto" soda and ice. It was time for reflection—not so much about Rome but about pinches.

I had been in Italy one entire day and had not received one pinch.

Proposals, yes. Pinches, no. My figure borders between voluptuous and voluminous, but that should be just to the Italian liking. As I re-evaluated my sex appeal, or lack thereof, I felt a slight pain. Yes—my first pinch.

I jubilantly swung around to recite the phrase I had memorized from the museums, "No toccare!" (Don't touch.)

Whom did I see but a man in a four-button-vested suit and a homburg.

"Oh, dear. I'm terribly sorry," said the Bond Street type in an Oxford accent. "I do hope I haven't offended you."

I was so disappointed at his being Anglo-Saxon that I could barely speak. "No. Perfectly all right."

He confessed, "It's my first trip to Italy and the Latin atmosphere must have rather affected me. Do let me make it up to you. Shall we see Rome by night?"

So the first evening I left Berlitz behind.

But the Italian males and their proverbial pinches soon came.

THE CASE OF THE Registered Bride

No mystery about it. We invite all brides-to-be to register with us their preferences of silver, china and crystal. Then when friends and relatives come in to choose a wedding gift, we tell them her choice of patterns, inform them which items have already been purchased. This avoids duplication and disappointment. This service is gratis to all prospective brides.

GLORIA JEAN SMITH

(Lakeside Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Smith Sr. of 23 Hone Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Jean, to Pvt. Raymond Edward Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jansen of 105 Hone Street, Kingston.

Raymond Jansen is now serving in the United States Army and is stationed in West Berlin, Germany.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Patchin Family Reunion Scheduled To Be Held in Kingston Aug. 17-18

The 30th reunion of the Patchin-Patchin Family, which traces its heritage back to one of America's greatest warriors, Gen. Freegift Patchin, will be held in Kingston this year on Aug. 17-18.

Registrations will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel where the annual meeting will be held. On Saturday, Aug. 17, there will be a meeting and dinner at 6 p.m. at Norrie Point State Park, Staatsburg.

On Sunday the family members will attend the churches of their choice and at 1 p.m. dinner will be held at the hotel.

More than 500 invitations have been sent to members of the clan to all parts of the U.S. Included among them are many families in Ulster County.

The family lineage started in this country prior to the Revolutionary War. Gen. Patchin served in three parts of the Revolution, enlisting in Fairfield, Conn., in the spring of 1776 as a fitter. His second and third applications of service are dated May 15, 1789 and June 22, 1843. He was captured many times by the Indians and British but always was able to escape and renew his service to his country.

The courageous forefather of the Patchin family was appointed brigadier general of the New York Militia in 1806 and served in that capacity until 1814 covering a period through the War of 1812.

These facts have been gleaned from the 1073-page History and Genealogy of the Patchin-Patchin Family.

In the family records it mentions the item in a Kingston paper dated May 6, 1886 of a long and very interesting account of the capture of Freegift Patchin by Chief Brant and of his imprisonment among the Indians in Canada during the Revolution.

The general's Army commission is on display at the Senate House in Kingston. A monument of General Patchin was erected in 1928 at North Blenheim, Schoharie County.

The local Ulster County members are descendants from the grandparents of Frederick and Charity Patchin Becker, who resided in Blenheim. Their home was situated on the Schoharie Creek.

During a violent storm a flash flood developed in which their home was carried away by the water of the creek and after that the family moved to South Rondout where one of their daughters was living.

Many of the Becker families are still residents of Kingston and the Town of Esopus. The history of the family printed in 1952 by International Printing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., is available to family members and contains many photos and vital information about the family.

The association officers this year are Rear Admiral Robert W. Knox of Alexandria, Va., president; Frederick H. Patchin, Montclair, N. J., vice president; Ruth Leggett Friends of Romulus, second vice president; Grace L. Schaffler, Oberlin, Ohio, executive secretary; Erlene White, Buffalo, treasurer, and Mildred Patchin.

Reunions in the past have been held in Sturbridge, Mass., 1964; West Point, 1965; Newbury, Ohio, 1966, and Fredonia, 1967. This year's reunion had been originally scheduled for Gettysburg, Pa., but through the efforts of a local invitation committee headed by Clarence L. Hyde of 75 Clifton Avenue, this city, Kingston was the city chosen for 1968.

Mr. Hyde gave a historical review of Kingston and enhanced his invitation with a list of the various activities available to visitors to this city.

Many of the family are expected to arrive here Friday afternoon, Aug. 16 or early Saturday to avail themselves of the Old Stone House tours at 2 p.m.

Those in this area may make reservations at the Gov. Clinton Hotel by calling Caroline Hatch at the hotel.

As in previous years individual introduction of each member will be made at the dinner. There are more than 40 local people who have been invited to attend.

Other members of the invitation committee include Christine Wilson, Connelly; Edward and Edith Mains, Port Even, and Harry and Hazel Mains of Esopus.

Mrs. Charles King Visiting Hawaii

Mrs. Charles T. King, the former Estelle Fatum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fatum of South Washington Avenue, Kingston, is spending a week in Hawaii where she is visiting her husband, Major Charles T. King.

Major King, a U.S. Army career man, is stationed in Vietnam and is on a rest leave. He will return to Vietnam to complete his tour of duty there before returning to the states the latter part of November.

Named to Dean's List

Stephen S. Davis, Richmond Park, Kingston and Long Island, a sophomore in the college of Liberal Arts has been named to the dean's list with honors for the second semester of the 1967-68 academic year at Suffolk University, Boston, Mass. Announcement was made by Dr. Donald Goodrich, vice president and dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

In order to qualify for the dean's list at Suffolk University, a student must earn an average of "B" or higher for that semester.

Willing Workers

The Willing Workers will sponsor a card party at Metta-cabotts Hall on Thursday, Aug. 8, at 8 p.m. Awards will be given and refreshments served.

Convenience Costs

About 66 per cent of what the homemaker pays for food covers costs of transporting, processing, packaging, storing and other factors involved in moving food more quickly in convenient form to modern homes.

Recent market research indicates that consumer demands for convenience foods have increased two or three times faster than the demand for the basic food itself from the farmer. Thus, less of the food dollar goes to the farmer and more goes into the services related to convenience.

Christian Dior Presents Jackets For Every Hour

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior held hemlines two inches above the knee today and presented a close-to-the-body silhouette that included jackets dropped to wrist length or fingertip length for every hour.

For daytime and city wear the longer jackets appeared throughout. For sports he does them in gray flannel or heavy wools. They are always belted and lined with bright colors or muted fall shades which are recalled in the top of the dress or sweater.

Marc Bohan, Dior's designer, is firmly on the gold standard. All that glitters is gold—buttons, embroideries, sequins. Entire sections of dresses or cocktail sheaths are paved in gold sequins. He also likes Dior moonlight blue sequins and black jets.

Cocuzzi-Tetlow Engagement Announced

MISS KARIN COCUZZI

The engagement has been announced between Miss Karin Cocuzzi and Timothy Chadwick Tetlow. A country wedding has been planned for August 17 in the Clove Chapel, High Falls, to be followed by an outdoor reception at the home of the prospective bridegroom's parents in Allgerville.

Miss Cocuzzi is the granddaughter of the late Hester Pinney of Racedown, Dorset, England. The future bride is the daughter of Luigi Cox, an antique dealer in Canterbury, England, and Dr. Rachel Pinney, a London physician. Miss Cocuzzi received her degree in philosophy from the University of Keele in England. She is a research associate with Fortune magazine.

Tetlow is the son of Edwin Tetlow, British author and journalist, and Kathleen Tetlow, who reside in Allgerville, High Falls. He received his degree in Political Science from the University of North Carolina and subsequently became associated with Kingston real estate broker, Raymond E. Craft, with whom he still maintains a parttime affiliation.

The couple will live in New York City and maintain a home on Ace All Road near Allgerville for weekend use.

DePasquale Quartet to Perform

The De Pasquale String Quartet will offer a contrast in musical styles when the group performs Mozart's Quartet in C Major, K. 465, and the Quartet by Debussy, Op. 10, at Canfield Casino in Congress Park, Saratoga Springs, Monday, July 29, at 8:30 p.m.

The performance is part of the Connoisseur Series of chamber music concerts sponsored by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

All four of the De Pasquale brothers—William and Robert, violinists; Joseph, violist; and Francis, cellist—have been members of the Philadelphia Orchestra since 1964.

In 1958, however, when they first began playing quartets together professionally, each of the brothers was with a different orchestra. Joseph was with the Boston Symphony, William was concertmaster of the New Orleans Symphony, Robert was

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Stauning of Elnora, formerly of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Jeanne, to Frank Steven Coletta, son of Mrs. Vera Vardakis, of Rhode Island and the late John Coletta.

Miss Stauning, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Ensign, and Mrs. Arthur Perryman of Elnora, is a graduate of Saugerties High School, and is in her senior year at State University College at New Paltz.

Coletta, an alumnus of State University College at New Paltz, is teaching Junior High School art at Dawnwood Central Schools, Centerreach, Long Island.

A wedding is planned for June, 1969.

Wedding Announced

Miss Cheryl Dasher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dasher of 510 8th Street, Marysville, became the bride of Stephen E. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Smithtown, at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Marysville, Ohio. Hamilton is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. Wernicke of Rosendale.

The Rev. Donald Bachman and the Rev. Robert Browning of Gibsonburg, cousin of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony. White gladioli, yellow roses and baby's breath decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale ivory silk organza gown in an A-line skimmer silhouette with Alencon lace appliques encrusted with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of gardenias, yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Linda Moder of Marysville, was maid of honor. She wore a pale yellow dotted swiss gown and carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed yellow roses.

Attendants were the Misses Micki McCracken of Denver, Colo., cousin of the bride; Susan Foster of Wilkesboro, N. C.; Gayle Yosua of Baltimore, Md., and Cassie Hess of Kaine, Pa. They wore gowns fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and carried arm bouquets of long-stemmed yellow roses.

Miss Molli Dasher, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a silk Swiss embroidered dress.

Cars, Coast to Coast

Americans eat enough food in a year to fill all of the box cars of eight freight trains stretching from New York to San Francisco. That amounts to over 2½ tons per average family of four. It represents modern agricultural, marketing, transportation and storage techniques moving all the varied products from every part of the country to Mrs. Home-maker, wherever she lives.

Additional costs like these would be even higher if efficiency had not increased. Output per man hour in food marketing has increased an average of 2.8 per cent per year for the last 10 years.

To Market, to Market

Marketing costs, which are reflected in what the consumer pays for food, have risen. One reason is simply this: there is more food marketed for a growing population.

Labor costs which are 42 per cent of the marketing bill have gone up 40 per cent since 1957-59. Goods and services involved in marketing have risen about 10 per cent during that period while other services like rent, property insurance and maintenance have increased about 20 per cent.

Adams Takes 5-Shot Lead in Final Round

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Rick Adams, a 17-year-old Johnson City High school star, carried a five stroke lead into today's (6:30 a.m.) final round of the 1968 New York State Jaycees Sports Spectacular golf championships but he was looking anxiously over his shoulder to a pair of menacing challengers.

Adams blazed around Wiltwyck Country Club in a brilliant 3-under-par 69 in Friday's morning round and carved out a 1-under-par 35 on the front nine of the afternoon round. He then soared to a 43 on the incoming nine for a 78 and 36-hole score of 147.

Five shots away came Don Kaled, the 14-year-old Junior champion of 1967, with 76-76-152. Ed Byman of Kingston, one of the pre-tourney favorites, rallied from an opening 82 to tour the 7,000-yard layout in a 1-under-par 35-36-71 in the afternoon for 153.

Tied with 154's were Francis McKevitt of Rome and John Gehling of Huntington, L.I. David Kenawicz of Rome was alone at 156. Bracketed at 157 were Kingston's Joe Bostic; John Callahan of Schenectady and Carl Nanni of Rochester.

Werner Kolln of Kingston qualified with a 158, along with three others in that bracket.

Bobby Byman, the 14-year-old Wiltwyck Country Club player, was safely in at 81-81-162 and was second behind Kaled in the Junior division.

Doug Tataro and Dan Brown of Kingston failed to finish among the 36 qualifiers who will battle for four spots in the Jaycees International in Tulsa, Oklahoma in August.

Adams, who represents the IBM Country Club at Endicott, opened his morning assault on Wiltwyck with birdies on No. 1 and No. 2. He bogied the third hole, then posted 13 consecutive pars before finishing with birdies on No. 17 and No. 18 for a 35-34-69.

He made the turn in one-under par 35 in the afternoon, but quickly ran into trouble. His approach shot on the 10th hole bounced out of bounds and he picked up a double-bogey six. He parred the 11th but hit the rough with his drive on the par-five 12th. After a good recovery, he was short on two approaches and rimmed the cup for a chance at a five.

Adams picked up additional bogeys on 14, 15 and 17. At 18, he had a chance for a birdie, three from six feet but nicked the cup for a 43 and 78.

Byman posted birdies on No. 2 and No. 6 and bogied the fifth for a one-under 35 on the front nine in the afternoon. On the back nine, he birdied the two pars to offset bogeys on 11 and 13 for an even par 36.

Winners in the special competitions were:

Closest to the pin on No. 11—the tie between Rocco Impaglia, Auburn, and Bobby Byman, Kingston, 8 ft. 10 in.; Seniors—David Young, Lakewood, 8 ft. 4 in.

Longest drive on 17—Senior—Roger Loop, 247 feet; Junior

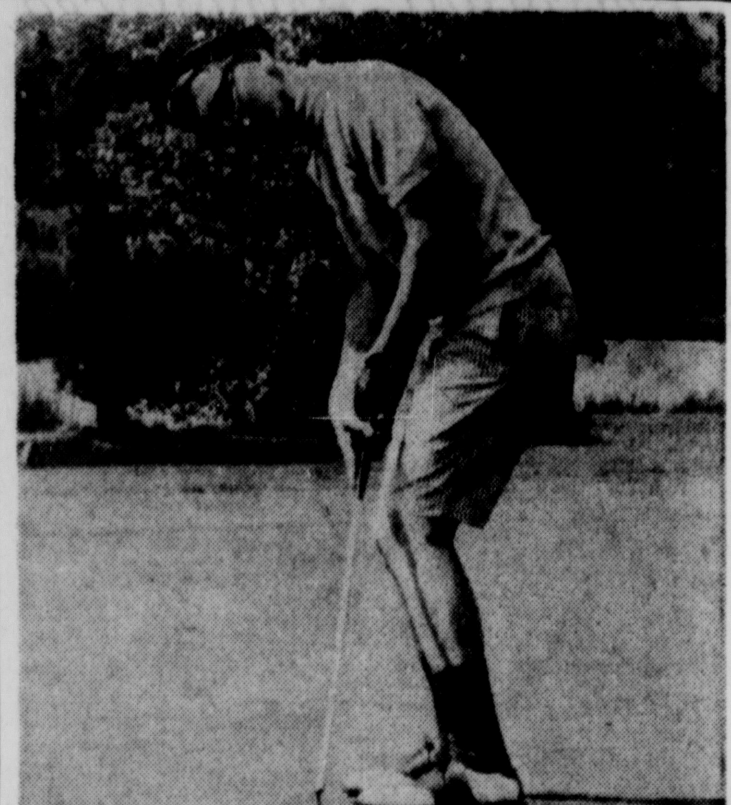

—Don Kaled, W. Genesee, 248 feet.

THE LEADER—In the New York State Sports Spectacular Golf Tournament, Rick Adams, sends cupward a beautiful putt on the seventh green at Wiltwyck Country Club Friday. Adams of Johnson City, went into today's final round with a five stroke lead over Don Kaled and six over Kingston's Ed Byman. Johnson had a three-under 69 on the first 9-hole and came back with a six-over 78 for his 36-hole, half-way total of 147. (Staff photo by Bob Haines).

TOP-SEEDED FINALIST, Dave Roberts, displays the form that earned him the number-one ranking in the New York State Jaycees Sports Spectacular Tennis Tournament. Roberts, an easy straight sets victor through the first three rounds, met friend and teammate, Bill Zeeh, in the finals at Forsyth Park this afternoon. (Staff photo by Bob Haines).

Carol Mann Toting Four Leaf Clover for Luck in Supertest

By ROBERT D. BOTT

TORONTO (UPI) — Carol Mann had a three-stroke lead and a 24-carat gold four-leaf clover in her golf bag going for her today as she led the field going into the final round of the Supertest Ladies Open golf tournament.

Miss Mann, 27, at 6-foot-3, the tallest gal on the pro tour, was four-under-par at 142 for the first two rounds of the 54-hole tournament at the Bayview Golf and Country Club. Her nearest competitor was Sandra Palmer of Port St. Lucie, Fla., who was one under par at 145.

"Maybe it's good luck," said Miss Mann. "I've had good luck since Christmas when my mother gave me a big 24-carat gold four-leaf clover. It's heavy, but I feel better when I know it's in the bottom of my golf bag.

"Also, I was in Rome in February and was blessed by the Pope. I'm not Catholic, but I was educated in a Catholic school and it's the religion I know best. Whatever it is it's certainly worked," she said.

Miss Mann, defending champion at the Supertest and leading money winner on the ladies tour this year, also hoped to vindicate herself after last week's tournament in Cincinnati where she was given the title after a two-stroke penalty was called against front-runner Marilyn Smith.

Miss Palmer, shot a one under par 72 Friday, the best score for the day, to move into second place ahead of Sybil Griffin of Boyton, Fla., who was at 146 with a pair of par 73s. Tied for fourth at 147 were Gloria Ehret of Danbury, Conn.; Joann Prentice of Columbia, S.C.; and Pam Barnett of Manomonee Falls, Wis.

Judy Kimball of Sutton, Mass.; Clifford Ann Creed of Largo, Fla.; and Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis, Ind., were at 148, while Muriel Lindstrom of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Marlene Stewart Streif of Toronto were tied at 149.

Mrs. Streif, former U.S. Women's amateur champion, was the leading amateur and the leading Canadian going into the final round. She had gotten off to a good start Thursday with a two under par 71, but fell back Friday with a 73.

Wendy Hodgson Cops Girl's Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) —

Wendy Hodgson of McConellsville captured first place in the New York State Junior Girl's Golf Championship with a one-up victory Friday over Sarah Jane Stuhler of Amsterdam.

Wendy, the 17-year-old Camden High student, took a three-up lead in the match play after nine holes at the Nottingham Knolls course here, but a rally by Miss Stuhler evened the match after the 17th hole.

On the last hole, Wendy hit her second shot into the rough but recovered with a 150 yard shot to the front of the green. She then chipped to within three feet of the cup and putted in.

The 15-year-old Sarah Jane got into a trap on her third shot and was not able to recover, shooting a six to Wendy's five.

Underdog Zeeh Surprise Finalist

He is rated the underdog in his 10 a. m., State Jaycees

Spectacular Senior tennis finals against his teammate, Dave Steve Shambach of Lockport, Roberts, today at Forsyth Park, 6-1, 6-2, then topped David varsity player gained sweet revenge over third-seeded Dick Schild of Nyack Friday, beating his Section 9 conqueror in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Zeeh then returned to the courts for his third match of the day and polished off the tournament's No. two seeded player, Rich Johns of Glens Falls, 6-4, 6-1, completing the sweep without a loss of a set.

Roberts, top-seeded, lived up to all expectations. After a first round bye, he eliminated Steve Shambach of Lockport, 6-1, 6-2, then topped David Elkovitch of Auburn, 6-4, 6-2. Elkovitch earlier downed Tom Bloodgood of Nyack, the No. four seed, 7-5, 7-5.

As a team, Roberts and Zeeh advanced to the semi-finals of the doubles, setting up a possible all-Kingston sweep of the senior tournament. They turned back the strong challenge of Johns of Glens Falls and Jerry McAvey of Niagara Falls, 6-4, 6-3.

Roberts and Zeeh faced the powerful Nyack tandem of Bloodgood and Schild in a match to decide a finalist. The other semi-final, pits the Rochester tandem of Robert Headman and Dick Wilton against Lockport's Shambach and Elkovitch from Auburn.

Mike Lindner of Brooklyn, the defending champion in the 16-and-under division, gained the finals against R. J. Norton of Nyack.

Lindner trounced Russell Bullock of Niagara Falls in the second round, 6-0, 6-1, then routed Robert Resnick of Nyack, 6-0, 6-0. Norton, meanwhile, knocked off No. two seed, Cliff Cramer, 7-5, 4-6, 10-8, following a prior 6-3, 6-4 victory over Pete Boyd of Kingston. Resnick won over the second round, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Tuttle scored a major upset in the second round when she eliminated top-seeded Ann

Furriel of Rome, 6-3, 6-4. She topped Paula Shank of Niagara Falls in the semi-finals.

Braves-Missiles Tangle 3 Times

The Kingston Braves, already

of the Hudson Valley Rookie

League, play a three-game schedule this weekend against the same team, the Cornwall

Missiles, with two of those contests counting in the first round standings only.

The Braves, second in the first round chart to the Missiles

by two games, own a 4-1 record compared to the Missile's 8-1 mark.

The teams tangle Saturday night at Dietz Stadium in a single game with starting time

8 p.m. On Sunday the teams play a doubleheader at Newburgh's Recreation Park. First pitch is slated for 2 p.m.

Of those clashes, the Saturday outing and the nightcap of the first round roundup.

The opener Sunday goes into the lineup for the second half—the round the Braves currently lead with a won-loss record of 4-1.

Only a dozen games are scheduled in each of the rounds and the Braves must sweep both first round encounters to keep their pennant hopes alive.

Cornwall, should it knock off

Kingston in either first half contest, would then clinch a tie. A sweep gives the Missiles the title outright.

The league's championship is decided at the end of the season when the first round titlist and second go-round victor meet in a best-of-five series. Should one team take both ends, it is declared the crownbearer sans the playoff.

Coach Paul Giannuzzi's

Braves will be out for the sweep of all three. He would like to increase the half-game edge they hold over the New-

ets in the second round and wants at least a solid shot at the first half pennant.

Although the Braves' skipper hasn't named his starting pitch-

date, is certain to be on the mount at the beginning of one of the trio of games.

Giannuzzi has five others from which to choose. He has Dick

Bream, Charles Jones, Charlie

Moore, Bob Speirs and Frank

McGowan. Of this quintet, the most successful so far have been Bream and Speirs. Jones,

the Kingston High strikeout king has been a spotty starter, but if he has the proper rest, might get the nod. Moore has put in plenty of relief time and McGowan, shelved temporarily because of a sore arm, might be okay in time to see some relief action. The rest of the

punch, remains intact.

City Hoop Loop

Playoff Sunday

The Foster Coach House

entry in the Kingston Summer

Recreation Basketball League's

College Division takes on De-

Mico Motors in the first of a best-of-three game playoff to ship.

The contest's tipoff time is 8 p.m., Sunday, at the Kingston

Municipal Auditorium.

Both teams hold a victory over the other in a three-run circuit, DeMico's having triumphed early in the season, by some 15 points. Foster avenging that defeat with a nine-point victory.

Both teams have just one loss.

The scholastic division has not completed its season as yet.

Magic Two-Minute Mile Done 3 Times at Vernon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three harness horses posted times of less than two minutes Friday night in winning separate races at Vernon Downs.

Fulla Napoleon, driven by Rich Thomas, paced the mile in a sparkling 1:57.15 to capture the $15,000 Thomas P. Gaines Memorial Trophy for 3-year-old colts in a Grand Circuit race.

Sunnie Tar, driven by Joe O'Brien, turned the mile in 1:58.25 in winning the $10,351 Flora Temple Stake for 3-year-old pacing fillies in another Grand Circuit race.

Aztec went the mile in 1:59.45 to sweep the $4,000 invitational trot.

The races highlighted harness action in New York State.

Fulla Napoleon equaled the mark for the fastest mile of the season set earlier in the year by Best of All at Sportsman's Park in Chicago. The colt came from last in a five-horse race to win handily over Bye & Large. A win ticket paid $3.60.

Sunnie Tar romped to a 7 1/2-length victory over Tartar Sauce. Donora followed in third place. The winner returned $3.40.

At other tracks:

—Ovaltime ($15) held off Hodge Special to win the $10,000 early closer M-Y-R series pace at Yonkers Raceway. Four Leaf was third in the mile, timed in 2:00.35.

Giants' Sherman: "Fit and Ready"

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—The New York Giants put the finishing touches on their first week of training camp Friday and coach Allie Sherman pronounced everyone "fit and ready" for Saturday's initial intra-squad scrimmage game.

The Giants ran through two lengthy practice sessions at Fairfield University with the emphasis on pass offense. Quarterback Fran Tarkenton alternated with Earl Morrill and Tom Kennedy — and all three were on target.

Veteran receivers Joe Morrison and Aaron Thomas shared the spotlight in the morning workout with flashy rookie Joe Koonz, a No. 9 draft pick from San Francisco State. Koonz has impressed Sherman and his staff with his ability to get open despite a lack of sprinter's speed.

Sherman said he hopes to give every man on the roster a chance to perform in Saturday's hour-long scrimmage. No squad cuts are planned until after films of the scrimmage have been viewed by the Giant coaches.

Owen dropped a third strike in the fourth game of the 1941 World Series with Brooklyn leading the New York Yankees 4-3 and it cost the Dodgers the game and perhaps the championship. Dalrymple pulled his "rock" with the Phils leading 4-2 and it enabled the Braves to pull out a 5-4 triumph.

The Braves also won the second game 3-2 to complete a double-header sweep, gain a game on the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals and extend the Phils' losing streak to their longest since the 1964 pennant collapse.

Grant Jackson, in relief of Rick Wise, retired the first two batters in the ninth and broke a sharp curve ball past Felipe Alou for a called third strike. But the ball eluded Dalrymple and Alou reached first without a play. Felix Millan followed with a single and Hank Aaron unloaded his 20th homer into the left field seats.

The Cards split a twinbill with the Pittsburgh Pirates, winning the opener 9-1 and losing the second game 5-4-8, 10 innings. The New York Mets shut out the Cincinnati Reds 2-0, the Houston Astros defeated the San Francisco Giants 4-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in other National League games.

Aaron's homer was the 501st of his career but only the second for the Braves in the last 12 days. Joe Torre homered in the eighth inning of the nightcap and it proved to be the winning margin when Johnny Callison tripled home a run in the ninth.

Winning pitcher Milt Pappas singled in the go-ahead run in the second inning of the nightcap but was forced to leave the game after a sixth-inning liner by Richie Allen hit him in the right leg.

A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Jose Pagan in the 19th inning lifted the Pirates to their nightcap decision, snapping the Cards' five-game winning streak, after Roger Maris was called out at third on an appeal play in the eighth inning while apparently scoring the winning run on a sacrifice fly. Maris hit a two-run homer in the opener and Julian Javier drove in three runs in support of Nelson Briles' seven-hit pitching.

Dick Simpson collected three of the Astros' five hits, including a run-producing single, and

Beau Brummel Triumphant; First Time for New Owners

MONTICELLO—Beau Brummel, bought just a week ago by Walter and Margaret Di-senza of New Jersey from the Arden Homestead Stable of Goshen, rewarded his new owners with a very impressive triumph at Monticello Raceway last night, winning the feature fourth race trot, worth $3,000, by a length over six others. In the process, Beau Brummel was timed in 2:06, giving the four-year-old chestnut horse a new lifetime mark.

Koosman Shutout: His 14th Victory

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rookie Jerry Koosman hurled his sixth shutout and gained his 14th victory of the year on a four-hitter Friday night as the New York Mets snapped the Cincinnati Reds' six-game winning streak with a 2-0 triumph.

The 23-year-old southpaw, who blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 in his last outing, did not allow a runner to reach third base as he outdueled Tony Cloninger and boosted his record to 14-5. Koosman surrendered only four singles, walked two, hit a batter and struck out eight.

Ed Charles scored both runs for the Mets on infield outs by Ron Swoboda. Charles opened the second inning by beating out an infield roller and moved to second on Ed Kranepool's bloop single to left. Both runners moved up on a sacrifice by J.C. Martin and Charles scored as Swoboda grounded out to second base.

The Mets scored another run

'Stott-Pepi' Team For 5-0 Yanks Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a first inning double and a two-run single in the eighth inning Friday night to give the New York Yankees a 5-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians behind the seven-hit pitching of Mel Stottlemyre.

The Yankees scored a run in the first inning on doubles by Roy White and Pepitone and wrapped up the game with a three run rally in the eighth off loser Sam McDowell, 10-9.

Bobby Cox opened the eighth with a single and took second on Stottlemyre's sacrifice. Cox took third on Horace Clarke's infield single and scored when McDowell's throw with White's grounder to second in an attempt to get Clarke was wide. Clarke was safe at second and both runners advanced on a wild pitch before scoring on Pepitone's single.

Stottlemyre struck out three and walked none, picking up his 13th victory of the season against seven losses. It was the Yankee righthander's fourth shutout and lowered his earn-run-average to 2.26. Stottlemyre was in trouble

Disputed Homer Gives Jets International Loop Victory

Rochester downed Buffalo 6-3 in 14 innings and cellar-dwelling Richmond scored a 4-1 victory over Jacksonville.

Toledo's Mud Hens scored six runs in the first inning and held on to defeat Syracuse. Keys to the victory were Bob Christian's two-run double and Ike Brown's two-run homer, his eighth of the season.

Rochester had to wait until the 14th inning before an error by Buffalo relief pitcher Casey Cox opened the way for three Red Wing runs, two of them earned.

BB AND FRIEND — French film queen Brigitte Bardot and male companion, Genesee ship owner Luigi "Gigi" Rizzi, stroll along beach front in Monaco following their arrival on board the yacht "Jannick." Reports of a "tender friendship" between the couple has been circulating, stemming from Rizzi's frequent — allegedly — appearances at Miss Bardot's St. Tropez villa, "La Madrague," which Rizzi is reported to have purchased. Miss Bardot is married to West German millionaire Gunther Sachs. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Wildcat Strike Threat In Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A threat of wildcat strikes hangs over the basic steel labor negotiations even if a big industry-wide settlement is reached before midnight Wednesday.

The issue is incentive pay-a bonus originally given some workers for extra production but now a crazy-quilt pattern of wage boosts that can make men working side by side take home vastly different paychecks.

Leaders of two United Steelworker locals in the Pittsburgh area served notice on top negotiators Friday that their men were threatening to set up picket lines if the final contract doesn't cover all workers with incentives.

If the wildcat strikes were successful, union sources said they would spread to all plants with incentive problems-and that means dozens across the country.

At the top-level bargaining both union and management remained silent about how much money—if any—was on the table for the over-all economic settlement. However, for the first time the hotel corridors were alive with optimism that the industry had made an acceptable offer.

"It's in the bag," said the president of a big California local who's been going to negotiations for 20 years.

A figure mentioned repeatedly was 90 cents over a three-year contract, which would follow the pattern established in other major labor contracts this year. But there are so many negotiators—a total of almost 400 union and company men—that it was difficult to separate the scuttlebutt from the inside word.

The contract for the 388,000 men who work for the 11 largest steel companies, who negotiate as a unit, expires at midnight on Wednesday.

Cite Albany UR Head, Wife For Violations

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Albany Buildings Department says it found more than a dozen violations of the city's housing code at two houses rented by a real-estate company headed by the city's urban-renewal director and his wife.

A report by the Buildings Code Enforcement Bureau was made public Friday after a representative of the Legal Aid Society obtained an order in State Supreme Court for release of the data.

The Legal Aid Society represents two tenants in the buildings, which are near the South Mall redevelopment project.

The report orders Rubicon Associates to make corrections or repairs or face court action. F. Joseph Leone, the urban-renewal director, is listed as secretary-treasurer of Rubicon Associates and his wife, Joan, as president.

The report by the city agency was based on inspections of the buildings July 2. It noted such conditions as "bath backs up... rats and roaches... bath room ceiling hanging... plaster falling from bedroom ceiling... leaking and ceiling hanging (dangerous)... leaking water from kitchen windows onto wires in back of refrigerators."

Marlon Brando Ready To Resume Working

By BOB THOMAS
HONOLULU (AP) — Show Biz notes from the 50th state — Marlon Brando appears ready to go back to work. After the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the actor passed up the starring role in Elia Kazan's "The Arrangement" to devote his time to civil rights. Stopping over in Honolulu en route from Tahiti Island to Paris, Brando said he expects to begin work soon on "The Rebellion," to be filmed in Europe.

"The director is Gillo Pontecorvo, who made 'Battle of Algiers,'" said the actor. "He's one of those new directors who doesn't give a damn about stars or anything but his film. He's energetic and full of ideas. I haven't worked with a director like that in years, and I'm looking forward to it."

The late Kui Lee, already an island legend although he died only two years ago, will get the bioblog treatment under a deal set by Honolulu Advertiser columnist Eddie Sherman. He secured rights to Lee's life story from the songwriter's estate, and producer Leonard Freeman has taken an option on the biography.

Noted Songwriter
Kui Lee was the brilliant, rebellious island boy who wrote "One Paddle, Two Paddle" and "I'll Remember, You." "Ain't No Big Thing," and other songs which helped propel Don Ho to national fame. Lee died of cancer in his twenties.

A location scout from the Mirisch Brothers company visited here recently to hunt scenery for a sequel to "Hawaii." The producers are apparently going ahead with plans to continue the James Michener saga with the Chinese and Japanese portions of the novel, which many readers consider the best part.

Many persons consider "Hawaii" a flop because it drew almost uniformly bad reviews. But it appears to have been one of those movies that nobody liked but the public. "Hawaii" was a big money-maker for the Mirisches and United Artists. So there is little wonder that a sequel is planned...

Hawaii is becoming increasingly popular as a background for television commercials. The reason is not merely to capture the islands' scenic beauty in color; the film makers can also escape some of the stringent terms for actors by not shooting on the mainland...

Maggie Parker, lone female lead of the new "Hawaii Five-O" series, comes from an unlikely background for an actress. Born to a proper Bostonian family, she took a master's degree in education at Boston University. Four years ago she turned down the position of dean of women at a new California college to pursue an acting career in Hawaii.

A Good Living
Despite the odds, she has managed to earn a good living in radio, television, commercials and films. Now she is destined for stardom if the "Five-O" series succeeds...

Recent entertainment figures in the islands: Helen Hayes, visiting son James MacArthur, co-star of "Hawaii Five-O"; Nancy Sinatra, filming for a new television special and not visiting her ex, Tommy Sands; Betty Grable, here for a stand in "Guys and Dolls"...

James Arness dropped his Garbo habits and gabbed with the press when his catamaran finished first in the trans-Pacific race. His fellow television star, Buddy Ebsen, came in two days later but won the race because of the way the cats were handicapped.

Crisis in Bolivia Worse in 2 Years

By THOMAS BRADY
Associated Press Writer
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Cuba's publication of Ernesto "Che" Guevara's diary has touched off the worst Bolivian crisis of President Rene Barrientos two-year regime.

Some Bolivians believe it could result in the downfall of Barrientos.

"The irony of the diary is that Che is hurting Barrientos more dead than when he roamed the jungles with his guerrillas," said one local commentator.

Bolivian politicians and journalists speculated that Barrientos might lose the all-important support of army general Alfredo Ovando and be replaced by a military dictatorship.

The military has been silent publicly, but meeting in private. The crisis involving a mass cabinet resignation, a bloody demonstration and Barrientos' loss of support from his vice president has this background:

in eastern Bolivia, most people here believed the army was responsible for the document reaching Cuba.

The army would not tolerate this kind of publicity, especially after the government spent $3 million tracking down Guevara and his band. Besides, the army had hopes of selling the diary to Western publishers.

Barrientos, meanwhile, visited President Johnson in Texas, and picked up a promise of $12 million in budget backing.

His position seemed secure as a president could hope for in this frequently violent land with the lowest per capita income in Latin America.

But on his return from the United States the army accused government minister Antonio Arguedas—one of Barrientos' best friends—of leaking the diary to Cuba.

Arguedas fled to neighboring Chile and announced he was a "Marxist-humanist" admirer of both Guevara and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. He added that he sent the diary directly to Castro "with a personal note" by airmail.

The leaking of the diary fell squarely on Barrientos and his administration. That the president harbored an admirer of Castro, his worst foreign enemy, in his Cabinet was too much for many Bolivians to stomach.

Housing Bill Passes Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to sign shortly a $5.4-billion housing bill that opens new vistas of federal aid to low income families and takes the first step in his 10-year goal to erase city slums.

The measure, a signal victory for Johnson after a year-long see-saw battle with Congress, passed the House Friday 226 to 135 and was sent to the White House.

The bill is an authorization and actual appropriations for the programs is expected to fall below the $5.4 billion.

Key feature of the compromise bill authorizes $300 million to help 500,000 families in the $3,000-$6,000 income range buy homes.

The government would pick up part of the interest cost over one per cent and in extreme cases all interest above one per cent.

To be eligible, families in general would have to have an income not more than 35 per cent greater than the level established in their own communities for admission to public housing.

They would have to devote 20 per cent of their income to housing with the subsidy based on the difference between that amount and the actual payments.

State Legion In Opposition To Gun Control

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The State American Legion was on record today as opposing "any proposal to regulate and control the ownership of rifles and shotguns."

The 2,000 delegates to the group's 50th annual convention took this position in a resolution adopted Friday.

It said fees for registering rifles would impose a hardship on Legion posts that have ceremonial rifle squads.

The three-day meeting ends today.

The group was addressed Friday by Betty Furness, President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs. Miss Furness said servicemen often return home to find their wives have signed sales contracts the family cannot afford.

She also said some insurance companies have increased automobile insurance rates or canceled policies solely because the holders entered the service.

Miss Furness told the delegates the administration has begun a study of the insurance industry aimed at helping servicemen.

Glenford Pair Hurt In Rt. 28 Accident

By JON POWERS

Two Glenford teenagers were injured last night in a head-on collision with a pickup truck on Route 28, one and one half miles west of Route 375 in the Town of Hurley.

State Police from the Lake Katrine sub station report that the truck, operated by Sherman Moore, 68, of Glenford was traveling east on the west-bound shoulder of the highway when the accident occurred. His vehicle was struck on the right front fender when an auto driven by Steven Loughlan, 18, of Atwood Road, Stone Ridge attempted to turn into the Glenford Road from the west-bound lane. Loughlan, who told police he was blinded by the truck's headlights, apparently tried to avoid the vehicle by swerving to the inside of the road. He struck the Moore vehicle.

Two passengers in the Loughlan vehicle were injured in the accident. Jeri Bremer, 19, of Box 172 Glenford suffered multiple fractures of the left thigh and multiple lacerations of the face. She was taken to Kingston Hospital and reported in fair condition there this morning.

Shelley Bremer, 16, of the same address, suffered possible neck injuries, and is also being treated at Kingston Hospital. The drivers of the two autos were treated for minor injuries and released.

Trooper Carl VanWagenen investigated the accident at approximately 9:10 last night.

At 10:25 a. m. Friday morning, an 11-year-old boy was injured when he was struck by an auto on Route 209, 100 feet north of Route 213.

Gregory Roland, of Box 119, Kingston suffered a fractured left shoulder and abrasions of the left arm and knee after he ran in front of a car operated by Bertam Vandemark, 52, of High Falls. The driver of the auto was traveling north on Route 209 when the incident occurred. The boy apparently ran out into the highway from a parking lot, was struck by the right front side of the auto and thrown through the windshield. He is reported in good condition at Benedictine Hospital.

Six other persons were injured in highway accidents last night in the area.

At 11 p. m. an auto driven by Robert Quackenbush, 22, of Freehold, went out of control while rounding a left curve on the Main Street Extension in Cairo. The auto went off the right shoulder of the road, struck a culvert, and turned over.

The driver and three passengers in the auto were taken to Green County Memorial Hospital in Catskill and treated for injuries. Quackenbush was treated for chest, neck, and back injuries. Eric Molter, 25, of East Durham suffered a fractured left arm and contusions of the forehead; Michael Conklin, 17, of South Cairo was treated for lacerations of the scalp and possible chest injuries; and James Price, 21, of South Cairo suffered multiple lacerations, abrasions, and contusions of the arms. Price was treated and released from the hospital.

Quackenbush was issued a summons by Leeds Troopers for driving at a speed not reasonable or prudent.

A four-year-old boy suffered minor injuries in a two car accident on Route 52, four miles west of Pine Bush last night.

Frank Mara, 4, was traveling east on Route 52 in a car operated by his father, Francis, of Pine Bush, when an auto driven by Howard Kempf, 43, also of Pine Bush crossed over into the eastbound lane and struck the Mara vehicle head on.

DWI Charges

Kempf was arrested by Ellenville State Police for driving while intoxicated and failure to keep to the right. He was arraigned last night in Magistrates Court and released on $75 bail pending his hearing next week.

A 21 year old Albany man was injured in a one car crash on the Thruway near Catskill last night, according to Investigator Ryan of the Kingston barracks.

John W. Rayburn, of 6 Drawbridge Road, Albany, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car while traveling in the northbound lane of the highway. The auto struck a stack of wood pilings at a construction site along the highway, and was extensively damaged. The operator was treated for minor lacerations and released from Columbia Memorial Hospital. He was issued a summons by State Police for driving with unsafe tires.

Dog Nipping

ARNHEM. Holland (UPI)—Arnhem police have announced they smashed the lightning retriever gang—two brothers, aged 7 and 5, their sister, aged 4, and their dog Blacky.

A police spokesman said Wednesday the children had trained Blacky to nip into candy shops, snatch candy from the counters and bring it back to them. All were paroled to their parents and only Blacky's name was disclosed.

INVESTOR FORUM

WANTED: MONEY MANAGERS

America needs thousands of competent, ethical money managers. And this need grows every day.

There are more than 20 million stockholders in this great country, and this number is increasing rapidly. The volume of money is enormous, and with monetization of the huge federal debt it promises to get bigger.

On June 1, 1968, commercial bank deposits totaled $376.56 billion. In 1948, they were $144 billion. On June 1, 1968, mutual savings bank deposits were over $62 billion—up from $18 billion two decades ago.

Potential money resident in the governmental floating debt (that which is due within a year) is well over $100 billion. Currency in circulation hovers at around $47.5 billion.

No country in the world's history has had a greater volume of money, that requires proper management.

How does a person become a professional money manager? Well, there are many approaches to the field.

A young man, perhaps age 22, has been graduated from a liberal arts college. He majored in economics. He minored in English. He can speak and write fluently.

Without any difficulty, he gets a job as a trainee with a New York Stock Exchange firm and, at age 23, becomes an accredited customers' broker. For perhaps five years under skilled management he learns how to manage money.

He is an authority on corporate finance. The incidents of ownership comprising the capitalistic system—income, risk and control—he understands well enough to know how to help every type of investor.

He studies intently the bases of a score of industries, and he becomes a teaching encyclopedia of information about 100 leading corporations in these industries. He is also a student of the money market.

By age 27-30 he has served his financial "internship." He has 400 clients on his books. On a given day he advises them that his days as a salesman are ended and that he wants them to become his money-managing clients.

And on the day when he becomes an ethical, competent money manager, his clients agree to pay him from $100 to $5,000 a year for advice. Commissions, profits and bonuses are no longer in the center of his work.

Furthermore, as a free-lance operator, he starts speaking all over America to audiences, clubs and societies on subjects relating to sound investment.

A good money manager can write his own financial ticket. If he is efficient, he can handle 100 accounts, and his annual income can easily be from $50,000 to $100,000.

This article grows out of personal experience. Thirty-eight years ago I quit a security salesmanship to hang out my shingle.

I would earnestly suggest that 50,000 potential money managers do the same thing.

Dear Abby

Can't Forget First Spouse

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 3 months to a wonderful man whose wife of 21 years has been dead a year. He told me there was no love between them for the last 10 years of their marriage (I didn't ask him) and they were on the verge of divorce several times.

My problem is that he talks about "Betty" all the time. No matter what we start out talking about, he has to bring "Betty" into it. (Betty's likes and dislikes and the many trips they've had together.) It's not that he is trying to make me jealous. He just can't seem to open his mouth without mentioning Betty.

Bridge

South Wants Out of Dummy

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Marshall Miles concluded his article on entry problems for the May-June issue of "Popular Bridge" with a rather unusual hand of well known type.

South's choice of six no-trump rather than six diamonds for the final contract is due to the fact that he is playing match point duplicate and six no-trump bid and made what will be a top score while six diamonds will only be average.

He wins the first heart in dummy; leads the five of spades and puts in his jack. Should the jack lose, he will go down several tricks; but the jack holds. He has found an extra entry to his own hand and is able to knock out the ace of diamonds and get his top score.

There are probably a few remarks about horseshoes and blind luck, but it is possible that one of you readers may have noticed that East could have beaten the contract. All East would have to do would be to play his queen of spades at trick two. This would kill that extra entry to the South hand and keep the diamond suit from being brought in.

This second hand high play to kill an entry is not impossible. Every expert has made a play along these lines more than once. This one would be a trifle sensational but should not be out of the question. It should not be hard for East to

I had a very unhappy first marriage of 18 years and I never mention my first husband's name.

Should I start talking about my first husband when this Betty talk begins? Or should I keep still and try to stand it? I love this man and want our marriage to last.

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: First try to understand that your husband lived for 21 years with Betty, so it is only natural that they shared many experiences, good and bad. When he's in a good mood, tell him (without anger or criticism) that you would rather not hear so much about Betty. And if he forgets, shut his flapping mouth with a kiss.

DEAR ABBY: My Mom and they were old enough to do as I disagree on something, and I told them that by their reasoning I was also "old enough to do as I pleased." Then I sat down with a book, put my feet up, and relaxed. When they asked when dinner would be ready, I told them whenever it pleased them they could make their own dinner. I then made myself a salad and a chop and continued to read my book, ignoring them.

For 5 days I neither cooked, cleaned, washed nor ironed for them. Only for myself. When they asked me what was wrong with me, I told them I was "old enough to do as I pleased," too, and it pleased me to think of no one but myself.

They finally got the point. Life is now restored to normal, and now we all live by the rules in this house. This may not work for everyone, but it worked for me.

DEAR ABBY: I had heard about teen-age rebellion, but I never experienced it until suddenly Joe, 17, and Betsy, 15, let me know they were "old enough to do as they pleased."

Life became one constant battle about haircuts, mini skirts, dating hours, and make-up 2 inches thick. Taking away privileges and cutting allowances didn't faze them. When I was told for the 50th time that cackinnation (kak-i-NAY-shun) loud laughter

The annoyed college professor, listening to the aggravating cackinnation of some of his students in the rear of the class abruptly cancelled the class.

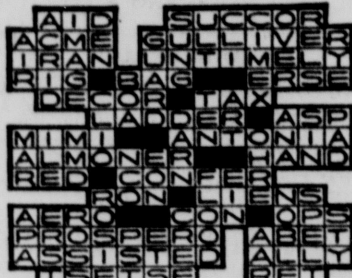

Recalling his bachelor party, a night of excessive drink and unrestrained cackinnation, the grinning airline pilot wondered how he had enough strength to get married the following morning.

The little boy, a child whose uncontrollable cackinnation was a source of annoyance, was being referred to a psychologist to help remedy this situation.

Peace-Nothing Less Goal of Humphrey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared today his goal is "peace—nothing less" and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said black power is the road to black dignity and responsibility.

But Democrats' attention was focused as much on vice presidential prospects as on their two Democratic presidential rivals after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's announcement Friday he could not accept the No. 2 spot. "For me, this year, it is impossible," Kennedy said in a statement. "My decision is final, firm, and not subject to further consideration."

Humphrey called Kennedy's decision "understandable." Some of his aides listed five possible running mates if Humphrey wins the nomination. The list includes McCarthy, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy brother-in-law, New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma.

At Top of Agenda
Humphrey, in Salt Lake City,

Utah, today, listed the pursuit of world peace at the top of his "new agenda."

He said this means working with Red China in the future and the Soviet Union now to re-

Wallace Pledge: Will Maintain Law and Order

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Presidential candidate George C. Wallace described the nation's capital Friday night as a dying city "because people in high places have allowed anarchy to destroy the city."

He pledged, if elected, to maintain law and order in Washington even if it takes 30,000 troops.

Wallace appeared at a rally in the West Palm Beach Municipal Auditorium. The turnout crowd was estimated at 5,300 by Ralph Boyes, manager of the hall, who said the latest attendance record was 6,020 for Negro singer James Brown about three months ago. Security precautions prevented spectators from sitting in a large section behind Wallace.

"Too long leaders of both parties have bargained away the rights of this state," shouted Wallace, who described Democrats and Republicans as sound-alike on major issues.

In the audience was at least one Negro woman, seated in the rows of spectators. She applauded when Wallace walked on stage. Two Negro men and a uniformed Negro deputy also were in the hall.

duce tensions; a slow down in the arms race, and a "stable and lasting peace" in Vietnam for which he promised a specific proposal in days.

McCarthy said Negroes must be given power—with which he said will come dignity and responsibility—by bringing industry, locally-owned businesses and antipoverty programs into their communities.

"The fact is that poverty among black people is no accident," McCarthy said in a prepared speech in Detroit. "Black people are poor because they are powerless, and powerless because they are black."

On the Republican side, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said in Providence, R.I., that if the United States escalates the Vietnam war, China and the Soviet Union "will take it right up to nuclear war."

"The enemy is plenty sophisticated," Rockefeller said. "They can't win. We can't win. We're at a stalemate."

Confers With LBJ

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon spent 90 minutes Friday with President Johnson for a foreign policy briefing, talk of their days together in the Senate and renewal of an invitation to visit the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

"No politics was discussed," Nixon said. He added: "Win or lose, I'll accept the invitation to go to the ranch after the election."

Plans for a mass rally on the eve of the Democratic National Convention have been announced by the Coalition for an Open Convention, which includes a number of prominent Vietnam war policy critics.

Controversy Continues Over Fortas Nomination

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice is growing more vocal even though formal Senate debate and a possible filibuster are more than a month away.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, told

the Senate Friday that Fortas, since becoming a member of the high court in 1965, has joined in a series of decisions that have "practically destroyed" community moral standards.

He said he hoped Johnson would withdraw Fortas' nomination to succeed Earl Warren. Miller's comments followed statements earlier in the week by several members of the Senate Judiciary Committee that they wanted all committee members, before they voted on the nomination, to see a film that had been the subject of a Supreme Court ruling.

The film was ruled obscene by a federal court but the decision was later overturned by the Supreme Court with Fortas agreeing with the majority.

One senator confided to a newsman Friday that he feared the growing attacks on Fortas' decisions in obscenity cases could have greater impact on his confirmation than any other issue raised since Johnson submitted the nomination June 26.

At the same time, three Republican senators who, unlike Miller, have not joined in the opposition to the nomination, sharply criticized Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark for saying senators trying to block confirmation are motivated by political partisanship and opposition to civil rights.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, only Negro member of the Senate, demanded that Clark apologize. He said Clark's statements in an interview were without justification and an unfair attack on Republicans opposing the nomination.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., joined in Brooke's indictment of Clark's remarks.

Viet Casualties Lower Since June

SAIGON (AP) — Paralleling the pace of the ground fighting, casualties in the Vietnam war have dropped off since early June. But U.S. officials refused to predict that the lull will last.

One obvious reason is that the enemy has not chosen to fight. Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander, has summed up the current situation this way: "He is trying to make himself hard to find. He's devoting all his energy to it and there's lots of country out there."

Qualified authorities give different reasons for the lull. Some say enemy forces were so badly battered during the lunar new year and May offensives that they are not now able to mount major assaults. Some see political factors related to the Paris peace talks and calls for de-escalation of the war.

Many allied military men here, however, agree that this is a time when the enemy is replenishing troops, resupplying and refitting for more action.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford said during his visit here earlier this month there was evidence that major enemy units had crossed back into North Vietnam for this purpose. He said major attacks could be expected by early September and described the present period as the lull before the storm.

There also is evidence that the same thing is going on along the border sanctuaries of Laos and Cambodia.

The U.S. command, in its weekly summary issued Thursday, reported that 157 Americans were killed in action last week. That was the lowest death toll for one week since last October. Casualties among South Vietnamese and among enemy forces also were reported down slightly from the previous week.

No Bulletproof Vest for Ray

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Authorities say James Earl Ray will probably not have to wear a bulletproof vest when he stands trial in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"We do not anticipate any extra type of paraphernalia in the courtroom," Sheriff William N. Morris Jr. said Friday. "Our security will be of a perimeter type."

Morris, meeting with news men for the first full-fledged session since Ray was returned July 19 from England, indicated that getting into the courtroom when Ray is on trial will be most difficult.

Reporters covering the trial will be given special identification cards bearing their photographs and fingerprints. But they and other spectators will have to be searched and be video taped before being admitted.

The picture Morris painted of Ray, probably the most closely protected prisoner in Tennessee history, was of a man who is eating and sleeping well and getting his exercise.

"He does pushups and walks," Morris said. "He reads, plays gin rummy with his guards, but he doesn't discuss the case with anyone but his attorney."

And Ray's attorney, Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., agreed his client is fine. After spending two hours and 45 minutes with Ray Friday, Hanes said he was "in a good mood" and was "very optimistic. He had very little to complain about."

Czechs, Soviets Near Day of Reckoning

By JAMES O. JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovakia's reform Communists moved today toward their day of reckoning with the angry Soviet politburo on a wave of public support that may be unmatched in this republic's 50 year history.

Calls for defiance against Soviet demands for halting the Czech party drive for more democracy did not come alone from Communists and government officials. Thousands of citizens signed petitions. Letters and telegrams of support poured into party offices.

Observers said Alexander Dubcek, the Czech party first secretary and chief reformer, has let the support build to a point that leaves him little room for maneuver or compromise with the Russians.

The date of the confrontation meeting between Soviet and Czech party leaders remained secret. But informed sources said it would open Monday or Tuesday. It may be announced only when the talking is done.

The Soviets claim—in a thunderous propaganda barrage raging from Moscow — that Czechoslovakia is in danger of going capitalist, slipping from the East bloc. This, Moscow has said officially, it will not tolerate. The Russians have especially denounced the Czechs' new freedom of speech. There is fear of Soviet armed intervention. Russian divisions are maneuvering just across the Soviet border.

But the Czechs appear to have lost the lackluster, unemotional national face they were under 20 years of Stalinist rule that ended with Dubcek's coming to power eight months ago. Thousands of Prague citizens have been putting their signatures to a petition issued by the avant garde weekly paper Literarny Listy.

The petition warns Dubcek and his party presidium they must "defend the path we have entered and which we do not intend to leave alive."

Newspaper Strike Ends In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first newspaper blackout here in nearly 20 years ended early today as striking stereotypes accepted a contract hammered out with the city's three daily newspapers.

Details of the settlement, following a three-day strike, were not immediately available. Members of stereotypes union No. 19 accepted the contract at a 6:30 a.m. meeting, a little more than three hours after the settlement was reached by negotiators.

The strike stopped publication of all three dailies in the nation's capital—The Washington Post, The Washington Daily News and The Evening Star.

The News planned to publish today and the Post and Star both planned Sunday editions.

The stereotypes had asked for $40 a week wage increase over three years and the papers reportedly had offered $32 a week. Pension benefits also were in dispute.

The strike had added significance in that it signalled a possible split between the American Newspaper Guild and newspaper craft unions over racial discrimination.

Wawarsing Given Month To Decide Camp Purchase

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
The Wawarsing Town Board was given one month to consider purchasing the 75-acre Sunrise Manor during special session of the governmental body last night.

Supervisor Frank Harkin, who urged the councilmen to "keep your eyes on the future" in considering the $65,000 venture, said he would contact the Palisades Interstate Park Commission Monday morning in an effort to learn when the state agency could inspect the property.

The park commission is in a position to deliver 50 per cent of state funds towards the cost of the purchase.

The state's park commission already agreed, during the administration of former supervisor George M. Barthel, on the 50 per cent formula in the developing of the 218 acre Van Gorder site for the creation of a park.

Supervisor Harkin said, however, that it would cost the township about $100,000 "just to develop the Van Gorder property," and that the project would take years, before a full time recreation area could be established.

Ready for Use
Sunrise Manor, on the other hand, is reported ready for instant use as a park site.

The area was offered to the town two weeks ago at the $65,000 price by Sunrise Manor co-owner Jack Kramer.

Last night, Kramer told the councilmen that certain outside interests had already inquired after the property but that he would wait for a month before accepting any other bid.

Aside from the possible approval of the park commission, councilmen displayed caution in their discussion on the purchase. Councilman Frank Greco wanted to know the potential cost of operation of the park site and Councilman Jerome Elkin felt that the area could be developed by "private enterprise."

Elkin said that should a private business get involved, "it would keep (Sunrise Manor) on the tax rolls."

He also said that because the camp is five miles from the Village of Ellenville, there would be a transportation problem.

The Van Gorder site is located "right next" to the Camp Sunrise, according to Supervisor Harkin. The combined land mass is just beyond Cape Pond, or west of the Greenfield area.

Discussion also centered around adding the manor, a former resort, to the already approved Van Gorder site.

Kramer told the councilmen that operational costs of Camp Sunrise could be made up in admission charges and that the place "could pay for itself."

"All you would need is maybe two caretakers on the property," said Kramer, "and maybe two lifeguards."

The resort includes a swimming pool, baseball and softball fields, handball and basketball courts, a casino and varied other buildings all completely furnished.

Supervisor Harkin said that the area could be made into a center for the youth and the elderly, a town park, training area for rescue squads, a storage area for town highway department equipment, and he even went so far as to declare that the site could be used in the event a catastrophe struck the township.

Makes Request
Attorney Vernon Kelder asked Kramer to hold off selling the area until the town could check with the park commission over the matter of state funds.

After Kramer agreed to the one month moratorium, Harkin told the councilmen, "Don't overlook the youth in the area. They deserve more attention than other governments have given them."

Other action at the special meeting called by Harkin, the supervisor read a directive to the town by the Ulster County Board of Health that all open burning in the county was to cease by Jan. 1, 1969.

Harkin said he would go to exactly what is expected of the town.

The board of health action was seen as possibly revolutionizing the county's dumping operations and Harkin told The Freeman the move might mean the purchasing of large and expensive incinerators.

Harkin said that the town "may not be able to comply," with the health department order and councilman Elkin said, "I don't believe they (the board of health) can force us (to halt open burning). We'd like to comply to the letter of the law," Elkin continued, "but we may not be able to."

State Directive
The Ulster County Health Department, it was learned, was acting on the heels of a state directive.

Because of a lack of a suitable meeting place, District 3 voters may have to vote in District 4, the Wawarsing supervisor told councilmen.

The two districts encompass the Village of Ellenville and are separated by Main Street. Wawarsing Town Clerk Kenneth Mitchell said that it would be legal for town residents of one district to vote in another area within the township if facilities were scarce.

Because of traffic tieups in front of the Napanoch and Kerhonkson post offices, the town board agreed to make up 1,000 cards to be placed on windshields of cars violating regulations.

Supervisor Harkin said that many people going to the two post offices park their cars on the wrong side of the street in an effort to save time.

Finally, Harkin told the board that the voltage problem in the town office building had been corrected and that he would call in an expert to make an electrical survey for future air-conditioning purposes.

'The Apple Tree' Blossoms Out as a Hit

"The Apple Tree" is not yet two years old (this Jerry Block Sheldon Harnick hit musical opened on Broadway in October, 1966), but it has already earned a reputation as one of the brightest musicals of all time. Currently playing at the Woodstock Playhouse, "Tree" blossoms out into what is actually three shows in one.

Based on three famous stories illustrating the interplay between man and woman, the art colony version stars dynamic Tanny McDonald, Gene Nye and Gary Miller.

Tree's music underscores each playlet with songs ranging from raucous parody to tender love ballads. That versatility provides Miss McDonald with material extraordinary enough to make hers a winning performance. Her portrayals of Eve singing "Go To Sleep Whatever You Are" and Passionella crooning "A Movie Star" are moments to be remembered for weeks to come.

Bittersweet Biblical

All in all, "The Apple Tree" is one of the most delightful evenings of musical comedy ever created for the theatre. The first play, "The Diary of Adam and Eve," based on a Mark Twain short story, is a bittersweet chronicle of the lives of the Biblical couple.

"What made you pick brown?" asks Eve, after she has infiltrated Adam's modest hut. "Because wood is brown," replies Adam, piqued. And Eve starts dolling up the hut with flowers and plants, and proposes that Adam cut the grass around it... slowly but surely, Eve changes Adam's life.

The second show, The Lady or the Tiger, is a tub-thumping farce, staged as a lavish laugh at high passion and marital histrionics. Princess Barbara, "her regal proudness, her flashing eyeness, her self indulgence, her goddessness," can't decide whether she'd rather have her lover dead or wed...

Passionella, the third and last offering, is a spectacular romp amidst a cacophony of exploding psychedelic TV tubes, Ella the chimney sweep gets her wish and is transformed — POUF — POW — into Passionella the movie star: instant blonde hair, golden gown, fantastic figure!

She's the Star

Tanny McDonald is the star of the evening, playing the persistently tender Eve, the deliciously bloodthirsty Princess Barbara, and the MOOV-IE star. Gene Nye is the slightly harried Adam, surprisingly moving at the play's end, and also Flip the singer (in purple leather pants). Gary Miller is the slick and liquorish snake and the doomed (or is he)? Captain Sanchar in Lady or the Tiger, who never gets to Gaul.

The clever sets, the wild special effects and lighting are the work of designer, David Segal. The costumes — Eve's silky dress of flowers, Passionella's solid gold gown — are designed by Mary Lou Schertz. The production is directed by Harold Baldrige with musical direction by Richard Albert.

Don't miss THE APPLE TREE! Playing for two weeks, now through August 4th with shows Wednesday to Saturday at 8:40 p. m. and Sundays at 7:30. There are matinees today and August 3rd at 2 p. m. For reservations call the box office.

Going to Saratoga?

Now in its fifth week at Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the New York City Ballet leaves in a blaze of glory after presenting 22 performances since July 4.

Tonight at 8:30 the Ballet offers "Swan Lake," with Suzanne Farrell and Peter Martins; "Episodes," with Violette Verdy and Anthony Blum; "Glinka: Valse Fantaisie," with Suki Schorer and John Clifford; and "Western Symphony," with Carol Sumner and John Prinz.

Tomorrow afternoon (Sunday, July 28) at 3:30 p. m., an additional performance of "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" will be danced by popular request. "Slaughter" was such a smash with its red-hot jazz dancing that it will replace the previously scheduled "Firebird" and "Ivesiana" on Sunday afternoon. It will share the bill with Bizet's "Symphony in C" (danced by Morris, Blum and Farrell) and with "Haydn Concerto" (featuring Verdy and Sieveling).

Orchestra. The mood is courtly, romantic, sprightly — like playtime in an old palace, and chic period costumes cropped at mini length add to the enchantment of the piece. "Haydn Concerto" is a first for Saratoga and in its upstate premiere will whisk one back into the 18th Century as a dance visualization of Haydn's Concerto No. 1 for Flute Oboe and With the Ballet leaving, the Philadelphia Orchestra comes in on its heels as the resident company at Saratoga, opening a 16-concert season on Aug. 1, when Eugene Ormandy conducts the North American premiere of Gianastara's Psalm 150 for mixed chorus, boys' choir and orchestra.

In honor of the opening concert, there will be a gala super-dance in the Hall of Springs immediately following the Aug. 1 debut. With Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller as honorary chairman, Polynesian food will be served (almond duck, oyster beef, snow peas and fried rice) and outside helium balloons will festoon the ceiling.

The Spa Summer Theater Film Festival in Saratoga will present "A Salute To The Novel" the week of July 28 to Aug. 3 when three famous novels will be shown in their screen versions.

"The Pearl" will play from Sunday, July 28 to Tuesday, July 30. Based on the novel by John Steinbeck, "The Pearl" is the story of the effect of sudden riches on a poor Mexican fisherman's happiness; won the Best Photography Award at the Venice Film Festival. On Wednesday and Thursday, July 31 and Aug. 1, the film will be a French version of Dostoevsky's "Crime and Punishment," starring Jean Gabin as the young law student who kills a pawnbroker during a robbery which he has justified morally. On Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2 and 3, a superb color Russian production of Cervantes' "Don Quixote," starring Nikolai Cherkassov, will be shown.

There are two complete shows nightly at the theater on Saratoga Spa, starting at 7:30 p. m.

STATISTICS SHOW that youngsters today are using libraries and reading more voraciously than any previous generation. And, for the grandchildren who do their checking out of books at the Woodstock Library, there is an added dividend. In a corner of the children's room there stands an honest-to-goodness, handcarved, colorfully painted wooden merry-go-round horse. Kids sit quietly in the saddle and thumb through The Adventures of Dr. Doolittle, or clamber up for an imaginary ride through the sagebrush while mom or dad pursue the stacks elsewhere in the building. Whets Appetite

Dear Editor:

I must tell you how much my family appreciates the many articles in Tempo on places to go and things to do — and I speak not only of local attractions in this area, but of the many attractions you have written about which are further away. No matter what Tempo writes about, it is written so colorfully and so well that it whets our appetite to go there and see it for ourselves. We have already made visits afar to Mystic Seaport and Constitution Island because of Tempo and we are making up a list of other places you recommend to visit in the future.

Two Originals On Double Bill For Woodstock

Last week at the Little Theater on Tinker Street, Performing Arts of Woodstock opened its double bill of one act plays, "Charles the Child Beautiful" by Daniel Klein, and "The Beholder" by Kit Jones, directed by Robert Burgos, who last season directed PAW's highly acclaimed production of "The Banana Thief" by Holly Bey.

"Charles the Child Beautiful" is a hilarious curtain raiser concerning a critical moment in the family life of Charles, played by Ralph Santinelli, his mother, played by Pearl Blackman, and his Dad, by Larry Shufelt. Slides, by Elwood Ballard and Mike Sullivan, and a film, photographed by Mike Sullivan, and directed by Robert Burgos, show the family at a more carefree time in their lives, when Charles was but a precocious infant.

In the second play, "The Beholder," a man who has withdrawn from life meets a girl who escapes reality with the aids of make believe and self-hypnosis. The girl is played by Isabelle Liikala. The man, by Dean Schambach.

The two one act plays continue tonight and again on August 1, 2, 3. Curtain is at 8:30. PAW's Little Theater adjoins the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, on Tinker Street, Woodstock. For reservations call: Mrs. Ronald Blackman of Woodstock.

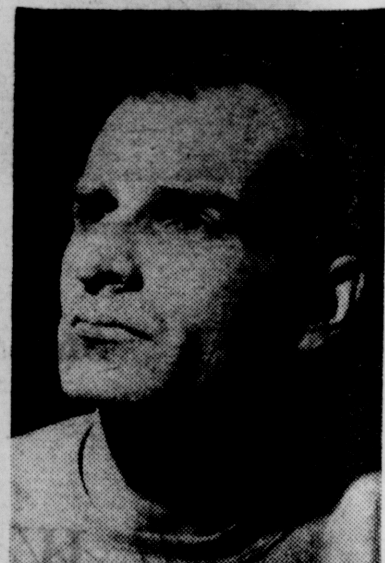

THE HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM of Tessi and Lee Aaron will present a concert of Jewish-American folk music tonight at 8 p. m. in St. Mark's Methodist Church, Napanoch. The Aarons have performed in many East coast folk festivals, specialize in songs of the Jewish people, and have been lauded for her guitar and voice style (her songs are mostly sung in the Yiddish) and for his playing of the mandolin. Husband Lee has been called "straight man" for his wife's lines and music. They promise a distinctive and humorous concert... and, prior to the show, those attending will have the opportunity of viewing the paintings of Forest and Paul Moses, son and grandson of famed artist Grandma Moses, which are on exhibit from 1 to 8 p. m. in the church basement.

Enrichment for Youngsters

A summer performing arts program for students is luring youngsters from all over the State of New York to the Saratoga Performing Arts Center for yet another year. SPAC offers its illustrious artists to both students and teachers at reduced prices for special matinees and the New York City Ballet just yesterday danced the last of three such performances from its repertoire. The Philadelphia Orchestra now moves in to offer three Wednesday matinees at 2:30 p.m. in the amphitheater.

Concerts of the Philadelphia musicians for children will include an all - Beethoven program, July 31; and all - Russian program, Aug. 14. William Smith, assistant conductor of the orchestra, and regular conductor of its children's concerts, will preside at the Saratoga offerings, giving a amusing and informative commentary on each work.

Tickets are priced at a very nominal rate for elementary and high school students and are only slightly higher for teachers and other adults accompanying a student. For every 12 students attending, one adult - chaperone with them will be admitted free.

This year, seats are reserved, although there has been no change in price. Tickets and information may be obtained by writing to the Education Department of Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. 12866, which sponsors the program in cooperation with the N.Y. State Education Department.

Fox Hollow Family Festival

If it stretches your imagination to believe that your child could have the time of his life at the former Prohibition Days hideout of "Legs" Diamond, then start stretching—for that's exactly the case. Over in next-door Greene County on a 180-acre estate where the gangster-man once dodged the law, lies Fox Hollow...and it's there that an entire day for children (a festival by children for children) is being planned Aug. 15.

The Fox Hollow Children's Day is the brainchild of the Beers Family (Bob Beers, his wife Evelyn and their daughter Martha, 20), famed for their homey, good old-fashioned harmonizing as folk singers.

Dozens of musicians will be performing before thousands of people at the Fox Hollow happening and the children's day offers a virtual potluck porridge of fun and excitement. There'll be a family opera based on The Three Bears; Punch 'n Judy shows with puppets and marionettes; songs, story telling sessions, and piping; exhibits of folk crafts and primitive art, "mini-concerts" and gatherings of famous family groups and individual musicians; "sacred harp" and round singing; weaving, wood carving, flower pressing and other crafts in parade.

"Knee - bouncing" children's songs will be the order of the day, accompanied by down-home fiddle playing and the clackety-clack rhythms of "limberjacks" (a pair of loose-legged, handcarved wooden puppets that dance from strings).

If your child has never seen a dulcimer, heard a circus balladeer, had his fortune told, listened to the uilleann pipes, or seen Sioux Indians dance, then—by all means—take him to the Beers Family Festival of Traditional Music and Arts in Petersburg, N. Y. on Children's Day, Aug. 15. You'll find the Beers Family offering a day of rare Americana and you'll find Fox Hollow easy to find (Route 2, a half mile west of Petersburg).

Hansel & Gretel

Children's matinees of "Hansel and Gretel" by Sarah and Alexander Maissel, have been delighting youngsters fortunate enough to be taken on an outing to the Forestburgh Summer Theatre on RD 1 at Monticello throughout the month of July. "Hansel and Gretel" will continue play every afternoon until the end of this month. Beginning Aug. 1 and running until the end of the month, Forestburgh will be presenting children's matinees of "Esther, Queen of Persia" daily.

First There Was Pooh and Now It's:

Magical Mr. Pudgins

If you have ever doubted those statistics on the population explosion . . . if you have ever wondered if Kiddie shows can fill a theatre . . . if you have sometimes felt (as a rainy day mother) that children's entertainment is the orphan of the art world . . . you should have been with us at the Woodstock Playhouse last Saturday morning.

Somewhere in the vicinity of 900 avid youngsters turned out for a performance of "Winnie the Pooh" and chaos resulted when doting mamas learned to their chagrin that the theatre could only seat 600.

Tears trickling down freckled noses were in evidence everywhere but those who had had the foresight to make reservations sported faces that were sunbursts of joy. Harried and harrassed producer Edgar Rosenblum did the best he could — doling out tickets in a fast shuffle to busloads of area campers and local youngsters alike . . . but more than one child who had planned on spending an hour with Pooh Bear, Piglet and Tigger had to be turned away disappointed.

Those lucky enough to wrangle a seat, however, were not disappointed. Toddlers, tiny tykes and almost-teens alike clapped and cheered a youthful cast (headed by talented teenager Judy Moncure as a funny and frolicsome Pooh). The world of Christopher Robin and his friends had sprung to life again and every well-loved animal from the ageless story (each in easily identifiable and colorful costume) drew excited comment and applause with each entrance.

He's A Delight

Next attraction coming up for tykes at the Woodstock Playhouse is "Mr. Pudgins" and it's slated for presentation Aug. 3 at 11 a. m. All of which means that if you want to assure your youngster of a seat for this children's show about a delightful new character, you'd best get on the phone and make your reservations early.

Mr. Pudgins pops up on stage as something of a male Mary Poppins. When he comes to babysit — for a very proper family — wonderful, magical things begin happening. Mysterious new friends materialize from unexpected hiding places and boredom flies out the window. Surprises are in store for the audience via Mr. Pudgins' magical pipe and his marvelous car Annabelle.

Bruce "Buddha" Redner will cavort as Mr. P under the direction of Barbara Kendall, and a lively cast will answer the questions of whether a circus will really come to life and whether a live dodo will really put in an appearance.

So take your youngsters to the Woodstock Playhouse on Aug. 3 at 11 a. m. for a wonderful treat and, this time, don't be the one to be left out of the fun.

'Snow White' and 'Beanstalk'

Among the attractions geared specifically to younger children in this area are the special children's shows playing at Latham's Colonie Summer Theatre this season. Local mothers who have been driving to the Colonie Shopping Center near Albany to stock up on household wares and school clothes, know the theatre is within easy reach.

If you missed out on taking your youngsters to see the first matinee performance of "Mother Goose Go-Go" earlier this month at the Colonie, there are still two more productions upcoming. They're being presented by the highly acclaimed Prince Street Players, Ltd. and WCBS-TV on Wednesday afternoons at 2 p.m.

Comedienne Marcie Stringer, who played the title role in the recent "Mother Goose Go-Go," will be cast as the wicked Queenie in "Snow White Goes West," which plays the tent theatre Wednesday, July 31. And, on Aug. 28 she'll play the classic Golden Goose in "Jack and the Beanstalk," exactly as it was seen by millions on CBS-TV last year.

The sprightly Miss Stringer created such show stopping roles as Empress Carlotta the Least in "The Emperor's New Clothes," now a CBS color special and she's been one of the bright lights of the New York based Prince Street Players. She also toured nationally with "The Boys from Syracuse" and played Mammy Yokum in "L'il Abner" and the Countess in "Wildcat."

Other members of the company are Kal Salvatore, Joan Johnson, Joyce Griffen, Jim Eiler, Fred Grades, George Ryland and Robert Anderson.

The drive to the tent theatre is well worth the effort in terms of entertainment value to be gained by youngsters. The Prince Streeters and CBS have received a citation in the form of a Special Emmy Award for "providing young TV and theatre audiences with imaginative entertainment of high production quality."

Tickets for these two children's shows may be obtained at the box office from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily or by writing to Box 136, Latham.

THE BEERSES OF FOX HOLLOW

Television

While researching the fall shows that loom on TV's horizon, Tempo arrived at the conclusion that the media definitely ranges afar. For an animated special, The Mouse on the Mayflower, due Thanksgiving, voices were supplied by John Gary, who recorded in Chicago, Joanie Sommers and Ernie Ford, who dueted in San Francisco, Eddie Albert, whose songs were waxed in Los Angeles, and an orchestra recorded the score in London.

The number of Negro actors in TV series is increasing in the fall, even though Bill Cosby and I Spy are gone. In addition to new integrated series, old shows like Peyton Place and Mannix are adding Negroes as cast regulars. Percy Rodriguez is the new Negro neurosurgeon just introduced on "Place." Not all, however, will pinpoint harmony and good race relations as do Ironsides and N.Y.P.D. The Outcasts, new for ABC, has a Negro (Otis Young as a former slave) and a white (Don Murray as an ex-slave and plantation owner) as antagonists. On the series, they'll play two cowpokes who roam the post-Civil War west fighting outlaws and baring their inbred hatred of each other.

For the fall, too, Get Smart has an episode set called "Snoopy Smart vs. the Red Baron." And Harry Belafonte and Bill Cosby will do a TV special together. And — all to the good, we feel — with a few exceptions like Doris Day, Don Murray and Diahann Carroll, most of the actors starring in new series are unknowns. That should give viewers a chance to look forward to new, exciting young talent, just as they once did when they first saw Jim Garner as Maverick or Steve McQueen in Wanted: Dead or Alive.

REFLECTIONS: Dustin Hoffman recently told a reporter a story to make a TV producer jump of a bridge. Hoffman said he had badly wanted to play the part of Mother in the David Susskind-TV production of "A Hatful of Rain." But he didn't get the role. Nobody saw him as star material although he auditioned after he had made "The Graduate" but before the film was released. . . . Joan Crosby reports in TV Scout that Tiny Tim gave a concert sponsored by a local radio station in California and his popularity is so high these days that a rival station bought a slew of tickets to give away to their listeners.

. . . She also printed a story that shows what a difference a year makes. When Universal Studios had its annual party for press and stars, actor Jean Pelequin attended. He was "discovered" working at that studio as a stable hand and he's new in The Virginian and being groomed for bigger things. Asked if he was at the party last year, he said, "Sure, I helped set up the tables and chairs and then when it was over, I came back to clean up."

Reviewing this past week's TV fare, we'd like to toss a bouquet to the Channel 17 show "You Don't Back Down." Absorbing plot concerned a young Toronto doctor who went straight from a Canadian medical school to a Nigerian Mission hospital where nearly everything he did was a compromise between what he had been taught and what was possible under primitive conditions in Africa. And an education in itself was NET JOURNAL's visit to Paris, citadel of high fashion, in "Plumes for My Rich Aunt." Filmed in that city's most elegant fashion houses, it showed rich women cheating the ravages of time via frivolity and vanity.

A word of praise, too, for Robert Mitchum who was as humorous as one could wish as a modern-day Moses in the film "Mr. Moses" on Tuesday Night Movies. And for NET FESTIVAL's tribute to the great American poet Carl Sandburg, with eulogies by fellow poets and President Johnson, and Sandburg reading his own work.

Coming up on TV in the week ahead and previewed as well worth viewing are the following:

Today, Sat., July 27.

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS (ABC, 5 p.m.). National Sky Diving Championships; World Karting Championships; National Surfing Championships.

THE PRISONER (CBS, 7:30 p.m.). Patrick McGeehan is back in the village, his wallless prison, and No. 2 is being played by a woman in tonight's episode.

Sunday, July 28

THE TALK SHOWS. FACE THE NATION has Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at 12:30 p.m. on CBS on his campaign for the GOP Presidential nomination;

ONE OF THE MAJOR TELECASTS of a recent National Educational Television season — John Butler's complete and spectacular version of the Carl Orff "Carmina Burana" ballet—is returning to home screens. Performed by the Netherlands Dance Theater and choreographed outside and inside a medieval castle in Holland, it will be seen Wednesday, July 31 at 9 p. m. on Channel 17.

MEET THE PRESS has Rep. Gerald Ford on NBC at 1 p.m. on his roles as minority leader of the House of Representatives and permanent chairman of the Republican National Committee; ISSUES AND ANSWERS, on ABC at 1 p.m., has Gov. Ronald Reagan perhaps clarifying his Presidential aspirations.

21st CENTURY (CBS, 6 p.m.) Repeat of the excellent "Cities of the Future" with Walter Cronkite reporting.

Tempo Readers Write

One Each Year

Dear Editor:

Our president, Dr. Richard Messina, and the members of our Ulster County Council, and I, want you to know how very appreciative we are for the wonderful help Tempo gave us in promoting the fund raising Rijstafel for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

As a matter of fact, the Rijstafel was so successful... we are considering one or possibly two similar events each year.

Thank you again for your help.

Sincerely,

C. LINCOLN

Newsworthy

Dear Editor:

Thank you for mentioning and headlining our Washington radio interview in a recent issue of Tempo. I truly appreciate your consideration of this as newsworthy.

Cordially,

JOHN M. SNYDER

Could Write Book

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank you for the articles in Tempo. I particularly enjoyed the recent story on Green Kill Park since I was caretaker there for over 35 years and I know it inch by inch.

My wife and I and our family lived in the Maples Cottage and at the time I went to work there, the Cornell people owned it. It was a pleasure to be there with them and also in later years with the new owners.

It came to be an Ulster County showplace with people coming there from all over. We had a nine-hole golf course, 15 tennis courts, a swimming pool, a large dance hall and a large, sunny swimming pool.

I have pictures of all the seven to nine room cottages. In later years, 10 new cottages were built for girls to house five in one cottage.

I could write a book on Green Kill.

And, when I was a young lad, I put five years on the great Mary Powell, the greatest of steamships. Captain Anderson was in charge at that time and, later, Captain Arthur Warington, of Hone Street, Kingston, took command. They were both great men and I treasure the picture I have of the Mary Powell.

Those Obtuse Darts

The Editor:

It's a sorry day when a man such as John Wayne should be pilloried in Tempo for eulogizing his country. Judging by your usual reviews, if he had produced something so filthy that you couldn't bring your family to the theatre, he'd be hailed as a sensitive artist.

While your reviewer may be offended to find Wayne portraying Americans as "good guys" in their struggle against Communism, I can only hope that occasionally she thanks these "good guys" for making it possible for her to live in a country where she can enjoy the luxury of being repelled by John Wayne's belief that "the good guys are always us."

In conclusion may I suggest that in the future when Miss (sic) Geertsema unleashes her obtuse darts at any pro-American film efforts that either the review appear on the editorial page, or that it bear the disclaimer "The above was a paid political announcement."

Very truly yours,
EUGENE LOUGHLIN
Esopus Land Development Company
Esopus, N. Y.

(Mrs. Geertsema replies: "Obviously, I am caught on the horns of a dilemma. The gentleman suggests I take pride in my right to criticize that which fills me with moral outrage; then condemns my exercise of that right. And while I acknowledge John Wayne's right to make an easy million by sermonizing and fictionalizing his story, I am also aware of the privilege of earning my bread and my children's shoes by doing that for which I am best qualified on the basis of the education this country allowed me to receive. As for the other charge, suffice it to say that I make it a point to see and screen all movies before allowing any of my three children to attend. If other readers feel, as the gentleman does, that my reviews lean towards the lewd side, let them take warning and keep the kiddies home when I heap praise on a film. Finally, any review, criticism, commentary or article that is signed or carries a byline need not necessarily appear on the editorial page. Journalistic tradition allows its placement anywhere in the paper in spite of the fact that it may or may not reflect the views of the paper, its publisher, or its management.")

Perfect Selection

Dear Editor:

Tempo's article "Get That Kid Out of My Sandpile" was one of the most humorous I have ever read. I secured extra copies and mailed them to friends out of town.

Sounds like a perfect selection for the most unforgettable character series of Reader's Digest.

Sincerely,

COLLETTE SONNENBERG

Tom Jones Romps

A riotous adaptation of Henry Fielding's best selling novel of 300 years ago, "Tom Jones," is currently playing at Forestburgh Summer Theatre, Monticello. Adapted by Brian Gilmar, who also starts as the irrepressible Tom, the play is all about that famous founding who enjoyed a renewed popularity in the Oscar winning movie of five years ago. Background music is by Alexander Maissel, Forestburgh's producer.

Most movie fans are familiar with the rollicking adventure of Tom pursuing and being pursued, cast as Sophia, the ever pure but entirely feminine sweetheart, is Judith Lane; playing Miss Western is Julia Fremon; and Edgar Daniels, a Lincoln Center performer, is Squire Western.

"Tom Jones" has one of the largest casts ever to appear at Forestburgh. It is directed with meticulous excitement and exuberance by Ken Coltigan and will run through Aug. 4.

Also at the neighboring summer theatre this month will be the second in the series of Ruffino operas, bringing Cavalleria and Pagliacci to its stage July 30. Jodelle Keating will sing Nedda and Edoardo Assali, who has sung with the Provincetown, New York City, Philadelphia and Hartford opera companies, will play Alfio.

"Ring of Nibelungs"

At Barn-Museum

A concert that should appeal to many will be held this Sunday afternoon, July 28, at the Barn - Museum of the New York State Symphony Orchestra, located within easy driving distance of Kingston at Coldenham - on - Hudson. It's a piano concert by William Penny Hacker, musical director of the orchestra and it'll begin at 4 p. m., allowing a late afternoon table spread for the audience on the grounds. Hacker will play three of the great Sonatas of Beethoven, the Moonlight, the Waldstein, and the Appassionata. A native New York Stater, Hacker was born in Albany; founded the Arkansas and Virginia State Symphonies; and has conducted the latter since 1949. Equally known as both a pianist and a conductor, he has appeared as pianist throughout the U.S. and also in Canada, Mexico, Holland, Austria and Germany. The Barn - Museum is located off 17K at Coldenham, N.Y. (west of Newburgh). It is easily accessible from the New York Thruway (Newburgh exit). The hay-rig platform of the old barn has been converted into the stage proper with the rustic setting of the barn being kept intact. The spot was especially chosen to combine great moments in music with the natural beauties and national historic backgrounds of the pastoral Hudson Valley.

Two for You: Mammoth Pageant and Fun at Fair

25-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, JULY 27, 1968

AERIAL VIEW of Orange County Fairgrounds zeroes in on mid-way, amusement park and exhibit areas. Fair opened yesterday; runs through Sunday, Aug. 4.

NATIONALLY REGISTERED 8-day Horse Show is part of the 128th Orange County Fair. Some 1,000 equine entries will compete from today through Saturday, Aug. 3.

JOEY CHITWOOD THRILL SHOW, appearing at OC Fair afternoons and evenings on July 29 and Aug. 1, sends auto astronauts into orbit and soaring through space.

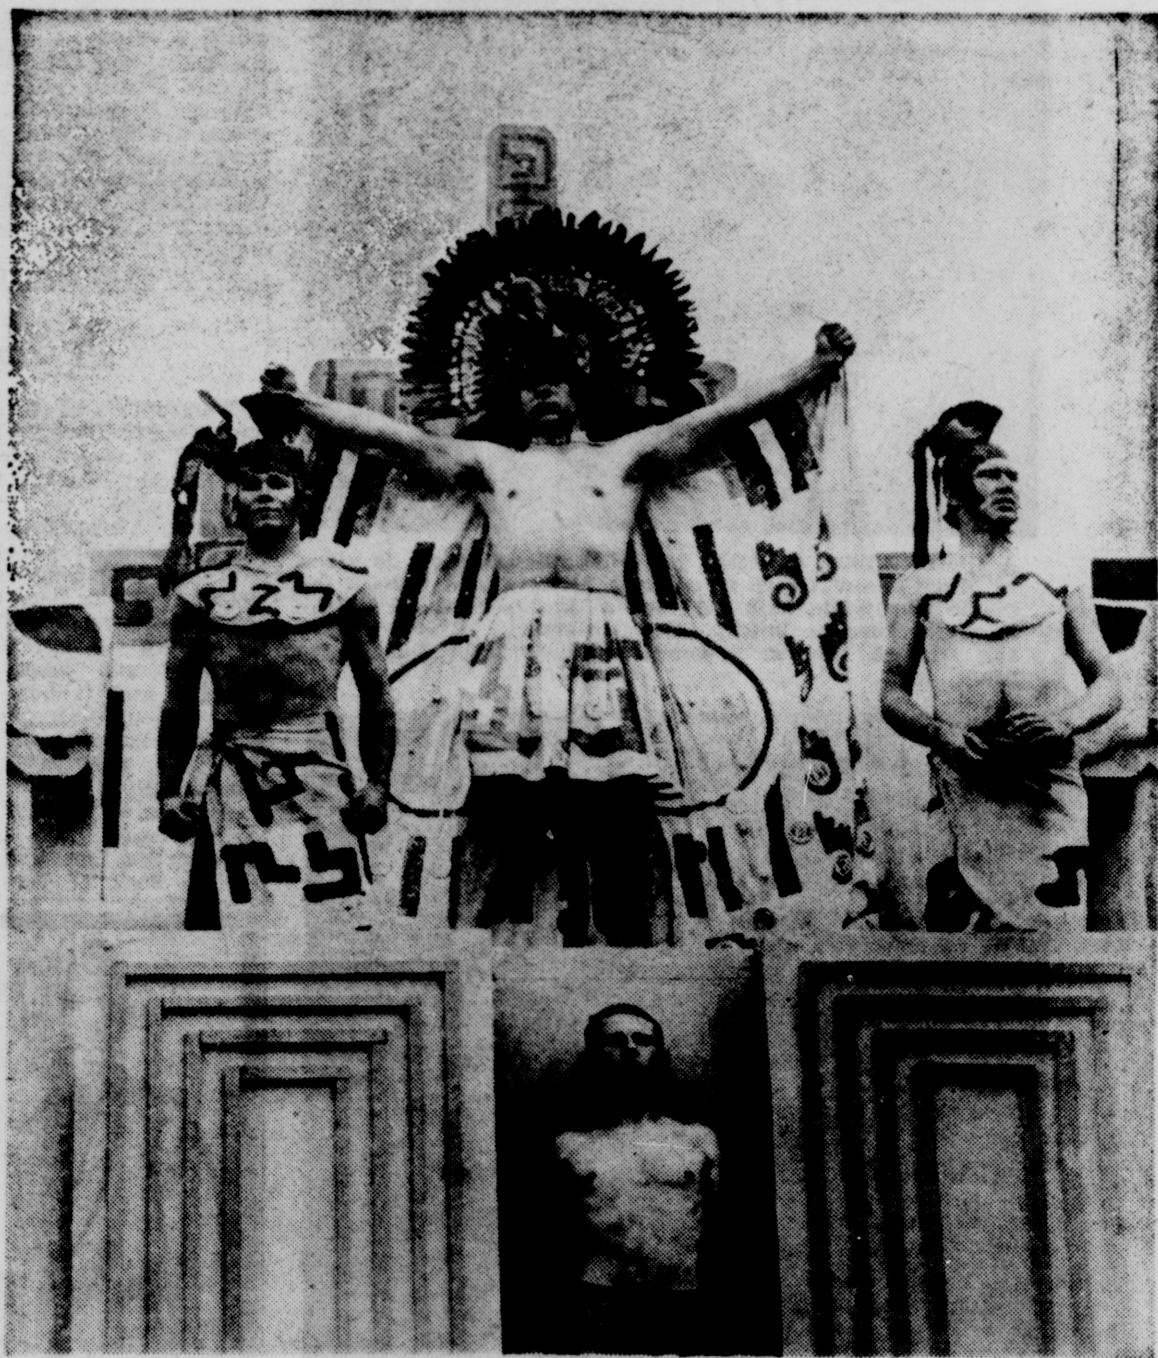

From the most elaborate religious pageant in the world (the Mormons' mammoth Hill Cumorah Pageant), which attracts some 100,000 people each year to Palmyra in New York's Finger Lakes area, come the photos on the right. Awe-inspiring spectacle marks its 31st annual presentation from July 29 to Aug. 3. Crowds of thousands gather under the stars at the foot of a steep hill at 9 p. m. each night of the run to watch the superbly staged production with a cast of hundreds in authentic costumes, playing against a natural backdrop and presenting a pulsating recreation of an ancient chronicle based on the Book of Mormon. Two Kingstonians are performing at Palmyra this year—elders Jeff Hansen and Dean Stubbs, of 124 Downs Street. Although it's a long drive from Ulster and Dutchess, it's worth the trip since it's world renowned and always highly praised for its breathtaking special effects, epic dimensions and show-stopping realism. Located on the N.Y. Thruway, just off Exit 43, the pageant can be seen free, with no charge for either seating or parking.

Subjects Sacred and Sprightly

Photos on left prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the Orange County Fair has opened down Middletown way for a 10-day run. It's now the second largest agricultural exposition in the state; has one of the most outstanding Horse Shows in the Northeast. For adults and children, it offers a change of pace—from the complexities of a computer civilization to the carefree charisma of the carnival. The Fair is FUN . . . from its Flying Cages and Bat Cars for youngsters . . . to its flower, pie, cake and sewing judgments for women . . . to its cattle and poultry competitions, tractor operators contest, and auto thrill shows for men. Incidentally, kids under 16 will be admitted free up to 6 p. m. on July 29 and Aug. 1, and senior citizens (those 75 years and older) pay no admission July 30.

CAST IN THE ROLE of a Nephite maiden in the Palmyra pageant is Ruth Ann Marble, college student from Mala, Idaho, and she's one of the 450 actors in the outstanding annual religious spectacle depicting the story of an ancient American civilization which existed from 600 BC to 421 AD as told in the Book of Mormon.

MOVIES

WILD IN THE STREETS.

The idea on which this film is based, given less emphasis as a "put-on" and more on plausible possibility, could have produced an excellent and absorbing story. Unfortunately, whoever was responsible at American International (the production company that released it), molded "Wild in the Streets" into a movie that is definitely not for the "mature audiences" suggested in its advertising campaign.

It is, however, about a campaign. We are presented with Max Frost, 24 years old and President of the United States. To him, anybody over 30 is too old. He got to be President because more than half the nation's voters are under 25 and their power of the ballot put him in the White House.

Since America is indeed a nation in which the young will soon make up the major portion of the population, and since there is every possibility that 18-year-olds will shortly be given the vote, "Wild in the Streets" (if done well) could have provided food for thought and cause for reflection. But it has not been done well; is not worth seeing; and barely deserves reviewing.

If the U.S. is ripe for the plucking by the under 30 types, it is doubtful that a teen-age entertainer-turned-politician will be tapped as the next Eisenhower. But that's what happens in "Streets" when a delinquent caterwauler (Christopher Jones) gets the young, anti-establishment voters all shook up. It wouldn't have happened, of course, if an opportunistic Senator (Hal Holbrook) hadn't campaigned on the youth image to launch a hippie uprising . . . and succeeded in getting a law passed to enfranchise 15-year-olds. They elect Jones President, attack old befriender Holbrook, and create panic and pandemonium in the streets by hustling off all those who exceed the age limitation to concentration camps.

As shock drama, "Streets" misses (even when it shows members of the Senate hallucinated into hysteria by the effects of LSD in the water system). It is so bad that one can only wonder how Melvin Belli, Louis Lomax, Dick Clark, Walter Winchell, Kenneth Banghart, Pamela Mason and others were ever persuaded to appear in this campy nonsense as themselves.

THUNDER ALLEY, which shares the double bill with "Wild in the Streets" at the Sunset, is a mass of screaming wheels, shingaling dancing and scorched speedways. It features singing idol Fabian as a fiercely competitive young driver who's been suspended indefinitely from stock car racing because his recklessness killed another driver.

But he knows and we know that it wasn't really recklessness that was responsible. It was — hold your breath — a temporary blackout. Still none of his old friends will give him a chance and he's reduced to joining a Thrill Circus specializing in spectacular crashes.

And sure enough there's spectacular crashes and side-swiping races, and way-out dancing at jumping parties, and even Annette Funicello to help Fabian through his blank-outs and blackouts.

Eventually all blind alleys in "Thunder Alley" are conquered by the conquering hero, who ends up with the girl, the winner's trophy and the clue to his problem. Believe it or not, his subconscious was all hung up on a childhood experience of being boxed in and injured during a go-cart race. Leaping lollipops!

PURDENCE AND THE PILL. We didn't laugh once throughout this static comedy — but if you feel the pitfalls posed by the use of a supposedly fool-proof birth control pill could be funny, you might chuckle once or twice.

"Prudence" probably has the most complicated plot hatched in Hollywood this season. The viewer is more dazed than dazzled as he tries to keep up with the labyrinthine convolutions which evolve when four discreet couples, a pair of devil-may-care young moderns, and the maid of an elegant British banker and his wife get their aspirin and birth control pills mixed up. The interrelated chain of marital and extramarital problems ends up sorely lacking as good comedy material — even as a comedy of errors.

We're as broad-minded as the next guy but we still like our comedy with a little animation — and a bumper crop of babies is just a wee bit TOO ANIMATED for us. Still, if you don't wince at swallowing pills and other medications prescribed by your doctor, you just might find "Prudence" funny.

If not — and if you haven't seen it before — you could settle for the second feature at the 9-W Drive-In currently. That would be IN LIKE FLINT, which has to do with ZOWIE (Zonal Organization of World Intelligence Espionage) and its job of controlling a threat to sabotage the government's attempt to launch the first space platform and establish a space research laboratory. Laconic James Coburn stars as Derek Flint, the free-lance spy picked to do the job.

As Flint fans know, their man is a fellow of many talents (his only weapon is a cigarette lighter with more than 80 uses) and diversified tastes (a private harem, a private jet plane). Needless to say, Flint carries the day as superhero, super-intellectual, superspy, and supercool romeo.

Elsewhere around the area, movie-goers will have to settle for hold-overs or films which have already made the rounds. ROSEMARY'S BABY, a shocker about the Devil having designs on a mortal woman and starring Mia Farrow, Ruth Gordon, Sidney Blackmer and John Cassavetes, continues for a third week at the Mayfair. THOROUGHLY MODERN MILLIE, a Roaring Twenties song-and-dance fest with emphasis on comedy and offering Julie Andrews, Carol Channing and Mary Tyler Moore, is in its second week at the Community. THE FOX a controversial film that squares off on a lesbian-heterosexual love triangle (composed of Sandy Dennis, Anne Heywood and Deirdre Dullea), is at the Tinker Street Cinema in Woodstock. THE GREEN BERETS turns out to be red, white and blue headgear with John Wayne winning the Vietnam War and it has just moved from Kingston to the Orpheum in Saugerties. (T.G.)

YOUNG COMMANDOES on a ruthless mission move in swiftly to round up citizens over 35 as teen hippies take over U.S. government administration in this scene from "Wild in the Streets." The color feature is now playing at the Sunset Drive-In along with "Thunder Alley," all about the fiercely competitive world of stock car racing.

A GOOD LUCK CHARM, containing tannin root, is given to Mia Farrow (left) to wear in "Rosemary's Baby," the movie now being held over for a third week at the Mayfair Theatre locally. For Rosemary (Miss Farrow) the strange charm becomes significant for her entire life.

JAMES COBURN, seen here in one of his recent screen excursions as a cowboy, goes high fashion for his role in "Our Man Flint," which is staging a comeback appearance in this area currently at the 9W Drive-In where it's playing on a double bill with "Prudence and the Pill."

Splash of Color at Polari

Woodstock's Polari Gallery, next door to The Playhouse, will present a one-woman show by Dorothy Varian from July 28 to Aug. 10.

Artist Varian has received high praise as a colorist, and working with color is her first interest. Critics have lauded her work in oil as subtle and often shimmering — oriental in its serenity and based on simplicity. And it has been said that although her paintings are spontaneous self-expressions in color, they are controlled emotionally.

Also on display at the Polari show will be some 20 illustrations from the Marquitta Platon book of verse, "Tease the Tiger's Nose," staccato-like black and white drawings credited with being "provocative and evocative."

Rockefeller Collections

Miss Varian has had one-woman exhibitions in Paris at the the Whitney and Downtown Durand-Ruel Gallery, twice at Galleries in New York City, in metropolitan centers across the nation, and in her native Woodstock. She has exhibited internationally at three World's Fairs, the Salon d'Automme, Paris, Duveen Galleries, London, Yale University, the Metropolitan Museum, and in all major museum exhibitions in the United States, including the Carnegie Internationals and

Whitney Museum Annuals. She is also represented in the permanent collections of the Whitney Museum of American Art, Duncan Philips Memorial Gallery, Washington, Dartmouth College Museum, and in the private collections of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., and many others.

The Polari Gallery invites one and all to visit the Varian collection — a kind of cool oasis in the hot summer.

The gallery is open daily from 1 to 5:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 9:30; Saturday's 10 to 5:30 and 7:30 to 9:30; Sundays 12 noon to 5 and 7 to 9. The gallery is closed Tuesdays.

Festival's Weekend Features

The major work of the fourth weekend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's 1968 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is a performance tonight of the Brahms Requiem conducted by the Orchestra's music director, Erich Leinsdorf. Soloists will be Helen Boatwright, soprano, and Sherrill Milnes, baritone. The 78-voice chorus will be the combined Tanglewood Choir and Berkshire Chorus. The Choir consists of Fellows of Berkshire Music Center and participants in Tanglewood programs of the New England Conservatory of Music, and Boston University. The Chorus is made up of residents of the Tanglewood area who work under the direction of the Orchestra's assistant conductor, Charles Wilson. Also on the evening program will be the "Wedding" Cantata (No. 202) of Bach, conducted by Leinsdorf, with Miss Boatwright as soloist.

The weekend programs begin at 7 p. m. in the Tanglewood Music Shed when pianist Malcolm Frager plays the Weekend Prelude Concert, performing the Brahms C Major Sonata and the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody No. 8 in F Sharp minor. Tonight's Boston Symphony Orchestra concert conducted by Leinsdorf features Jorge Bolet as piano soloist in two works, the Konzertstueck of Weber and the Hungarian Fantasy of Liszt. Leinsdorf will also conduct Kraft's Concerto for Percussion and Orchestra, and Schumann's Symphony No. 2.

The Sunday concert will be conducted by the third guest conductor of the current Festival, Josef Krips, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Krips will lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra in performances of Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, Strauss's "Don Juan," and Stravinsky's "Firebird" Suite.

A Sunday Morning Chamber Music Concert will be presented in the Shed at 10:30 a. m.; will feature the Music Guild String Quartet, playing works of Haydn, Bartok and Ravel.

Looking ahead, the Festival of Contemporary American Music, co-sponsored by the Berkshire Music Center and the Fromm Music Foundation, begins Sunday, Aug. 4 and will run through Saturday, Aug. 10. Highlights of the week will be the premieres of four new works commissioned for the Festival from composers Mark De Voto, William McKinley, Stanley Silverman, and Richard Trythall.

Woody Allen's 'Death Knocks' Opening in Area

Woody Allen, one of America's foremost humorists, has been added to the roster of playwrights for the Berkshire Theatre Festival's third production of the current season, "Next," an evening of comedy opening Wednesday, Aug. 7. "Next" will run for two weeks at the Stockbridge, Mass., showplace, which is little more than an hour's drive from Kingston.

Woody Allen's play "Death Knocks," which he refers to as "an existential vaudeville sketch for two comedians," will join Terrence McNally's comedy "Next" and Elaine May's "Adaptation" in the evening of comedy.

"A Matter of Position," the Festival's first production this year was written by Miss May and Terrence McNally's "Cuba Si" recently received high acclaim at Theatre Four in Provincetown. Mr. Allen and Miss May are two of America's funniest people; are well known for their Broadway plays, recordings and numerous movie and television appearances.

"Death Knocks" and "Next," the confrontation between a middle-aged overweight draftee and a lady examiner, will be directed by Steven Vinaver, who directed "The Mad Show," the successful off-Broadway revue. Miss May will direct her own play.

They're in Residence

Both Miss May and McNally are in residence at the Stockbridge Festival currently, and patrons and visitors meet them frequently on the grounds. McNally's play "The Witness" was recently produced at the Barr-Wilder-Albee Playwright's Unit Workshop, and he will have a volume of his plays, "Apple Pie," published by Random House this fall. "Apple Pie" was praised after production on NET-TV this season and McNally is now represented off-Broadway with "Collision Course."

The three playwrights can be expected to create a "special" evening for the Festival, its stage and its audiences—an evening as open-ended as possible and with emphasis on the very funny and the truly experimental.

This past Wednesday, William Gibson's play "A Cry of Players," opened as Berkshire's second production and is running two weeks until "Next" takes over. Oscar winning movie star

Anne Bancroft and Frank Langella are starring in this work by the author of "Two for the Seesaw" and "The Miracle Worker." Gene Frankel directs "Cry" which takes place in an anonymous 1580's town visited by a troupe of players and jugglers. Action centers on a man trapped in a stifling marriage and narrow-minded society, who is fascinated by the traveling players and whose eventual decisions change his life and churn the dull existence of the town into a frenzy. Music by Richard Peaslee, who composed the score for the Royal Shakespeare Company's production of "Marat/Sade," highlight the play.

Tonight's show is sold out but tickets are available for all other performances by writing the Berkshire Theatre Festival in Stockbridge.

DANCE

Jacob's Pillow, the Dance Festival that holds forth just across the state line at Lee, Mass., will present a rare program of dance—combining modern dance works by Norman Walker and Company, and ancient Hindu dance styles by Nala Najan. Geared to fascinate, the program will have seven performances from July 30 through Aug. 3, with 3 p. m. matinees on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and 8:40 p. m. presentations Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Norman Walker has become a great favorite at the Pillow (he has also appeared in Ulster County with the Turnau Opera) and his part of the program will include works choreographed to the music of Richard Rodney Bennett, Benjamin Britten and a contemporary folk-rock piece.

Walker's new dance styles are expected to blend with the exciting but contrasting old styles and music of India. Nala Najan, one of the finest ex-ponents of Hindu dance, represents the 2,000 year old tradition of India's dance art, and his offerings will include the Bharata Natyam and Kathakali styles, along with the rare and unique Chhau "masked dances."

Walker and his company have performed in Puerto Rico, the Peabody Institute, Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall—indeed, almost everywhere throughout the U.S. Najan has just returned to this country after an extensive tour of India and Italy.

A series of dance lectures also continues at the Pillow. Ann Barzel, noted dance critic for the Chicago American, will lecture on "Style and the Dancer" in the Ted Shawn Theatre this Sunday, July 28 at 8:30 p. m. She'll illustrate her talk with rare dance films from her own personal collection, all filmed during her 20 year career as a dance critic and editorial associate. Her illustrated lecture is open to the public.

Paltz Enters First Festival

State University at New Paltz is among the 191 entrants in the first American College Theatre Festival, says the Festival's national office in Washington, D. C.

New Paltz, which has a most active theater program, will be screened next fall along with other entrants from New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the three states comprising one participating region.

The American College Theatre Festival will be staged April 27 to May 12 (1969) in Washington in the newly restored Fords' Theatre (where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated) and in an innovative temporary Theater on the Mall. There'll be 10 Festival productions and each will be presented three times.

The Festival is being organized and produced by the American Educational Theatre Association (AETA) and the American National Theatre and Academy (ANTA). American Airlines, the Friends of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Smithsonian Institution are sponsoring the Festival.

Alternates, Too

Festival participants across the country will be judged by 13 regional committees. Each regional committee may nominate up to three productions for consideration by the Festival's central committee. In regions where there are more than 18 entries, two alternates may be named in addition to the three nominees.

The central committee will make the final selection of 10 Festival productions next February. Actress Peggy Wood, honorary president of ANTA, is co-chairman of the central committee with Dr. C. Robert Kase, former president of AETA.

The American College Theatre Festival has been organized to give national recognition to the high quality of college and university theater productions and to promote increased public interest in theater.

Cherishing the Old

Lake Mohonk Mountain House

Any list of "very special places" in this area would have to include the name of The Lake Mohonk Mountain House on Mohonk Lake at New Paltz. Still cherishing the old traditions and old world charm of the early mountain houses that once dotted the Catskills in abundance, Mohonk keeps pace with today in its commitment to culture and world affairs.

This season a series of International Nights is being held on Wednesdays during July and August. The entertainment potpourri featured includes films, slide talks, poster displays, and even favorite dishes on the evening menu. Next Wednesday's "Night" will take participants to Czechoslovakia.

Two lectures are also slated for Mohonk audience in the week ahead. Dr. Charles Smiley will speak on "The Earth as Seen from Space" this coming Monday evening, and on "The Mayan Civilization" on Aug. 1.

Emphasis on Art

Mohonk also boasts an art gallery in its Lake Lounge, where a succession of exhibits and displays are appearing during the summer. Currently on view: a stunning collection of colored photographs of land and sea by Ruth H. Smiley, and a collection of seaweed collages by Rose Treat, whose talent takes a hobby and turns it into an art form of fragile and delicate beauty.

So diversified is the leisurely life at Mohonk that it runs the gamut from conferences on international arbitration (pertinent in this day of Paris peace talks) to fishing contests and wild - flower - birding - hiking - and - nature presentations on weekends and holidays and — in some instances — over full weeks.

In Mohonk's Gift Shop, local handicrafts are available (including seaweed bookmarks by Rose Treat). Also of interest and on sale there: the first educational booklet of The Mohonk Trust in the area of natural history. Titled "The Natural History of Undercliff Road," it's by Daniel Smiley and Dr. Frank E. Egler; has 51 photographs by Mrs. Egler and Virginia Smiley. The booklet leads the reader on an excursion touching on 17 "stations" on Undercliff Road in the Trapps, an area readily accessible from Rt. 44 - 55 from the familiar steel bridge — and one which is probably the only locale in the northeast where it is possible for the average walker to traverse a talus slope.

Mansion Music

Music and mansions were made for each other and the Hudson Valley Chamber Music Circle knows this fact full well. The Circle is presenting the first performance of the newly formed Monteux Chamber Players at the Vanderbilt Mansion on Route 9 in Hyde Park, tonight at 8:30.

The new group is a 12 string ensemble, conducted by Claude Monteux, and the ensemble boasts seven violins, two violas, two cellos and a double bass. Tonight's program will include Purcell's "Three Pieces for String Orchestra;" a sinfonia by C.P.E. Bach; a contemporary work by Britten, "The Simple Symphony;" Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik;" and J. S.

Bach's "Polonaise and Badinerie from Suite in B minor." Conductor Monteux will play a flute solo in the latter piece.

Oils and More From Angeloch

Opening today with a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. at Woodstock's Lewis Gallery, a distinctive one-man show: oils, silk screen prints and water colors of Robert Angeloch.

The recipient of numerous awards, Angeloch rose rapidly to national prominence and his interpretations from nature range widely from representational toward more abstract.

Included in the Lewis Gallery show will be "Early March" which recently won first prize for oils at the 19th Annual Exhibition of the Academic Artists Association at Springfield Museum of Fine Arts. Also to be viewed: small paintings from the artist's trip to Ireland last year; paintings of the cliffs and dunes at Napeague and Montauk; subjects culled from this part of the Catskills; selections from a series of silk screen prints done last winter.

Angeloch works shown recently in New Orleans drew kudos from critics. Of his representational canvases, one writer said: "Excellent in mood, good in color and poetic in mood." Another suggested "that the realistic styles 'pale' before the artist's more abstract works... that though much more removed from Mother Nature, they reflect even more of her true essence."

Robert Angeloch has been honored with a 10-year retrospective show of his work at the Albany Institute of History and Art. During the past year he has shown in Jackson, Miss., Memphis, Tenn., and New Orleans, La.

Following today's opening at the Lewis gallery, the Angeloch show will continue through Aug. 4. Gallery hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. daily and from 8 to 10 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Storm King's Baroque Fare

A Baroque Program will be presented by the Monteux Chamber Players of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society this Sunday, July 28, 3 p.m., at Storm King Art Center, Mountainville, N. Y.

Claude and Marianne Monteux, flutes, will join Kenneth Fricker, bass, and Sylvia Suzowsky, harpsichord, in a chamber recital of Purcell, Pergolesi, Haydn, Vivaldi, Telemann and Handel.

Claude Monteux, Hudson Valley Philharmonic conductor, composer, lecturer in music, and recording artist, is acknowledged today as one of our leading flutists. As a recital flutist he has appeared in the major cities of Europe, has given a command performance at the White House, and has performed under the batons of Toscanini, Mitropoulos, Walter, with Casals in Puerto Rico, and his father, Pierre Monteux.

Mrs. Monteux, skilled on both flute and piano, has been an instructor with the New York College of Music, Westchester Conservatory of Music and Oakwood School.

Kenneth Fricker, a graduate of Juilliard School of Music, is associated with The Group for Contemporary Music under the auspices of Columbia University. He is personnel manager and principal bassist of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic; is currently on the staff of Westchester Conservatory of Music in White Plains.

Sylvia Suzowsky, harpsichord and piano, has been a soloist with the New York Philharmonic Pops, National Orchestral Association and the Norwalk Symphony. She has given recitals in the Northeastern States and Ireland.

Art Picnic Style

For the public is the fourth annual art show being sponsored by the Olive Free Library, Route 28A, West Shokan. The exhibit will be held on the library grounds Saturday, Aug. 3 and Sunday, Aug. 4; will feature the work of amateur and professional artists who reside in the Town of Olive. An extra added fillip on Saturday only will be an Old Fashioned Picnic Lunch, served up at a nominal cost and in nostalgic style.

City Post Offices Return to Normal Service

By HUGH REYNOLDS

"As far as I'm concerned, we're right back to normal service," Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk told The Freeman, in regards to the Senate's temporary reprieve on postal cutbacks.

Newkirk said he received word by telephone last night about 10 p. m. to maintain normal Saturday service. Subsequently, the city's three post offices, the main post office at 90 Cornell Street, Uptown Branch at 50 Main Street and the Rondout Station at 58 Broadway, were open until noon today.

In Washington, D.C., late yesterday, Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson, upon learning of the Senate's 47-16 vote to exempt mailmen from a congressional payroll cutback order, said telegrams would be sent out to 12,000 post offices ordering them to ignore a previous directive on cut backs.

Newkirk said today he has yet to receive a telegram from Watson.

Watson had told Congress he had to cut 83,238 employees over the next four years to get back to the June 30, 1966 employment level Congress had dictated.

Third Largest
The post office is currently the nation's third largest employer with 714,000 workers. The defense department is number one followed by General Motors Corp.

Newkirk noted today that cutbacks would not effect his regular employees. Cuts would fall on special employees such as the seven college students hired last summer. Newkirk special help for the Christmas Holidays. "We have to get the mail out," he said.

Senate Debates 4 Hours
The senate debated four hours before acting to exclude the expected to continue hiring Post Office along with the Federal Aviation Administration

because of the latter's air traffic control shortage. The cuts came as part of Congress' price for a income tax increase requested by President Johnson.

The Senate action came as an amendment to a bill making it a federal crime to assault or harm a Post Office employee. Presently, only postal inspectors are covered under such a statute.

Chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee A. S. Mike Maroney, said yesterday that the mail service cutbacks proposed by Watson would result in "third and fourth class service to first class users."

Under Watson's plan Saturday window service would have been curtailed and Saturday collection of mail from street deposit boxes would also be adjusted to conform to the generally less - frequent Sunday collections.

The department said these were the first steps in a sharp curtailment of operations that eventually would lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and restricting of residential deliveries to four days a week.

The Senate added its exemption as a rider to a minor post office bill, opening the way for House approval without having to go through the committee process.

Congress is scheduled to adjourn next Friday until September so members can attend the national political conventions.

Watson said he put off the cutbacks "because the vote of the Senate today indicates an understanding of our highly critical problem of handling a larger workload with a smaller work force."

Under the income tax bill, which increased the individual tax rate 10 per cent and ordered federal spending cut by $6 billion, all government agencies are to cutback personnel to the June 1966 level.

83,000 Over Two Years
This would cost the post office 83,000 employees over the next two years by preventing it from filling one in every four vacancies.

Reaction of congressmen, who felt any exemptions to the tax bill would hurt its effectiveness, was cool until reports spread on Capitol Hill late last week that the department was escalating cutbacks to include thousands of branches and eventually a four day week for some services.

Two senators, Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, and John J. Williams, R-Del., criticized Friday's action.

Lausche said it "torpedoed all the good" in the tax bill. Williams said it may have "paved the way to a major depression" by rejecting restraint.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic vice presidential picture appeared to be wide open today following Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's "final, firm" decision against accepting the position at next month's national convention.

The names of Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and Fred R. Harris and Ambassador to France Sargent Shriver were mentioned as possible running mates if front-running Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, campaigning in Kansas when the Kennedy statement was released in Boston, said the decision by the Massachusetts senator "speaks for itself" and is "understandable."

Declines Comment
But he declined, as he has all along, to comment on who might be under consideration.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared today his goal is "peace — nothing less" and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said black power is the road to black dignity and responsibility. Story on page 16.

McCarthy, Humphrey's chief rival for the nomination, had no immediate comment on either Kennedy's decision or the possibility of taking No. 2 spot himself which he has in the past rejected.

A Humphrey-McCarthy ticket would pose a problem since both come from Minnesota and the Constitution bars a state's electoral college votes from going to residents of the same state.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., suggested that "Sargent Shriver is the only vice presidential candidate who makes sense to me if he (Humphrey) can't get McCarthy."

Shriver, Kennedy's brother-in-law who headed the Peace Corps and the antipoverty program before becoming ambassador this spring, has never run for public office.

Humphrey aides, who have insisted no decision on the vice presidency was imminent, have said that both McCarthy and Shriver are possibilities.

There is also support from within the Humphrey camp for Harris, who is co-chairman of the vice president's campaign along with Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

But an aide said the 37-year-old Oklahoma Democrat has given no thought to the possibility.

Propose Moderate
Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who had criticized the possibility of a Kennedy candidacy earlier in the week, said in Austin, Tex., that he and five other Southern and border state governors told Humphrey Thursday to choose a running mate "more moderate than you are."

In his statement, Kennedy said he would regard the nomination as "a high honor and a challenge to further public service" but that "For me, this year, it is impossible."

He said that the reasons are entirely personal in view of the heavy family responsibilities thrust on him by the assassination last month of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

The statement issued from Kennedy's Boston office ended weeks of speculation that the brother of the slain President John and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would take the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

Felt Other Pressures
In Washington, State Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he felt "pressures more political than personal" had been exerted on Kennedy "so that he and his name could be used as political assets."

Meanwhile, South Dakota Sen. George McGovern, who backed the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the presidential nomination, today refused to endorse Humphrey and said the vice president could not in good conscience run on a platform committed to rapidly ending the Vietnam war.

He said the Democrats must nominate a presidential candidate and adopt a platform committed to hastening the end of hostilities in Vietnam.

But, said the senator, "superb platform pledges alone" are not enough. He said "it is imperative that we nominate a standardbearer who can run with a clear mind and conscience in our party's platform."

"That is why I have declined to endorse the candidacy of an old and dear friend—the vice president."

However, McGovern did not say who he would support, and did not mention the candidacy of Sen. McCarthy, who shared many of Kennedy's views on Vietnam.

McGovern is a favorite-son candidate but has disclaimed interest in a serious bid for the nomination.

End Cleveland Crisis, Troops Withdrawn

By DAVID SPURR

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Mayor Carl B. Stokes, saying the "crisis" had passed today, withdrew all National Guard troops from the Negro East Side, torn by violence which left 10 persons dead.

He said there would be no more curfew in the area.

Stokes said 1,200 National Guard troops left at 7 a.m. EDT, today "and will not return."

He said 1,500 other troops would "remain here on a standby basis" but were expected to be withdrawn from the city by Sunday if the situation remained calm.

Stokes said he believed "the crisis is passed." He ordered the city's 2,100 policemen off the emergency 12-hour shifts they had been working since the violence erupted in the East Side Tuesday night when the 10 persons, including three white policemen, were killed.

The hot racial tempers cooled to near normal, some Negro leaders complained today that neither they nor Stokes have been given enough credit for averting a racial bloodbath.

The week might have ended with far more than three policemen and seven civilians dead, they said, had they not been allowed a 24-hour cooling off period to patrol the streets Wednesday night with National Guardsmen and white police withdrawn.

Reduced law enforcement patrols reported few incidents Friday night, even though Stokes pushed back the start of curfew to midnight to let slum residents enjoy part of their usual Friday night out.

Police from as far as Boston planned to attend today's memorial Mass for their three slain colleagues, as the man who boasted he planned the gunfight that took their lives was charged with their murders.

"We knew Wednesday evening that if white policemen had gone into the black community Wednesday night there would have been a wholesale slaughter of black people," said William Picard, director of Cleveland's National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

enjoy part of their usual Friday night out.

Police from as far as Boston planned to attend today's memorial Mass for their three slain colleagues, as the man who boasted he planned the gunfight that took their lives was charged with their murders.

"We knew Wednesday evening that if white policemen had gone into the black community Wednesday night there would have been a wholesale slaughter of black people," said William Picard, director of Cleveland's National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Stokes, who made two trips into the six-square-mile East Side trouble zone Friday to ask for citizen cooperation, ordered all city flags to be flown at half staff in honor of the slain policemen.

He and his wife sent notes of condolence to each of the three families, all of whom will hold their own, private funeral services.

Fred Ahmed Evans, the bearded black nationalist charged with murder, remained in Cuyahoga County jail under $250,000 bond. He pleaded innocent to three earlier charges—possession of a carbine, shooting with intent to kill and possession of marijuana.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in a copyright story, said tow truck driver William H. McMillan, the first man shot in Tuesday night's sniper battle, identified Evans as the man who fired a carbine slug still in his body.

Police and guardsmen raided two hotels and Evans' home in neighborhoods frequented by black nationalists in search of weapons Friday.

Capt. George Sperber, head of the police intelligence unit, said they found rifles and bloody bandages at one hotel, and about 15 weapons at the home, including shotguns and assorted single shot and fully automatic rifles.

The body of one gunman, he added, may still be in the rubble of the burned-out home.

About 2,000 members of the Ohio National Guard remained on duty, and Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, Ohio adjutant general, said that if order was maintained half might be sent home today, and the rest Sunday.

Guerrillas Attack U.S. Thailand Base

By GEORGE ESPEY

SAIGON (AP) — A guerrilla force attacked a U.S. Air Force base in Thailand for the first time in the Vietnam war Friday night, damaging two planes, killing a Thai guard and wounding four Americans.

Two of the enemy were reported killed and one captured during the brief assault on Udorn Air Base in northern Thailand, an area which the Bangkok government says is infested by North Vietnamese-backed guerrillas.

An Air Force spokesman said it was the first time an American base in Thailand had come under attack. Udorn, with 6,500

airmen and 100 warplanes, is the largest of seven U.S. bases in Thailand from which most strikes are mounted against North Vietnam.

Associated Press correspondent Peter O'Loughlin reported that a combined Thai-American security force drove the enemy back as they tried to place explosives around the parked aircraft.

An F4 and a C141 Starlifter, a four-engine jet cargo aircraft fitted for medical evacuation, were damaged by fire. Two Air Force women corpsmen were at the evacuation craft when the attack began, but were not harmed.

The attackers also triggered an ammunition and fuel explosion which was brought under control quickly.

In South Vietnam, enemy gunners zeroed in with rockets for the third straight night on the Da Nang fighter base, from which attack missions are also mounted against the panhandle.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Goldsmith reported from Da Nang, 375 miles north of Saigon, that one squadron from the 1st Marine Air Wing was temporarily grounded after a Russian-made 100-pound rocket scored a direct hit on a hangar housing several of the Marine A6 all-weather jet intruders. One of the $6 million aircraft was destroyed and another heavily damaged.

One plane, loaded with more than 20 500-pound bombs blew up and burned. Several of the bombs exploded, wrecking the central part of the hangar. Marine maintenance men working on the planes rushed to bunkers when the first 10 rockets hit the base. No casualties were reported.

In the ground war, 1st Air Cavalry discovered a major enemy base camp that contained large field hospitals, quantities of medicines, narcotics and bandages. The outpost, known as base camp 114, is about 50 miles square and lies west and southwest of the old imperial capital of Hue. It is a sector that has come under heavy B52 bombardment in recent days.

Around Saigon, ground action was reported light.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced the loss of two more fighter-bombers during strikes over North Vietnam's southern panhandle. It raised to 872 the number of American warplanes reported downed in combat over the North during the war.

Three of the four crewmen aboard the two planes were listed as missing and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

U.S. Marines battled an unknown-sized enemy force five hours Friday south of Da Nang. Fourteen Viet Cong and five Marines were reported killed and 33 Marines wounded.

In a delayed report, headquarters said U.S. Marines uncovered 37 long range rockets in a North Vietnamese weapons cache just below the central part of the demilitarized zone Thursday.

The latest two U.S. planes reported downed over the North were lost Thursday, but headquarters delayed announcement while there was a search and rescue effort on.

U.S. B52 bombers continued to pound suspected enemy troop concentrations along the Cambodian border. The eight-jet Stratofortresses launched three missions today against enemy base camps 68 miles northwest of Saigon. Some strikes were only a little more than a mile from the Cambodian border.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Faith in Atlanta is exemplified by these two men, Albert J. Bows, Jr., president of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce (right) and Harmon D. Moore, executive director, Christian Council of Metropolitan Atlanta.

Early in March, 1968, Mr. Bows was encouraged by the minister to speak to the Christian Council of the growing tensions and problems of jobs, housing, schools, parks and transportation. In his speech entitled, "An opportunity for the Church and for Atlanta," he challenged the clergy, and laymen as well, to help change human attitudes, in order to relieve racial tensions so that these problems could be solved.

Dr. Moore, whose 25 years of experience as a U. S. Army chaplain had given him deep insight into these problems, was enthusiastic. He and other members of the Christian Council unanimously endorsed a resolution to "respond to the urban crisis." The Jewish community also supported the council's efforts. Mr. Bows had three specific suggestions for the church:

1. To work on at least one public housing project.
2. To encourage employers to help provide jobs.
3. To provide more interchange of ideas and activities between white and Negro churches.

Mr. Bows ended his speech with this plea: "Help us as individuals to become so involved with our concern for each other that there will be no need for violence, tensions or pressures in trying to solve our problems. If we can do all of this, maybe some day we can learn to live in the same community peacefully, with dignity and respect for each other."

Religious Freedom Was Myth in Early America

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
Our forefathers came to this country seeking religious liberty and set up a system of government under which church and state are strictly separated and every man is free to worship as he pleases.

Do you agree with that statement? Most Americans would. It's a capsule expression of one of our most cherished national myths.

It's bad history on two grounds. First, it attributes to all early settlers of America a motive that was dominant for only a small minority.

Most serious, it falsely implies that religious freedom and its necessary precondition, church-state separation, have always existed in America.

Late Bloomer
Actually, religious freedom was a late-blooming flower on the tree of American democracy.

Except in a few islands of enlightenment, such as Quaker Pennsylvania and Baptist Rhode Island, colonial America made free use of government coercion to compel religious conformity.

Massachusetts in 1644 made it a crime, punishable by banishment, to be a Baptist. It was an even greater crime to be a Quaker. Quakers had an ear lopped off, or a hole burned through the tongue with a hot poker.

Although state-enforced religious bigotry subsided somewhat after the Salem witch trials of 1692, it did not disappear. Nine of the 13 colonies still had established churches at the time of the revolution.

The First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, ratified in 1791, forbade the federal government to establish a church or interfere in any way with freedom of religion. But this limitation did not apply to state governments until the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted after the Civil War.

Connecticut maintained an established church until 1818. New Hampshire kept on taxing its citizens for support of the Congregationalist clergy until 1833.

Continue Favoritism
Even after the era of state churches finally came to a close, legislatures and courts continued to give favored treatment to the Christian religion as opposed to all other faiths.

In 1889, the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the right of Congress to dissolve the charter of the Mormon church because Mormons practiced polygamy which, the court said, was "contrary to the spirit of Christianity and of the spirit which Christianity has produced in the western world."

And this sort of thing continued right on into the 20th century.

Even now, some state and local courts ignore the Supreme Court's view that it's unconstitutional for an agency of government to give special recognition or favored treatment to the Christian religion.

Only last week, a man named Irvin West was sentenced to a 30-day prison term in Westminster, Md., for "taking the Lord's name in vain in a public place."

Dr. Snyder came to this area last August to become superintendent of the Ontario Central School District. He had previously been superintendent principal of the High Point Regional High School in Sussex County, N. J., where he had the sole responsibility for its planning and organization. Earlier in his professional career he had been chairman of the Music Department in the Maryvale School System in Western New York for nine years during which time he spent two years as administrative assistant to the district principal and two years as director of the summer school.

His community experience includes active membership in the Masons and Kiwanis Club, P-T-A and Scouting, as well as positions as choir director, assistant Sunday school superintendent and personnel manager of the Cheektowaga Symphonic Orchestra. Overlook Church he has been a member and soloist in the senior choir.

Dr. Snyder and his wife reside in Woodstock and are the parents of three sons.

State Agency Set to Tackle Newburgh Slums
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The State Urban Development Corporation, the giant, multi-billion-dollar agency created by Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature to clean up city slums, may tackle its first big job in the City of Newburgh.

Edward Logue, head of the powerful new agency, is awaiting a response from Newburgh City officials to his telegram last week in which he declared the UDC ready to help develop the Lake Street area.

Logue's telegram indicated that Newburgh government and civic officials had invited the corporation to assist in efforts to provide low-income public housing, mixed-income housing, recreational, commercial, industrial and other facilities.

A Logue spokesman said today efforts were underway to arrange a meeting early next week with Newburgh officials to nail down an agreement.

The agency is empowered to condemn property in any of the state's cities and launch renewal projects even if local authorities object.

When he unveiled plans for its creation, Rockefeller predicted the UDC would attract something like $5 billion in private capital for every $1 billion the agency borrowed through bonds.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of a sick child. Children under the care of a regular physician are not admitted except under his direction. In order to avoid overcrowded clinics, an appointment is required for admission to the clinic. The Teen Scene

These last weeks of vacation can be a pretty frantic scene. We had so much planned for the summer, and now it is almost over, and with it, it seems, our fun for another year. This kind of thinking can make us take risks that will end this summer's plans a month early. It doesn't take a major accident to cause a lot of problems—and it doesn't take a lot of care to avoid the common summer bummers.

There's more to water safety than the routine drowning prevention steps. Are you careful that the water you swim in is not polluted? That cool, bubbling country brook may be downstream from an open sewerage pipe, or may contain pesticide drainoff from somebody's lawn. Hepatitis and severe nose and ear infections can result from a dip in impure water. Scuba and skin diving is a key sport where available, but if you have a lung disease or asthma, you'd better watch from shore. Even if you're sure you're in top condition, you ought to get a rigid physical before venturing underwater. Even a mild sinus condition or mouth infection can be dangerous when your using compressed oxygen and exerting yourself underwater.

Cookout Tips

Cooking out is a part of summer, and with a very little care it can be enjoyed with no ill effects. Be sure your hot dogs, hamburger, potato salad and other spoilables are kept cold (and cold ENOUGH) until cooked or eaten. Make sure hot dogs and all ground meat products are well-cooked. Don't try to cook indoors on your charcoal barbecue or hibachi. Of course you'll be careful how you light it, but it's also smart to have a fire extinguisher handy—or at least a box of baking soda for grease fires—in case you want to extinguish a fire again.

Some people are naturally immune to poison ivy, while others are very sensitive. The best cure is to know the three-leaved crawler and avoid it. However, many people develop a rash after touching an object or animal that's been in the ivy. If you notice the rash forming, with its maddening itch, don't scratch it. Rubbing alcohol sloshed on generously will stop the itch and dry the oil that causes it as well or better than more expensive preparations. For another summer problem, a mentholated jelly will help cool sunburn that you knew how to avoid, but you got anyway.

Other accident hazards are electricity near water, and small wild animal babies which may appear to be deserted, but which are being jealously watched by protective mothers with sharp teeth. Remember, too, that the first rain after a dry spell rinses up road film and turns the road as slick as ice.

Common sense won't cut in on your summer thing—in fact you'll have a better time if you know you're not going to get totaled out by carelessness. And we all want to be in good shape for the first day of school, don't we? (And WHY did we have to bring that up . . . ?)

A blockbuster of a block dance is being planned for area teenagers. Slated Aug. 6 from 7 to 9 p.m., the dance will be held on Dederick Street, a short dead end street off Broadway across from the YMCA. Live music will be provided for the gala event. Rain date has been set Aug. 13. There will be no admission charge. The dance is just one of the teen-aged events and happenings growing out of cooperative efforts of the YMCA, YWCA and the Kingston Recreation Department. At a recent meeting of representatives from the three organizations, plans were finalized for the block dance. At least one more happening is being considered as well as publication and distribution of a booklet designed to alert youth to the seriousness of shop-lifting.

Headed for College-Then Go Prepared

So you're headed for college this fall? Pretty exciting prospect isn't it? But do go prepared.

Experts say there are two major adjustments to college—academic and social. To help the entering freshman, a five session course in How to Study in College will start Monday night in Ulster County Community College through the sponsorship of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA.

The essence of learning how to study on a college level is not how you read and write nearly as much as how you listen. Forty-five per cent of college classroom time is listening and absorbing. Listening wisely and well is the basis of all learning.

Varied Offerings

Subjects to be covered by five classes include:

How people learn, why we forget, the art of listening, how to take college lecture notes, motivation for maximum college performance, how to plan your time, a basic study formula, technique of review, themes and reports, preparing for and taking tests, the vocabulary of college, what you need to know about each course and professor, when and how to obtain academic assistance, understanding college libraries, personal problems in adjustment to college living.

More than 35 high school graduates have registered for the local course. Registrations are still open. Information may be obtained by contacting the YMCA office on Broadway or calling the college. Registrations will be accepted at the Y until closing 10 p.m. tonight or at the college up to class time Monday.

Teacher for the course which has proved popular across the nation will be Everett E. Lynch, undergraduate student advisor of the school of humanities, social studies and education at Purdue University. In addition, he is a pre-law student advisor and a graduate student advisor for the department of history.

Well Versed

In his role as advisor, Lynch has acquired a comprehensive knowledge of the problems that face freshman students when they leave the security of their high school senior classes and enter the "confusion and strangeness" of the college classroom. He has also viewed this transitional period as the parent of four children.

The course was developed a number of years ago by Robert F. Schwartz, dean of Purdue, and has played to students throughout the country. In 1967, it was offered at YMCA's in 45 cities to more than 4,000.

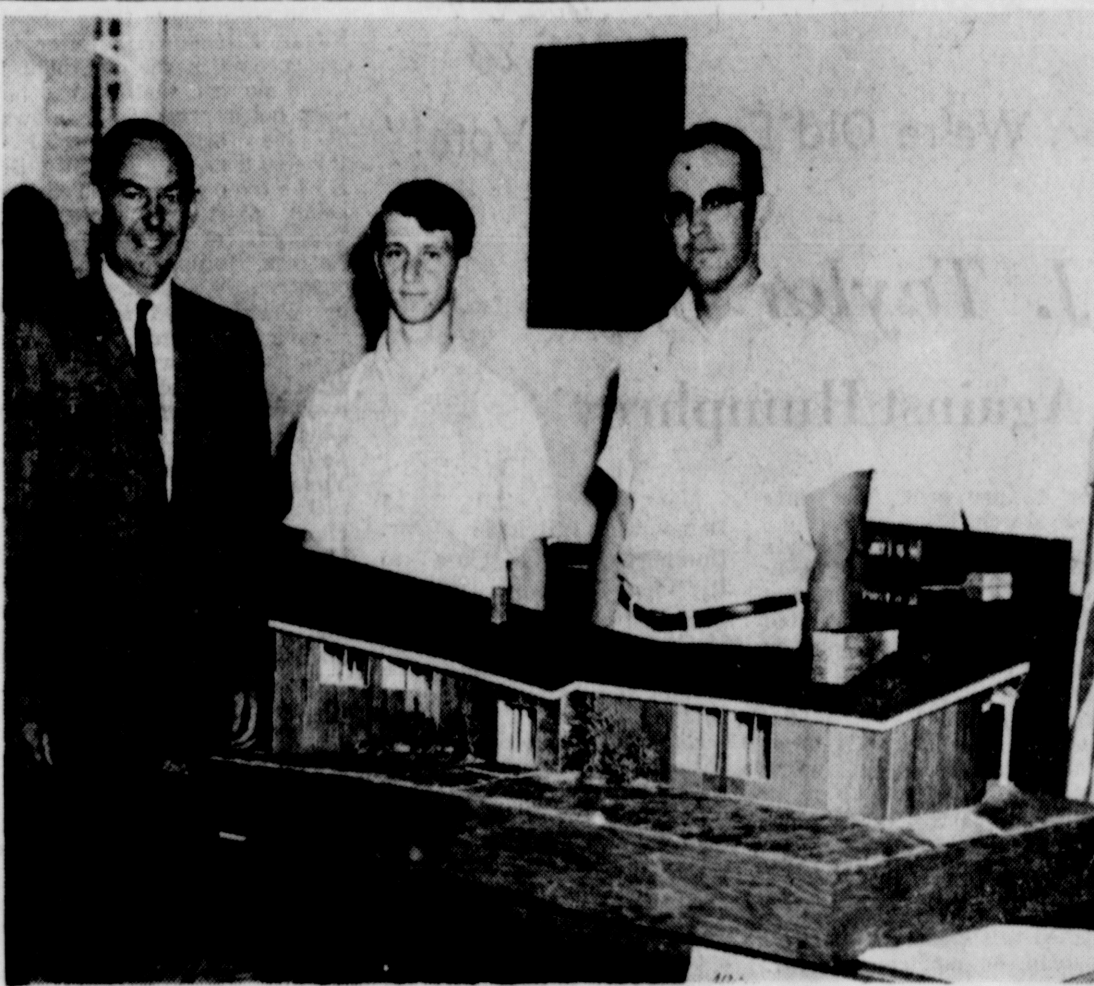

Far from remedial course, the college "survival" program is aimed at solving the transitional problems of the entering student.

And have no fear, the language of the course is far from humdrum "academese." Favoring straightforward, breezy approach, the course is geared especially for the college-bound faced with new social and academic whirls to conquer.

LEARN TO STUDY — Everett E. Lynch, a popular Purdue University instructor, prepares for How to Study in College course to be offered locally through the cooperation of the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA and the Ulster County Community College. Classes for high school graduates start Monday night at the Stone Ridge campus and will continue through the week. Registration may be made at the college up to class time Monday or at the YMCA on Broadway up to closing tonight 10 o'clock.

BUDDING ARCHITECT — Onteora Central School graduate Mike Scherrer, center, receives the plaudits of Howard C. St. John, left, president of the Ulster County Savings Bank and Paul DeLora, his architectural drawing teacher for model home now on display at the bank. Mike was one of three architectural drawing students who graduated from the Boiceville school this year. Other models and drawings exhibited at the bank are by Wesley Daughtrey and Jay Morey. Mike will continue architectural studies at the University of Arizona while Jay will attend Dutchess Community College and later Pratt Institute. Wesley plans to major in oceanography at Syracuse University.

Considered Unique

Hobbit May Star In Film

The Hobbit may star in a documentary film. The Ulster Coffee House at 73 Crown Street, considered unique in several ways, may be the subject of a movie to be produced by the Coffee House Association. The local venture is the single illustration of a community-wide sponsored coffee house.

Other communities in both Ulster and Dutchess counties have expressed interest in forming similar projects for their youth. Some of the things which makes the Hobbit's Whole a very special coffee house were outlined by Tom Phillips, one of the managers, at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the adult steering committee. He noted that it takes seriously the youth it attempts to serve and it represents the only known instance where a coffee house has been sponsored solely by the citizens of a community.

While the steering committee consists of many responsible citizens representing many community organizations maintains the final authority, a youth steering committee was organized this week. Youth Leaders The young helmsmen are led by John Van Kleeck, president; Keith Hults, vice-president, and Mary Kay Lannen, secretary. The youth steering committee will serve as a sounding board for teenagers served by the Hobbit. One of the first requests was for more folk and less rock at the weekend performances. The preferences were for more sophisticated folk music with its often thought provoking themes. There are two shows on Friday and Saturday nights at 8 and 10 o'clock. During the week The Hobbit is open evenings as a meeting place and discussion center with a little impromptu guitar strumming-along as the informal entertainment.

Local Girls at Drum For Seniors Roundup

Discovery '68 for 800 Senior Girl Scouts is going on right now at Camp Drum and six girls from Ulster County are taking part.

The 12-day Hendrick Hudson Roundup started July 18 at the camp near Watertown with scouts from every part of New York New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands participating in the encampment. In addition, a guest patrol of eight girls is attending from the province of Ontario, Canada, as well as 22 specially selected girls from throughout the United States.

Girls attending from Ulster County are:

Cathie Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher of Woodstock; Kathleen Hatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Hatt of Lake Katrine; Sheila Umphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Umphrey of Mt. Tremper; Helen Turk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Turk of Bearsville; Sharon Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Brooks of Highland and Debbie Firmbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Firmbach of Esopus.

Unlike many Girl Scout encampments, the activities at the Hendrick Hudson Roundup have been planned and carried out by the girls themselves. Taking as its theme Discovery '68, the roundup is designed to help each scout discover more about herself and others and to learn new ways of working and living together.

In addition to the day to day

camping activities, the scouts have access to a variety of handicrafts, arts, a continuous showing of films on current topics and a 1,000 volume collection of paperback books.

Each day also brings consultants to the campsite—leaders in business, government, education and the social sciences to lead special forums on areas of concern to the girls.

Fall Is Coming - UCCC Extensions

In its expanding plans to offer higher educational programs throughout the county, Ulster County Community College will sponsor three extension courses in the evening this fall at Ellenville High School, George B. Erbstein, president, announced today.

The three courses are general psychology, history of civilization I, and freshman composition II.

"We began extension courses in Ellenville last year," Erbstein said. "The response was so favorable, we are pleased to expand our offerings in the southwest region of the county."

The administration at Ellenville High School is again cooperating with college officials in the offering of the extension courses.

Each course carries three college credits. Interested persons can take the courses for college credit or audit the courses without credit.

General Psychology will be offered on Monday nights, starting Sept. 16. The course is an introduction to the principles of human behavior in everyday life. Emphasis will be given to experimental investigations of such fields as learning, emotions, attention, perception, intelligence, thinking and personality. Application of psychology principles will be considered and there will be demonstrations.

History of Civilization I, also will be offered on Monday nights, starting Sept. 16. It will trace the history of western civilization from ancient times to the end of the 16th century.

Freshman Composition II, will be taught on Wednesday nights, starting Sept. 18. It will place emphasis on development of writing skills with a view of essential rhetoric and grammar. There will be a study of essential research methods and use of library resources.

Interested persons can register by mail for the courses. Further information about the courses, and registering, can be obtained from James C. Haviland, director of community services at the college.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 27, 1968

Wage-Price Restraint

The Cabinet Committee on Wage and Price Stability has written top executives and labor leaders to help restrain wage and price increases during the crucial next five months—or the rest of this year.

Government economists fear that wage increases during the third quarter now begun could go substantially above six per cent and wipe out much of the advantage of the surtax and federal spending cuts. Abandoning attempts to fix guidelines tied to production growth, the committee is asking the business and labor leaders to slow down the pace of their gains to help reduce inflation in the economy.

"The nation faces a critical period in its effort to return to price stability," the letter states. "When the President signed into law the tax increase and spending cut, the nation took the first step in combating inflation. Now the benefits of fiscal restraint—for which all taxpayers are paying—need to be reinforced by responsible private decisions."

Primarily, these decisions will have to start with the parties to more than 250 major contract settlements scheduled between August and the end of the year. Among the most important involve steel, aerospace, coal mining, airlines, railroad shopcraft and dock workers. They will affect hundreds of thousands of workers—and the result will in turn affect every American.

On the average, the committee finds prices are rising at an annual rate of four per cent and wages are increasing at a rate of six to seven per cent. This is a dangerous road, the committee warns, for the public interest is clearly violated by any price increases that widen profit margins and wage settlements that extend the recent disturbing pattern.

The approach is moderate and calm. We can only hope that the response will be equally responsible.

The Young Voters

How to involve the 24 million voters from 21 to 29 years of age in the two-party political process, and especially in the coming Presidential election, was the focus of the American Heritage Foundation, a non-partisan educational group, that sponsored a conference on the subject in Washington, D. C., recently.

There were almost as many proposals as there were participants, but the most interesting idea came from George H. Gallup Jr., who reported on the most startling findings from recent polls in this age group. Republican affiliation has fallen off significantly and the independents were up sharply.

The survey showed that in July, 1964, the last Presidential election year, those 21 to 29 were 20 per cent Republican and now they are 22 per cent; the Democratic affiliation was 51 per cent in 1964, now it's 38 per cent; and the independents climbed from 29 per cent four years ago to 40 per cent now.

The unaffiliated young people have become the crucial battleground for both major political parties.

Sam Brown, a 24-year-old student at Harvard Divinity School, predicted that if Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon are the nominees for President, large numbers of activists and young liberals would sit out the campaign, because of their stand on Vietnam.

Clarence M. Mitchell III, a 28-year-old Maryland state senator who is co-chairman of Youth for Humphrey, retorted, "I really can't get hung up on Vietnam." He said the major concern should be on the Vietnam of this country—the poor, the restless and the repressed. A Negro, Mitchell said that sitting out the election is not the answer to this country's challenges. After being jailed for picketing for civil rights, he realized that it was far more meaningful to be elected to the Maryland legislature to bring about the kind of change he wanted. He was elected an Assemblyman at 22 and a Senator at 26.

We rather think the young people will choose Mitchell's path, no matter who the nominees may be. They have learned as activists that they can get things done. They are not going to sulk because they don't get their way. Look at all the independents they can influence, two in five of their age group.

It was like the 18th century. Prisoners in the State Penitentiary at Richmond, Va., refused to work for the daily wage of 15 to 40 cents. They asked for 40 to 65 cents. Corrections Director W. K. Cunningham said the state budget would not permit such a high raise but he worked out a 25 to 50 cents raise. That is for a day's work, mind you. The grant emphasized that prisoners are sent to the pen for punishment, not for profit.

A divorced man who is not current on his support payments for at least six months will be refused permission to rewed in Madison, Wis. Dane County Judge William D. Byrne ruled that a man should not take on additional burdens when he can't discharge his old ones to his wife and children. Another family would suffer as the old one does.

"The President Says We're Old Enough to Vote!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Gang-Up Against Humphrey

When you see the gang-up against Mr. Humphrey. But H. Humphrey what can you feel for him but pity? Few Democrats have anything against Mr. Humphrey. But the Democratic convention is sure to seem to him like taking a joy ride on a cement bicycle.

HHH has been a manacled man for four long years. Not only doesn't a man run for the Vice-Presidency, but it is impossible to run for anything during the years in the Vice-Presidency. Yet now he is the patsy for his party's dissatisfaction against a President who withdrew and isn't even seeking renomination.

The entire McCarthy contingent at Chicago is absolutely determined to make manacled Mr. Humphrey Humpty-Dumpty.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy first rose to challenge President Johnson on November 30, 1967. On January 12 this column remarked that "I take my hat off to Senator McCarthy in admiration for his courage."

He challenged a party leadership that applies its White House muscle power with all the force and crunch of a half nelson. And he courageously refused to wait and watch the pressure gauges of public opinion before deciding when and how loud to blow his whistle.

On February 3 the Gallup poll reported President Johnson's nation-wide majority over Mr. McCarthy as 71 per cent to 18 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided. On March 1 a Roper poll forecast that Mr. Johnson would get 62 per cent of the New Hampshire Primary vote and McCarthy only 11. McCarthy got 42 per cent. The date was March 12.

On March 16 the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy announced his candidacy. But when he did this a United Press International survey showed only three state party chairmen willing to go on record as encouraging the Kennedy candidacy, 24 other state chairmen and party leaders opposed to him in varying degrees, and some nine others were non-committal but basically negative.

Senator Kennedy was expected to supplant McCarthy. Instead, he supplemented Mr. McCarthy.

Mr. McCarthy still pulled his Oregon surprise and the final California figures, obscured by the ghastly Los Angeles horror, gave Mr. Kennedy only 46 per cent of the vote and McCarthy 42.

Civil wars are fratricide, and in wars fratricide is the most bitter of all. This was fratricide within HHH's own party.

On March 31 President Johnson withdrew. But neither his withdrawal nor the ghastly assassination of Senator Kennedy two months later stopped the fratricide. It was even intensified and on a scale that makes Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's 1964 Goldwater rejection relatively mild and likewise Mr. Rockefeller's repeat performance now against Richard M. Nixon.

Party politics is a business of assimilation, not elimination, and although Mr. Rockefeller is unabashedly violating this principle as if it did not exist, his Republican whirlwind compared with what confronts Mr. Humphrey.

Moreover, in this Democratic fratricide if Mr. Humphrey hews close to President Johnson's line he gets in trouble with both the McCarthy and Kennedy wings of his own party. But if he doesn't he gets in trouble with LBJ.

Excusing a pun, Mr. Nixon is the innocent bystander who will get hit by the Rock, but Mr. Humphrey is faced by both the crash of his liberal image and a large gang who will stay home and not vote.

Meanwhile, the Democratic National Committee has run another poll, secretly, among 3,000 county chairmen in the eight states outside the Deep South, where Mr. McCarthy couldn't get elected dogcatcher. It has received 1,875 replies. The average gives third party candidate George C. Wallace 20 per cent of the popular vote.

Gallup, in turn, now gives Wallace 47 per cent in the five Deep South states of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. This substantially exceeds both Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon. And in the entire 13-state Southern region Mr. Wallace gets 29 per cent, closely matching Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon.

It's commonly agreed that Mr. Wallace will draw fewer votes from Mr. Nixon than from Mr. Rockefeller if he were the nominee. But Mr. Humphrey gets it coming and going — in the North from Mr. McCarthy, in the South from Mr. Wallace. The Vice-President stands in Chicago something like an animal trainer who popped his head into the lion's mouth only to find the crowd pulling the jaws together.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

If I had influence with the young men of our country, I would urge them to run for public office. Politics, an artful science, is best studied from the inside. Our young men should draw up voter petitions and file for offices within reach: town council; school board; county offices; assemblymen and state senators.

We need the talent. It doesn't matter which party you join, or even if you run as an independent. Running for office will give a man a working knowledge of how government operates, which man is the real power in the area, and how to smile after being double-crossed.

It teaches many things — all of them useful in other fields. For example, party conferences teach a candidate how to refine a crude idea into a polished gem, how to debate the points of a platform, how to get out in an unfriendly neighborhood and speak without being killed.

If a citizen does it but once, he will never forget the lessons he has absorbed. One can learn as much in defeat as in victory. In school, most of us give lip service to the subject of civics, and promptly forget it. In adulthood, politics becomes a fascinating game. If you're with the majority group, you learn less because they can win without you and you're no voice. If you're with the "out" segment, they will listen to your ideas because they've had sad results with theirs.

Someone from Red Bank, N. J., sent a newspaper clipping from The Red Bank Register and I found that my son-in-law Charles Frechette had tried it. I'm his fan because he's the best husband and father in the family. He has seven little ones and drives 104 miles to and from work at an Owens-Illinois Plant.

He joined the Democrats in a Republican town and was elected, 872 votes to 827. He isn't going to feed all the mouths with anything given by the Township Committee, not to mention the 120-pound dog, the baby rabbits, the rhinoceros, the kangaroo rats, and some pet kangaroo rats. I live too far away to sit in the town hall the night the fight begins over whether the municipality can afford a new siren for the police car, or whether it would be better to break the chief's tooth and let him whistle.

Some time back, I ran for office twice. My reason was that, too often, writers are in the position of writing stories about which they know little. First I ran for Freeholder on the Democratic ticket in a Republican County. Seven Freeholders ran the county; if I won — a ridiculous assumption — I couldn't cough without being voted down six to one.

Still, I did it. Unfortunately, I had some friends among the Republicans. There was one office on the ballot to which neither money nor power was attached: coroner. My GOP friends passed the word secretly: "Let's write in good old Jim for that one." I was beaten for Freeholder, 122,000 votes to 66,000, but received a certificate from the Secretary of State certifying me as a County coroner.

So please do not say that I was never elected. A little later, I teamed up with some buddies and ran for township council. There were no street corner speeches. Citizens invited the neighborhood to their cellar game rooms and we were invited to stand up and state our case, in 10 minutes.

We campaigned for reform, repeal and revolt without ever looking the words up in a dictionary. The mayor honored me by issuing a statement denouncing everything I said as the product of a demented mind. It was the biggest notice I got.

I was shellacked by something like 5,000 votes to 2,200. I was surprised to notice that two members of my team of buddies got 3,000 votes. This meant that they had asked their friends to "bullet vote" them and ignore me. I was learning, just a little at a time.

A man must be young and be able to get off the nightly garbage detail to run for office. But, looking up from the bottom as a township candidate, you will be surprised at how much you will see that you never noticed before about government. It will make an alert civic-minded citizen of you in a short time.

Later, I went back to writing books and became lucky with one called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." The Newark Star-Ledger had someone on the copy desk with a long memory. Here's the head he wrote for the story:

JIM BISHOP (D), TWO-TIME LOSER, FINDS WINNER IN A LINCOLN (R).

Drew Pearson Says Attack on Sen. Magnuson Hampers Democracy Abroad

WASHINGTON — One of the best ways to block the trend toward democracy in the communist world was given by Edgar Eisenhower, brother of ex-President Eisenhower, in a recent letter to Seattle voters. It will be of no help to Czechoslovakian citizens now struggling to defeat hard-line, orthodox communism.

In a letter addressed "to fellow American," Edgar Eisenhower enclosed a blue- and white window sticker featuring an appeal, "Help stop U.S.-communist trade"; then called upon Washington State voters to defeat Sen. Warren G. Magnuson because he had "introduced legislation for the Johnson administration favoring an increase in such trade."

"I am writing you because you have shown deep concern in the past about the future of this country," continued the ex-President's brother. "I am asking you to help us defeat Sen. Magnuson. His defeat would be dramatic proof that Americans want trade with the communists stopped."

The unfortunate thing about Edgar Eisenhower's letter is that people in the communist world do not realize that he does not represent the views of his brother, the ex-President. Dwight D. Eisenhower followed the policy started by President Truman of trading with Eastern European communist countries — a policy followed by President Kennedy and President Johnson. President Eisenhower was actually attacked by members of his own party, particularly Sen. John Tower, Tex., for selling jet fighter planes to Yugoslavia.

Other Republicans, including Rep. Paul Findlay, Ill., have tried to stop the shipment of surplus American wheat to Yugoslavia, Poland, and other, smaller European communist countries. However, this bipartisan policy of trading with Eastern Europe has paid off — as witnessed now by the democratic surge in Czechoslovakia.

Sen. Magnuson was carrying out this bipartisan policy when he introduced Senate bill S-3363 favoring increased trade with the European communist world.

Victor Wickersham, D-Okla., who cleaned up a small fortune in real estate as a Congressman, hasn't prospered in his investments back in Oklahoma. As a result, he's running for Congress again.

In a move to attract publicity, he announced that he was leaving for South Korea to demand the return of the Pueblo. Obviously one lone Congressman can't get the Pueblo released, but he can claim credit for it when the ship is finally released.

The astute and wily Oklahoman says he'll wage a "cheese and crackers" (poor mouth) campaign to unseat Democratic Rep. Tom Steed. One day before the July 15 withdrawal deadline for candidates, a friend of Wickersham's phoned Steed and urged him to get Wickersham a job in Washington.

"Vic is hard up," said the friend. "What he really wants is a job. He may get out of the race against you if you help him."

"Listen," exploded Steed, "don't you know it's against the law for me to do anything to discourage a candidate from running in a political election? You tell Vic that the only thing I will give him is a good licking on August 27."

A lot of Congressmen who are against gun control, support a bill introduced by Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N. Y., prohibiting the manufacture or distribution of switchblade knives.

"There are five times as many violent incidents with knives as with guns," said Wolff.

Switchblade knives are now sold openly on the streets of New York and other large cities. Store owners get around a New York law by contending that the knives are

"inoperative." Recently, when Wolff bought one on 42nd Street, the merchant told him:

"You can make that one operative with a little spring you can buy in a hardware store down the street."

When Wolff reported this to the nearest police precinct station, he was told that the precinct dealt mainly with traffic problems and didn't have time to investigate knife sales. The desk sergeant promised to have someone look at a front - window display in the store where the Congressman made his purchase.

"We'll report back to you," he was told.

That was three weeks ago. Wolff still hasn't heard anything from the police station.

Rooney's Economy
Gen. C. R. Smith, who put together one of the most efficient airlines in the world — American — has proved a good Secretary of Commerce, but is very green politically.

He bowed recently to the bulldozing of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., who sits as czar on the subcommittee which votes money for the Commerce Department.

Rooney demanded that John Black be fired as head of the U.S. Travel Service and that the service be moved up to the Flushing Meadow near his district in Brooklyn.

Secretary Smith acceded to the first and is reported to be acceding to the second.

All this came about when the United States is pushing for more tourists in order to help the dollar balance. Yet Black, who had made the United States the leading host country in attracting tourists, was fired.

Simultaneously and just as the USA is trying to attract tourists, Rooney's economies forced the closing of U.S. Travel offices in Italy, Venezuela, the Benelux countries, and all street-level offices in London, Paris and Frankfurt.

This is how politics can get mixed up with practicality.

New S. Viet Leftists Could Overcome Paris Deadlock

By BETTY FLYNN

WASHINGTON — A recently leftist organization in South Vietnam could be the key to overcoming the current deadlock in the Paris peace talks, U.S. officials are being told.

The Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam was founded last April 20 by a group of urban intellectuals, business elite, who oppose U. S. presence in Vietnam.

Most administration officials here view it as merely a respectable decoy for the tough Viet Cong guerrillas who run the National Liberation Front.

"We can't know how independent the alliance is of the Viet Cong and North Vietnam," said Snaford Gottlieb, executive director of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

But, he said, it could be "the first political framework for Bourgeois Nationalists who want to operate independently of the NFL." The Viet Cong is largely a Communist - led peasant movement, while the alliance represents the urban middle class, Gottlieb said.

He and Rodney Shaw, an executive of the United Methodist Church, have returned to Washington after talks with Hanoi and NLF officials in Prague and Paris last week.

Among those interviewed were Le Quang Chan, a member of the NLF Central Committee; Pham Van Chuong, NLF diplomat in Prague, and Nguyen Thanh Le, official spokesman of North Viet Nam at the Paris talks.

Even if the NLF does control the alliance, its creation could help open a political dialog in South Vietnam, which eventually can bridge the big chasm now separating the front from the Saigon government.

Furthermore, the alliance may be a quiet indication that Hanoi and the Viet Cong are willing to seek ways toward moderation that should be matched by the present Saigon government.

"In the kind of political game being played at Paris," Gottlieb said, "the other side has laid down a three-card game with this alliance. Now it's our turn to put down at least a four."

Some state department officials believe the alliance may operate somewhat independently from the Viet Cong, even though their programs are almost identical and they express mutual support.

They know, for example, the Viet Cong feel a sense of isolation these days, that their power may be slipping away as the vacancies in their military ranks increasingly are filled either by North Vietnamese or by younger men who are involuntarily pressed into service.

The leaders of the alliance have been tried and condemned to death in Absentia by the Thieu-Ky government.

Hanoi and NLF leaders interviewed by Gottlieb and Shaw last week liken the action to those of the early Diem regime, in which suppression of a non-Communist opposition took place.

U.S. officials should begin to wield their influence on the present Saigon government to "Encourage a positive response to the alliance," Gottlieb said.

"If the alliance is seen as an effort to build a more moderate left, there needs to be established in Saigon a more moderate right."

The North Vietnamese will not likely give up their persistent demand that the bombing be stopped and maintain they already have initiated "certain acts of restraint," such as the end of siege of Khe Sanh and the rocket attacks against Saigon.

The Last American

Editor, The Freeman:
I am very pleased that The Freeman is devoting more space to Ellenville and enjoyed reading the article in the July 1 issue that mentioned how Ellenville got its name.

I was on the verge of writing a letter or phoning to you as to why "THE LAST AMERICAN" series was not in the July 19 and July 20 paper, but as tonight's Freeman has it, it saves me a job.

The series certainly is an eye opener as even though I know who Crispus Attucks was, I was not aware, as mentioned in: "Come a Revolution," that 5,000 Negroes fought in the Revolution that founded these United States.

It will be interesting to see what solution is given at the conclusion of: "THE LAST AMERICAN" series.

Even though relatively few workers, black or white, are ready to apply it, there is only one solution to racial hatred and that is Socialism because then no one will be able to profit from bias and hate because black and white workers will own the country.

Sincerely,
NATHAN PRESSMAN

Our Progress?

Editor, The Freeman:
Your editorial page of July 22, 1968 should cause people to wonder about our progress of the last decade.

1. An editorial on Welfare and how much Secretary Cohen would like to spend,

2. An editorial on Burglar Time not blaming criminals but commenting on what homeowners do wrong.

3. A Letter to The Editor from Ronald Sobieraj stating how the money spent in Vietnam could be divided according to population not how it could be saved.

4. A cartoon which blames gun owners not the criminals for killings.

There was a time when criminals were bad, saving tax money thought good and welfare was for those who needed help, not everybody in the country.

With a little more progress like this Lenin's prophesy will come true, we will spend ourselves to death. Also we will have a guilt complex for everything someone else does wrong.

Head Start Curtailment Aired by Rondout Board

Disadvantages of a bill just passed by the Senate to curtail Head Start programs were discussed at this week's meeting of the Rondout Community Action Advisory Board.

Stanley Leyden, executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc., said the bill turns "the Head Start funds over to the states and prohibits us from operating similar educational programs as we do at the Rondout Day Care Center." Leyden went on to explain that the new bill provides for no requirement for resident participation or parent involvement in the Head Start Program and that the standards of poverty would now be left to the states. Other disadvantages of the new bill mentioned by Leyden include the fact that no training funds will be available, no age limit for the children involved. The jobs of sub-professionals are now in jeopardy, he noted.

The Advisory Board sent a telegram to Senator Javits urging him to investigate the matter completely and urged others to write to the Senator.

A tour of the new Rondout Gardens housing complex is planned for next week. Many complaints have been received from area residents regarding the soundness of the new low income facility. Making the investigation tour will be Alexander Yosman, executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority; Mrs. Malinda Davis, Rondout Community Action director; the Rev. James Veatch, Joseph Babaiey, Ronald Woods and Marina Price.

Lack of shopping facilities in the downtown area was discussed and Mrs. Marina Price was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the problem. Petitions will be circulated demanding that residents in the area get necessary facilities such as drug stores.

Elected to the advisory board were C. L. Burnett, Otis Thomas, Sharon Kennedy and Joseph Babaiey. The Rev. James Priest appointed a personnel committee headed by Ronald Woods. Members are Mrs. Eulha Williams and Mrs. Anny Waters.

Alternatives Offered

For Extra Income

Q — I am middle-aged, single and working only part time because of illness. When I retire I will have no pension, just Social Security and dividends. I would like to get all the income possible from my stock holdings. I have owned for about 10 years the following issues: Bank of America, Central Nat. Bank, Calif. Water, Pacific G. & E., Pac. Pwr. & Lt., Pac. Northwest Tel., Puralator and Rockwell. Should I sell any of these? What should I use for replacement? —C.G.

A — Your list falls into two rather distinct categories: income and moderate growth holdings. If you do not need additional income at this time, I would keep the list as it now stands, since your four lower yielding issues should continue to enhance your capital. However, if your part-time salary is not sufficient, then I would suggest accepting profits in Bank of America, Central Nat. Bank and Puralator.

As replacements I would purchase equal dollar amounts of higher yielding Lorillard, Chip Edison and CIT Financial. Pacific G. & E. common could be switched to the 6 per cent $1.50 preferred for a $60 annual increase in income. These four replacements will add about $400 yearly to your income and will give you some prospects of appreciation.

Another possibility would be a high yield bond such as Bell Tel. of Penn. 6 3/4 of 2008 or Houston Lt. & Pwr. 6 3/4 of 1998. This would increase your return by close to $700 yearly. However, capital would remain fixed.

Q — I would like your opinion on American Cyanamid bought at 40. I can afford to hold. Should I? —J.R.

A — Since you can afford to wait it out, I feel you are wise to do just that. Some earnings recovery was reported in the first quarter and further gains are expected in the balance of the year. Although the specter of the federal court's guilty verdict relative to monopolistic price-fixing will depress near-term price action, long-term prospects appear to justify holding.

LABOR COSTS OR PRIME COSTS

Q — I want to sell three stocks, amounting to $50,000, and would like you to suggest two or three growth stocks in industries where labor is not too much of a problem. —A.E.

A — The oil industry ranks first in meeting "your requirement of low labor costs," closely followed by electric utilities and banks. From each of these groups this year I have recommended for longer-term growth: Gulf Oil and Santa Fe International (for its stake in offshore drilling and oceanography); Commonwealth Edison, Ohio Edison and Philadelphia Electric; Continental Ill. Nat. Bank & Trust and Chemical Bank N.Y. Trust. Changing from the traditional to the contemporary mood, I have recently learned that the mobile home industry should be considered for its low labor costs. Construction of prefabricated units by semiskilled workers takes place indoors with no weather hindrances to keep idle men on the payroll, as often happens in outdoor construction. One of these new-type dwellings can be assembled in 43 minutes. One manufacturer states that his labor is only 10 per cent of his cost schedule. A few weeks ago I recom-

Recreation Dept. Slates Dog Show and Swim Meet

The Kingston Recreation Department has announced it will hold, in addition to the annual Ken-L-Ration Kids Dog Show starting Monday, July 29, an age swim meet—the first ever held in Kingston—on July 30.

The swim meet is sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department and boys and girls from the ages of 5 to 17 are eligible to participate. There will be two events for each age group of boys and two events for each age group of girls. The two events are the 50-yard freestyle and the hundred-yard freestyle. The boys and girls will be divided into 6 age groups: open, 5-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, and 15-17 years.

At New Pool
The meet will be held at the new pool at Kingston Point Beach at 2 p. m. Application forms are available at each of the seven city playgrounds, the recreation office at the auditorium, and from any life guards at the Kingston Point Beach. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each of the events. Although there will be no entry or application fees, the forms cannot be accepted later than July 29. All boys and girls entering the contest should be a the pool by 2 p. m. and they are advised to be prompt and ready to swim for their scheduled event.

Andrew J. Murphy III, superintendent of recreation, and Ron Gabriele, director of activities, announced that the dog show would be held at each of the five major playgrounds in the Kingston City area, and that all children in the area were invited to bring their dogs to the show.

There will be five classes of dogs which will be judged: Best costumed dog, best trick dog, smallest dog, largest dog, and best groomed dog. The rules for the contest are as follows: all dogs must be clean, brushed, and on leashes. Each contestant must be on hand 10 minutes before show time, and dogs entered in the small dogs class have to be over six months old.

Joseph McTague, representative of the Ken-L-Ration, and Gabriele will be at each park to coordinate the program. Application forms may be obtained from any of the playground directors at Hutton, Hasbrouck, Loughran, Block and Forsyth Parks, or at the recreation office in the municipal auditorium.

The three-day dog show will begin July 29 at 1:30 p. m. at Forsyth Park, and will continue on Aug. 1, at the same time in Hutton Park. The last day of the dog show will be Aug. 9 in Loughran Park at 10 a. m. The event in past years has featured dogs ranging in size from Pekingese and chihuahuas, through German shepherds and collies to great Danes and St. Bernards.

Trophies and ribbons will be awarded the first, second, and third place dogs. For entering, each contestant will be awarded a white shirt and a package of dog food among other items.

The second field day of the summer season was held at Forsyth Park recently. The competition was between Loughran and Forsyth Parks. Forsyth won the field day competition, sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department, to determine the "Top Park of the Year," by a score of 15 to 9.

Waists Are Back and Flannel Makes Formal Scene

FASHION CURRENTS — How high the hem. Are you "mini" or "kneesie" this Fall? Burlington woollens plush houndstooth check is used by Whippette for "your choice" coordinates. With a Norfolk jacket you can wear a matching short pleated culotte skirt or a lean one to the knees. Klopman's carefree polyester crepe is used in the blouse-shirts, tote of same houndstooth check, tam is knitted — all are also by Whippette.

DOUBLE HEADLINES — The waist is back and gray flannel makes the formal scene. The belt returns leather bound on STJ's sleek knit dancing dress in yarn with a gray flannel look. His gray worsted flannel one-button dinner suit by Robert Weil is slicked with black satin at the peak lapels and striped down the trousers. It's worn with a blue shirt piped in black, black butterfly tie.

Fashion data, fed through a computer, has produced some fascinating answers to the fashion questions of fall '68. Burlington Industries recently conducted a cross-country opinion poll to determine the newest styling trends, had recipients mark their choices on computerized cards. The programmed responses were then given to famous designers who translated them into special creations, as new as tomorrow.

How High the Hem?

The big question of the hemline seems to be sliding around anywhere from the hip to the ankle. As solved by Vivian Wong, it's either a mid-calf gaucho pant or a mid-thigh pants-kill—worn with a Norfolk jacket in a woolen check. Adler cuffed knee-highs, are worn with the minis, textured seamless pants-stockings with kneesie or midi lengths.

New interest in sportswear separates, and the whole casual mix-and-match idea led many editors into believing that only the super-chic could come up with a look compounded out of many different fabrics, patterns and textures. Designers Anne Klein and Vickie Cooper evolved their own solutions. Miss Klein with a wide-legged dinner pajama and short double breasted vest of red and black plaid gabardine over a woven crepe shirt with black satin back satin four-in-hand; Miss Cooper with an ingenious gray blouse and dirndl skirt whose wide wide waistband of yellow was shirred on elastic.

Fashion Wrap-Up

Capes, with a capital C, are endemic for fall. As a case in point, tweed was shown in a cape and kilt... this year's uniform for Mademoiselle Magazine's College Editors. Three of them, the genuine articles, Bonnie August from Syracuse University, Joyce Ann Calkin from Barst University, and Jan McConnell from Colorado State modeled the new caped fashion, which scored high with the audience. The coat/pants costume, a chic outerwear alternative, for fall, was designed in luxurious worsted with a short belted coat over high waisted gaiter trousers, both warm and wonderful.

The New Young Couture

The New Young Couture received a stamp of approval across the board: flip-pleated cossack dress in red and green plaided polyester surrah is living proof of the editor's feeling that young designers have substituted dash for daring and that the youth phase is widening to include thirty, and even forty-year-olds!

Revolution in Men's Wear

Editors found that men explore fashion. The male has finally discovered color, prefers his town suit in peacock-bright blue plaid and his Nehru in a chili twill. Even his socks are color-coordinated. And he's looked into knits for sport slacks and blazers.

What's the Message?

Waistlines, the editors felt, were almost as capricious as hemlines, but all felt that the belt was back. Andrew Woods agreed with them, and created a mouth-watering drop waisted ball gown in moire voile. Speaking of evenings, gray flannel was declared a star. Men wear the gray in dinner clothes, slicked with black satin at the lapel and striped down the trousers.

'Jools' Is New Idol; Young Copy Her Style

NEW YORK (NEA)—The London Daily Mail said of Europe's newest singing sensation, "Julie Driscoll is 20 years old, wears white lipstick, has hair like a Brillo pad and on stage moves with all the macabre beauty of a vampire."

"Jools," as she is called, made her first record when she was 15. She is the darling of the young people of Paris. But not until her most recent disc, "This Wheel's on Fire," recorded with Brian Auger and The Trinity, did she become a sensation in her native England. That record has now been released here on Acto label on the high hope that it will be the top platter on the American hit parade within a few weeks.

If Jools becomes the idol here that she is now in Europe where her hair, make-up and clothes are wildly copied, watchers of the fashion scene are in for a shock. "Elle," France's most successful and influential women's magazine, photographed Julie for its cover in the kind of clothes she likes to wear and even asked her to design some for their readers. And what Julie likes to wear are bits and pieces she picks up from antique stalls, even though her first job was showroom assistant to the elegant fashion house of Worth.

"I just dig old clothes," she said. "I enjoy dollyng myself up like a granny. I put on an old sequin jacket or shove on a boa." Her skirts are longer than maxi—circa 1910-1918. "If I like a dress that's too big, I just put a belt around it. I like clothes that just flop around and would fit anyone." Not to be outdone by "Elle," our top fashion magazines are bound to feature Jools. And if American fans believe, as her European fans do, that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, here's what we can expect to see:

Miss Driscoll's wardrobe includes such gems as an Edwardian lace coat and dress, a threadbare schoolgirl coat bought for 7c 6d, floppy broad-brimmed hats and a pair of shaggy black boots.

Well, at least she'll be a boon to small business. Not only will thrift shops increase their sales, but health stores, too. For Jools buys all her make-up in health shops. She never uses soap and water on her face. She cleanses it with milk, tissues off the station and then pats on tonic. If her skin gets dry, she uses rosewater and honey.

For shampoo, it's a mixture of camomile and rosemary and her face make-up is loose powder with lots of yellow in it and green loose powder for her chin, cheekbones and nose. The powder is made of herbs, naturally.

If this 5-foot-8 swinger who belts out a song in a man-sized voice influences the fashion scene here, yellow and green faces and thrift shop clothes won't be the only innovations. Coeds will be late for class and career girls late for jobs. Because it takes Julie two hours to make up her eyes in a manner sure to be imitated.

She blends a gray-tan base on her eyelids, then meticulously paints the entire upper lid in a pattern of vertical lines that give a clear-as-glass look to her round blue eyes. And now for the topping. Julie's hair is short and frizzy as steel wool.

"I had such a hard time straightening it," she said. "Every day I had to use the tongs to take out the curl. So I got it permed instead. Me mum did it and I cut it myself."

And there you have Julie Driscoll who may soon be the original to thousands of young carbon copies on Main Street anywhere. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

JULIE DRISCOLL

Nothing Like a Trip to Italy to Learn The Correct Way to Eat Spaghetti

By MARSHA DU BROW

ROME (UPI)—It took me 24 years to learn my cultural deprivation with my first trip to Europe. I was not going as an "ugly American," but as a curious traveler, determined to absorb as much knowledge as I could.

Since the trip was to Italy only, naturally some of that knowledge should be in learning to eat spaghetti correctly. My first "trattoria" was filled with only about 30 patrons.

Perhaps two or three were female.

I inconspicuously slipped out my flaming orange, green and white "Berlitz Italian for Travelers," and its companion, the sparkling gold "Diner's Dictionary."

Two Romanesque men sitting next to me came immediately to my aid. They explained each menu item ingredient by ingredient in both French and English and eventually decided to order for me.

My wine selection caused some controversy within the tiny restaurant. One contingent insisted I have white wine. Another group vociferously argued for red.

I settled the furious debate by choosing rose—and thanked all with my best "Grazie."

I congratulated myself on averting a civil war but chastised myself for not knowing Italian, at least menu Italian.

A portly, elderly Italian man walked in and sat down at my table. I must have chosen the Roman counterpart of an automaton.

He leered at me and asked, "No. 'Francaise?' 'Non—' 'Italiana?' 'No.' 'English?' 'Scusi.' But the Italians are most persistent."

"Deutsch?" "Nein." American?

Fortunately my spaghetti arrived. He was exhausting my foreign vocabularies.

Now the moment of truth had come and all my fellow diners know it.

I swallowed my pride and began on the spaghetti.

Pseudo-confidently I took my fork and began spinning, Italian style, but the spaghetti didn't spin. I stabbed another strand and had too much success. A tomato splashed my eyes. My cheeks were turning the shade of the tomato too.

Spaghetti Technique

My neighbors once again came to my aid. One took the fork and began winding and explaining the technique.

I stuffed the wad of pasta into my mouth. My cheeks puffed as I chewed, but I choked only once, mildly, and finally downed the mass.

Enthusiastic clapping exploded. After each of my successful attempts the fascinated onlookers cried, "Bene, molto bene!" "Bravissima!"

The owner of the restaurant was so amused that he refused to accept my money. Instead, he asked me to "perform" at dinner—on the house.

The Vatican is a must on any visit to Rome. How much trouble could I get into at the Vatican? I soon found out.

I was careful to observe tradition so I wore a long-sleeved dress, my longest, and a scarf despite the suffocating heat.

I scoffed at a culotte-suited woman who was being turned away from St. Peter's Basilica. She was protesting loudly in a Miami Beach accent, "Haven't you Italians ever read Harper's Bazaar?"

But he who scoffs last... Just then an Italian man ushered me out of the basilica. He was growling "mini, mini." He rapped his umbrella on a sign which read, "Women improperly dressed are forbidden to enter."

I turned to him and coldly stated, "But sir, as you can see, I am NOT improperly dressed!" He then rapped at my barely exposed knees.

Not a 'Mini'

That forced me to make a non-literal translation. "No mini." I raised my silk jersey dress to the optimum decency permits and said, "Questa e mini."

I shuddered free of his grip and huffed back inside.

Later, I got lost in the Vatican Museum and asked a fellow American (you can always tell one) where the Sistine Chapel was.

"Oh, the Christine Chapel?" "That'll do."

"Straight ahead, Ma'am." Finally my day of sightseeing ended. I panted along the Tiber River on the way back to my hotel.

Brooklynese, "My, isn't the Grand Canal high today!" Well, at least she didn't call it the Seine.

Once at my hotel I headed for a Campari with "molto" soda and ice. It was time for reflection—not so much about Rome but about pinches.

I had been in Italy one entire day and had not received one pinch.

Proposals, yes. Pinches, no. My figure borders between voluptuous and voluminous, but that should be just to the Italian liking. As I re-evaluated my sex appeal, or lack thereof, I felt a slight pain. Yes—my first pinch.

I jubilantly swung around to recite the phrase I had memorized from the museums, "No toccare!" (Don't touch.)

Whom did I see but a man in a four-button-vested suit and a homburg.

"Oh, dear. I'm terribly sorry," said the Bond Street type in an Oxford accent. "I do hope I haven't offended you."

I was so disappointed at his being Anglo-Saxon that I could barely speak, "No. Perfectly all right."

He confessed, "It's my first trip to Italy and the Latin atmosphere must have rather affected me. Do let me make it up to you. Shall we see Rome by night?"

So the first evening I left Berlitz behind.

But the Italian males and their proverbial pinches soon came.

How did I find the Italian men?

THE CASE OF THE Registered Bride

No mystery about it. We invite all brides-to-be to register with us their preferences of silver, china and crystal. Then when friends and relatives come in to choose a wedding gift, we tell them her choice of patterns, inform them which items have already been purchased. This avoids duplication and disappointment. This service is gratis to all prospective brides.

GLORIA JEAN SMITH (Lakeside Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Smith Sr. of 23 Hone Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Jean, to Pvt. Raymond Edward Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jansen of 105 Hone Street, Kingston. Raymond Jansen is now serving in the United States Army and is stationed in West Berlin, Germany. No date has been set for the wedding.

Patchin Family Reunion Scheduled To Be Held in Kingston Aug. 17-18

The 30th reunion of the Patchin-Patchin Family, which traces its heritage back to one of America's greatest warriors, Gen. Freegift Patchin, will be held in Kingston this year on Aug. 17-18.

Registrations will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel where the annual meeting will be held. On Saturday, Aug. 17, there will be a meeting and dinner at 6 p.m. at Norrie Point State Park, Staatsburg.

On Sunday the family members will attend the churches of their choice and at 1 p.m. dinner will be held at the hotel.

More than 500 invitations have been sent to members of the clan to all parts of the U.S. Included among them are many families in Ulster County. The family lineage started in this country prior to the Revolutionary War. Gen. Patchin served in three parts of the Revolution enlisting in Fairfield, Conn., in the spring of 1776 as a fitter. His second and third applications of service are dated May 15, 1839 and June 22, 1843. He was captured many times by the Indians and British but always was able to escape and renew his service to his country.

The courageous forefather of the Patchin family was appointed brigadier general of the New York Militia in 1806 and served in that capacity until 1814 covering a period through the War of 1812.

These facts have been gleaned from the 1073-page History and Genealogy of the Patchin-Patchin Family.

In the family records it mentions the item in a Kingston paper dated May 6, 1886 of a long and very interesting account of the capture of Freegift Patchin by Chief Brant and of his imprisonment among the Indians in Canada during the Revolution.

The general's Army commission is on display at the Senate House in Kingston. A monument of General Patchin was erected in 1928 at North Blenheim, Schoharie County.

The local Ulster County members are descendants of the grandparents of Frederick and Charity Patchin Becker, who resided in Blenheim. Their home was situated on the Schoharie Creek.

During a violent storm a flash flood developed in which their home was carried away by the water of the creek and after that the family moved to South Rondout where one of their daughters was living.

Many of the Becker families are still residents of Kingston and the Town of Esopus. The history of the family printed in 1952 by International Printing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., is available to family members and contains many photos and vital information about the family.

The association officers this year are Rear Admiral Robert W. Knox of Alexandria, Va., president; Frederick H. Patchin, Montclair, N. J., vice president; Ruth Leggett Friends of Romulus, second vice president; Grace L. Schaffner, Oberlin, Ohio, executive secretary; Erleen White, Buffalo, treasurer, and Mildred Patchin.

Christian Dior
Presents Jackets
For Every Hour

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior held hemlines two inches above the knee today and presented a close-to-the-body silhouette that included jackets dropped to wrist length or fingertip length for every hour.

For daytime and city wear the longer jacket appeared throughout. For sports he does them in gray flannel or heavy wools. They are always belted and lined with bright colors or muted fall shades which are recalled in the top of the dress or sweater.

The engagement has been announced between Miss Karin Cocuzzi and Timothy Chadwick Tetlow. A country wedding has been planned for August 17 in the Clove Chapel, High Falls, to be followed by an outdoor reception at the home of the prospective bridegroom's parents in Allgerville.

Miss Cocuzzi is the granddaughter of the late Hester Pinney of Racedown, Dorset, England. The future bride is the daughter of Luigi Cox, an antique dealer in Canterbury, England, and Dr. Rachel Pinney, a London physician. Miss Cocuzzi received her degree in philosophy from the University of Keele in England. She is a research associate with Fortune magazine.

Tetlow is the son of Edwin Tetlow, British author and journalist, and Kathleen Tetlow, who reside in Allgerville, High Falls. He received his degree in Political Science from the University of North Carolina and subsequently became associated with Kingston real estate broker, Raymond E. Craft, with whom he still maintains a parttime affiliation.

The couple will live in New York City and maintain a home on Ace All Road near Allgerville for weekend use.

DePasquale Quartet to Perform

The De Pasquale String, with the New York Philharmonic and Francis was already a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Today, they not only contribute substantially to the famous "Philadelphia string sound," but they also appear frequently as a string quartet throughout the Eastern Seaboard.

Refreshments will be available before the concert and during the intermission.

All four of the De Pasquale brothers—William and Robert, violinists; Joseph, violist; and Francis, cellist—have been members of the Philadelphia Orchestra since 1964.

In 1958, however, when they first began playing quartets together professionally, each of the brothers was with a different orchestra. Joseph was with the Boston Symphony, William was concertmaster of the New Orleans Symphony, Robert was

Two Band Concerts
Are Scheduled to Be Held Next Week

Kingston Concert Band, American Federation of Musicians, Local No. 215, will present a concert at Elliott Park, Catskill, on Tuesday, July 30, sponsored by the city of Catskill and Mayor John Buchigross.

Due to last Wednesday's concert being "rained out," Miss Patricia Wolrey, guest violin soloist, will perform at the Academy Green in Kingston on Wednesday, July 31. Both concerts will be under the direction of Marlin Morrette.

Tuesday evening's concert will include selections by Karl L. King, Ambrose Thomas, Percy Grainger, James Van Heusen, Harold Walters and others, and will feature such works as United Nations March, Raymond Overture, Irish Tune from the County Derry, My Dream Sonata and Treat for Trumpet.

On Wednesday evening Miss Wolrey will perform Czardas by Monti and When a Gypsy Makes His Violin Cry by Emery Deutsch. Other selections will be Richard Rodgers' The Sound of Music, O. R. Farrar's Bombasto March, John Philip Sousa's The High School Cadets March and others.

Both concerts will begin at 8 p.m.

Returned from Florida

Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Accord have returned home from a four week vacation at Fort Myers, Fla. While in Florida they visited their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Backus, and former Accord residents, Mrs. George H. Skinner in Fort Lauderdale, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King, former proprietors of The Happy Valley Restaurant, now at St. Petersburg.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Stauning of Elnora, formerly of Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Jeanne, to Frank Steven Coletta, son of Mrs. Vera Vardakis, of Rhode Island and the late John Coletta.

Miss Stauning, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Ensign, and Mrs. Arthur Perryman of Elnora, is a graduate of Saugerties High School, and is in her senior year at State University College at New Paltz.

Coletta, an alumnus of State University College at New Paltz, is teaching Junior High School art at Dawnwood Central Schools, Centerreach, Long Island. A wedding is planned for June, 1969.

Wedding Announced

Miss Cheryl Dasher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dasher of 510 8th Street, Marysville, became the bride of Stephen E. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Smithtown, at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Marysville, Ohio. Hamilton is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. Wernicke of Rosendale.

The Rev. Donald Bachman and the Rev. Robert Browning of Gibsonburg, cousin of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony. White gladioli, yellow roses and baby's breath decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale ivory silk organza gown in an A-line skimmer silhouette with Alencon lace appliques encrusted with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of gardenias, yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Linda Moder of Marysville, was maid of honor. She wore a pale yellow dotted swiss gown and carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed yellow roses.

Attendants were the Misses Micki McCracken of Denver, Colo., cousin of the bride; Susan Foster of Wilksboro, N. C.; Gayle Yosua of Baltimore, Md., and Cassie Hess of Kaine, Pa. They wore gowns fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and carried arm bouquets of long-stemmed yellow roses.

Miss Molli Dasher, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a silk Swiss embroidered gown.

Following a wedding trip to Cape Cod, the couple will reside at 3030 Livingston Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

To Market, to Market

Marketing costs, which are reflected in what the consumer pays for food, have risen. One reason is simply this: there is more food marketed for a growing population.

Labor costs which are 42 per cent of the marketing bill have gone up 40 per cent since 1957-59. Goods and services involved in marketing have risen about 10 per cent during that period while other services like rent, property insurance and maintenance have increased about 20 per cent.

Additional costs like these would be even higher if efficiency had not increased. Output per man hour in food marketing has increased an average of 2.8 per cent per year for the last 10 years.

Adams Takes 5-Shot Lead in Final Round

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Rick Adams, a 17-year-old Johnson City high school star, carried a five-stroke lead into today's (6:30 a.m.) final round of the 1968 New York State Jaycees Sports Spectacular golf championships but he was looking anxiously over his shoulder to a pair of menacing challengers. Adams blazed around Wiltwyck Country Club in a brilliant 3-under-par 69 in Friday's morning round and carved out a 1-under-par 35 on the front nine of the afternoon round. He then soared to a 43 on the incoming nine for a 78 and 36-hole score of 147. Five shots away came Don Kaled, the 14-year-old Junior champion of 1967, with 76-152. Ed Byman of Kingston, one of the pre-tourney favorites, rallied from an opening 82 to tour the 7,00-yard layout in a 1-under par 35-36-71 in the afternoon for 153. Tied with 154's were Francis McKevitt of Rome and John Gehling of Huntington. L.I. David Kahanawitz of Rome was alone at 156. Bracketed at 157 were Kingston's Joe Bostic; John Callahan of Schenectady; and Carl Nanni of Rochester.

Werner Kolln of Kingston qualified with a 158, along with three others in that bracket. Bobby Byman, the 14-year-old Wiltwyck Country Club player, was safely in at 81-162 and was second behind Kaled in the Junior division.

Doug Tatar and Dan Brown of Kingston failed to finish among the 36 qualifiers who will battle for four spots in the Jaycees International in Tulsa, Oklahoma in August.

Adams, who represents the IBM Country Club at Endicott, opened his morning assault on Wiltwyck with birdies on No. 1 and No. 2. He bogied the third hole, then posted 13 consecutive pars before finishing with birdies on No. 17 and No. 18 for a 35-34-69.

He made the turn in one-under par 35 in the afternoon, but quickly ran into trouble. His approach shot on the 10th hole bounced out of bounds and he picked up a double-bogey six. He parred the 11th but hit the rough with his drive on the par-five 12th. After a good recovery, he was short on two approaches and rimmed the cup for a chance at a five.

Adams picked up additional bogeys on 14, 15 and 17. At 18, he had a chance for a birdie-three from six feet but nicked the cup for a 43 and 78.

Byman posted birdies on No. 2 and No. 6 and bogied the fifth for a one-under 35 on the front nine in the afternoon. On the back nine, he birdied the two pars fives to offset bogeys on 11 and 13 for an even par 36.

Winners in the special competitions were:

Closest to the pin on No. 11—between Rocco Imaglia, Auburn, and Bobby Byman, Kingston, 8 ft. 10 in.; Seniors—David Young, Lakewood, 8 ft. 4 in.; Longest drive on 17—Senior—Roger Loop, 247 feet; Junior —Don Kaled, W. Genesee, 248 feet.

THE LEADER—In the New York State Sports Spectacular Golf Tournament, Rick Adams, sends upward a beautiful putt on the seventh green at Wiltwyck Country Club Friday. Adams of Johnson City, went into today's final round with a five stroke lead over Don Kaled and six over Kingston's Ed Byman. Johnson had a three-under 69 on the first green and came back with a six-under 78 for his 36-hole, half-way total of 147. (Staff photo by Bob Haines).

Carol Mann Toting Four Leaf Clover for Luck in Supertest

By ROBERT D. BOTT

TORONTO (UPI) — Carol Mann had a three-stroke lead and a 24-carat gold four-leaf clover in her golf bag going for her today as she led the field going into the final round of the Supertest Ladies Open golf tournament.

Miss Mann, 27, at 6-foot-3, the tallest gal on the pro tour, was four-under-par at 142 for the first two rounds of the 54-hole tournament at the Bayview Golf and Country Club. Her nearest competitor was Sandra Palmer of Port St. Lucie, Fla., who was one under par at 145.

"Maybe it's good luck," said Miss Mann. "I've had good luck since Christmas when my mother gave me a big 24-carat gold four-leaf clover. It's heavy, but I feel better when I know it's in the bottom of my golf bag. "Also, I was in Rome in February and was blessed by the Pope. I'm not Catholic, but I was educated in a Catholic school and it's the religion I know best. Whatever it is it's certainly worked," she said.

Miss Mann, defending champion of the Supertest and leading money winner on the ladies tour this year, also hoped to vindicate herself after last week's tournament in Cincinnati where she was given the title after a two-stroke penalty was called against front-runner Marilyn Smith.

Miss Palmer, shot a one under par 72 Friday, the best score for the day, to move into second place ahead of Sybil Griffin of Boynton, Fla., who was at 146 with a pair of par 73s. Tied for fourth at 147 were Gloria Ehret of Danbury, Conn.; Joann Prentice of Columbia, S.C.; and Pam Barnett of Manomonee Falls, Wis. Judy Kimball of Sutton, Mass., Clifford Ann Creed of Largo, Fla., and Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis, Ind., were at 148, while Murle Lindstrom of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Marlene Stewart Strait of Toronto were tied at 149.

Mrs. Streit, former U.S. Women's amateur champion, was the leading amateur and the leading Canadian going into the final round. She had gotten off to a good start Thursday with a two under par 71, but fell back Friday with a 73.

Wendy Hodgson Cops Girl's Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Wendy Hodgson of McConellsville captured first place in the New York State Junior Girls' Golf Championship with a one-up victory Friday over Sarah Jane Stuhler of Amsterdam.

Windy, the 17-year-old Camden High student, took a three-under lead in the match play after nine holes at the Nottingham Knolls course here, but a rally by Knolls student evened the match after the 17th hole.

On the last hole, Wendy hit her second shot into the rough but recovered with a 150 yard shot to the front of the green. She then chipped to within three feet of the cup and punted in. The 15-year-old Sarah Jane got into a trap on her third shot and was not able to recover, shooting a six to Wendy's five.

Underdog Zeeh Surprise Finalist

He is rated the underdog in his 10 a.m. State Jaycees Spectacular Senior tennis finals against his teammate, Dave Roberts, today at Forsyth Park.

But unheralded Bill Zeeh of Kingston was the big story in the tournament opener Friday. The Kingston high school varsity player gained sweet revenge over third-seeded Dick Schild of Nyack-Friday, beating his Section 9 conqueror in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Zeeh then returned to the courts for his third match of the day and polished off the tournament's No. two seeded player, Rich Johns of Glens Falls, 6-4, 6-1, completing the sweep without a loss of a set.

Roberts, top-seeded, lived up to all expectations. After a first round bye, he eliminated Steve Shambach of Lockport, 6-1, 6-2, then topped David Elkovich of Auburn, 6-4, 6-2.

Elkovich earned fourth round, 6-0, 6-2, then topped David Elkovich of Auburn, 6-4, 6-2.

As a team, Roberts and Zeeh advanced to the semi-finals of the all-Kingston sweep of the senior tournament. They turned back the strong challenge of Johns of Glens Falls and Jerry McAvoy of Niagara Falls, 6-4, 6-3.

Roberts and Zeeh faced the powerful Nyack tandem of Bloodgood and Schild in a match to decide a finalist. The other semi-final, pits the Rochester tandem of Robert Headman and Dick Wilton against Lockport's Shambach and Elkovich from Auburn.

Mike Lindner of Brooklyn, the defending champion in the 16 and-under division, gained the finals against R. J. Norton of Nyack.

Lindner trounced Russell Bullock of Niagara Falls in the second round, 6-0, 6-1, then routed Robert Resnick of Nyack, 6-0, 6-0. Norton, meanwhile, knocked off No. two seed, Cliff Kramer, 7-5, 4-6, 10-8, following a prior 6-3, 6-4 victory over Pete Boyd of Kingston. Resnick won over Gary Roebuck of Rochester in the second round, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2, of Hudson, 6-2, 3-6, 5-3.

Barbara Pecora and Dora Tuttle, both of Rochester, moved into the Senior girls' finals. Miss Pecora defeated Barbara Hriczka of Niagara Falls, 6-0, 6-0, and eliminated the local district winner, Nancy Ketz, Miss Tuttle scored a major upset in the second round when she eliminated top-seeded Ann Furriel of Rome, 6-3, 6-4. She topped Paula Shank of Niagara Falls in the semi-finals.

Brown, Ex-Paraplegic, Is Tied With Toscano in Minn. Open

By AL WADE

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—If Pete Brown doesn't take the $20,000 top prize in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic, no one could conceivably think less of him.

Just 12 years ago, most people didn't think he would ever walk again, much less play golf. But going into today's third round of the 72-hole Classic, Brown was tied for the lead.

In 1956, Brown was stricken with polio and was in a hospital for almost a year. He was completely paralyzed and doctors feared he might never walk, but he came back to start playing golf again two years later.

"It doesn't bother me any more," the personable Brown says. "But I have had some trouble with my back. The doctors say it's muscle spasms."

He says the back doesn't bother him very much except during cold weather—and the weather has been warm here at the Keller Golf course.

Brown and young Harry Toscano, a 26-year-old native of New Castle, Pa., were in a tie for the lead after 36 holes of the tournament, each firing 66-67-133s. Another stroke back was Jim Colbert, who had a 68 Friday to go with an opening 66.

Toscano is in his second year on the tour, but has only earned one check this year, a $275 piece of paper at the Rebel Yell Open in Knoxville, Tenn. His best finish ever was a tie for 11th at the Speedway Open in Indianapolis last year.

"I've changed my putting style and I'm doing a lot better on the greens now," Toscano says. "I'm holding the putter with a looser grip now and it has made a world of difference."

Both Toscano and Brown today will be fighting off a cluster of players with a chance at the lead. Tommy Aaron, the perennial bridesmaid of the tour, was behind Colbert at 135, while Ken Still, Tom Weiskopf and Joel Goldstrand were another shot back at 136.

Seven players, including defending champion Lou Graham, were grouped at 137, while another six were deadlocked at 138. Among those is former U.S. and British amateur titlist Bob Dickson.

A total of 79 players shot two-over-par 143 or better for the first 36 holes and tee off again today in search of that elusive hot round to bring them to the top. The most notable exception was U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, who shot rounds of 74 and 72. He will, however, be around for the next two days action—or so he says.

"I'll walk around and follow the action," he said, "or maybe I'll see if someone needs a caddy."

BAASTAD, Sweden (UPI)—Roger Taylor of Britain and Nicola Piller of Yugoslavia, surprise winners of Friday's Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and John Newcombe of Australia today in second round action in the All Pro Champion cup tennis tournament.

Taylor overcame a two set deficit to upset Ralston 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 9-7, 6-1 while Piller surprised Newcombe 6-1, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4. They will switch opponents for today's matches.

HILVERSUM, Holland (UPI)—Tom Okker of Holland qualified for the semifinals of an international lawn tennis tournament Friday by beating Phil Dent, a 17-year-old Australian, 6-1, 6-2.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Reliever Don McMahon, one of baseball's most traveled players, is on the move again.

McMahon, 2-1 this season with the Chicago White Sox, was traded to Detroit Friday for Dennis Ribant, a 22-year-old right-hander with a 2-6 mark. McMahon previously pitched for Milwaukee, Houston, Cleveland and Boston in his 11-year major league career.

S. C. Kickers Host Hoboken Sunday

The Kingston Sport Club Kickers play host to the Hoboken Football Club Sunday in a 3 p.m. soccer match at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

The Kickers, die-hard losers last week to Stadwerke München (City of Munich), 1-0, will be out to get back on the winning track against the New Jersey booters.

The Kickers will be using the contest as a tuneup for the upcoming fifth annual Mid-Hudson Valley Tournament slated Aug. 11 and 18. In between, the Kickers will have a scrimmage pitting the first unit against the second stringers. That will be a week from Sunday.

Braves-Missiles Tangle 3 Times

The Kingston Braves, already knee deep into the second round of the Hudson Valley Rookie League, play a three-game schedule this weekend against the same team, the Cornwall Missiles, with two of those contests counting in the first round of the playoffs.

Standings in the first round chart to the Missiles by two games, own a 4-1 record compared to the Missiles' 8-1 mark.

The teams tangle Saturday night at Dietz Stadium in a single game with starting time 8 p.m. On Sunday the teams meet in a doubleheader at Newburgh's Recreation Park. First pitch is slated for 2 p.m.

Of those clashes, the Saturday outing and the nighttime tangle's twinned all count in the first round encounters to keep their pennant hopes alive.

Cornwall, should it knock off Kingston in either first half contest, would then clinch a tie. A sweep gives the Missiles the title outright.

The league's championship is decided at the end of the season when the first round titlist and second round victor meet in a best-of-five series. Should one team take both ends, it is declared the crownbearer sans the playoff.

Coach Paul Giannuzzi's Braves will be out for the sweep of all three. He would like to increase the half-game edge they hold over the Newburgh Atoms and Florida Comets in the second round and wants at least a solid shot at the first half's pennant.

Although the Braves' skipper hasn't named his starting pitchers, Ron Thomas, stop flinger to date, is certain to be on the mound at the beginning of one of the trio of games.

Giannuzzi has five others from whom to choose. He has Dick Bream, Charlie Jones, Charlie Moore, Bob Speirs and Frank McGowan. Of this quintet, the most successful so far have been Bream and Speirs. Jones, the Kingston High strikeout king has been a spotty starter, but if he has the proper rest, might get the nod. Moore has put in plenty of relief time because of a sore arm, might be okay in time to see some relief action. The rest of the lineup, laden with offensive punch, remains intact.

Perry, Koenig on Fund Committee

Mike Perry and Frank Koenig of Kingston have been chosen members of a committee named to administer the Coach Dan Cunha Scholarship Fund at Siena College.

The scholarship was established following a meeting of college administration officials and former players and friends of the coach who died July 2, Siena for 21 years.

The purpose of the committee was to proceed with a sustained financial drive to underwrite the scholarship to benefit a student at Siena College.

Ralph Fedullo, Chairman of the fund, will receive donations at his home, 124 Division St., Amsterdam, N. Y. 12010. Checks should be made to the Dan Cunha Scholarship Fund.

Other committee members include: Albany—George Brunda, Ed Lange, Howie Tucker, Larry O'Neill, John Obermayer, Tom Kane, Jack Mulvey and Stan Levine; Schenectady—Dick Jacob and Bill Rapavy; Troy—Billy Hill, Jack Weaver and Bill Kalbaugh; Watervliet—Dave Torncello.

Also included are: Saratoga—Tom Hannon; Hudson—Jack Curry; Pittsfield—Frank Robinson and Frank Connolly; New York City—Danny Lodate and Ed Lokowski; Long Island—Paul Thorpe and Tim Mannix.

Wildcat Strike Threat In Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A threat of wildcat strikes hangs over the basic steel labor negotiations even if a big industry-wide settlement is reached before midnight Wednesday.

The issue is incentive pay-a bonus originally given some workers for extra production but now a crazy-quilt pattern of wage boosts that can make men working side by side take home vastly different paychecks.

Leaders of two United Steel-worker locals in the Pittsburgh area served notice on top negotiators Friday that their men were threatening to set up picket lines if the final contract doesn't cover all workers with incentives.

If the wildcat strikes were successful, union sources said they would spread to all plants with incentive problems—and that means dozens across the country.

At the top-level bargaining both union and management remained silent about how much money—if any—was on the table for the over-all economic settlement. However, for the first time the hotel corridors were alive with optimism that the industry had made an acceptable offer.

"It's in the bag," said the president of a big California local who's been going to negotiations for 20 years.

A figure mentioned repeatedly was 90 cents over a three-year contract, which would follow the pattern established in other major labor contracts this year. But there are so many negotiators—a total of almost 400 union and company men—that it was difficult to separate the scuttlebutt from the inside word.

The contract for the 388,000 men who work for the 11 largest steel companies, who negotiate as a unit, expires at midnight on Wednesday.

Cite Albany UR Head, Wife For Violations

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Albany Buildings Department says it found more than a dozen violations of the city's housing code at two houses rented by a real-estate company headed by the city's urban-renewal director and his wife.

A report by the Buildings Code Enforcement Bureau was made public Friday after a representative of the Legal Aid Society obtained an order in State Supreme Court for release of the data.

The Legal Aid Society represents two tenants in the buildings, which are near the South Mall redevelopment project.

The report orders Rubicon Associates to make corrections or repairs or face court action.

F. Joseph Leone, the urban-renewal director, is listed as secretary-treasurer of Rubicon Associates and his wife, Joan, as president.

Marlon Brando Ready To Resume Working

By BOB THOMAS

HONOLULU (AP) — Show Biz notes from the 50th state—Marlon Brando appears ready to go back to work. After the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the actor passed up the starring role in Elia Kazan's "The Arrangement" to devote his time to civil rights. Stopping over in Honolulu en route from Tahiti Island to Paris, Brando said he expects to begin work soon on "The Rebellion," to be filmed in Europe.

"The director is Gillo Pontecorvo, who made 'Battle of Algiers,'" said the actor. "He's one of those new directors who doesn't give a damn about stars or anything but his film. He's energetic and full of ideas; I haven't worked with a director like that in years, and I'm looking forward to it...."

The late Kui Lee, already an island legend although he died only two years ago, will get the filmbiog treatment under a deal set by Honolulu Advertiser columnist Eddie Sherman. He secured rights to Lee's life story from the songwriter's estate, and producer Leonard Freeman has taken an option on the biography.

Noted Songwriter

Kui Lee was the brilliant, rebellious island boy who wrote "One Paddle, Two Paddle" and "I'll Remember, You." "Ain't No Big Thing," and other songs which helped propel Don Ho to national fame, Lee died of cancer in his twenties....

A location scout from the Mirisch Brothers company visited here recently to hunt scenery for a sequel to "Hawaii." The producers are apparently going ahead with plans to continue the James Michener saga with the Chinese and Japanese portions of the novel, which many readers consider the best part.

Many persons consider "Hawaii" a flop because it drew a most uniformly bad review. But it appears to have been one of those movies that nobody liked but the public. "Hawaii" was a big money-maker for the Mirisches and United Artists. So there is little wonder that a sequel is planned....

Hawaii is becoming increasingly popular as a background for television commercials. The reason is not merely to capture the islands' scenic beauty in color; the film makers can also escape some of the stringent terms for actors by not shooting in the mainland....

Maggie Parker, lone female lead of the new "Hawaii Five-O" series, comes from an unlikely background for an actress. Born to a proper Bostonian family, she took a master's degree in education at Boston University. Four years ago she turned down the position of dean of women at a new California college to pursue an acting career in Hawaii.

A Good Living

Despite the odds, she has managed to earn a good living in radio, television, commercials and films. Now she is destined for stardom if the "Five-O" series succeeds....

Recent entertainment figures in the islands: Helen Hayes, visiting son James MacArthur, co-star of "Hawaii Five-O"; Nancy Sinatra, filming for a new television special and not visiting her ex, Tommy Sands; Betty Grable, here for a stand in "Guys and Dolls"....

James Arness, dropped his Garbo habits and grabbed with the press when his catamaran finished first in the trans-Pacific race. His fellow television star, Buddy Ebsen, came in two days later but won the race because of the way the cats were handicapped.

Crisis in Bolivia Worse in 2 Years

By THOMAS BRADY
Associated Press Writer

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Cuba's publication of Ernesto "Che" Guevara's diary has touched off the worst Bolivian crisis of President Rene Barrientos two year regime.

Some Bolivians believe it could result in the downfall of Barrientos.

"The irony of the diary is that Che is hurting Barrientos more dead than when he roamed the jungles with his guerrillas," said one local commentator.

Bolivian politicians and journalists speculated that Barrientos might lose the all-important support of army general Alfredo Ovando and be replaced by a military dictatorship.

The military has been silent publicly, but meeting in private. The crisis involving a mass cabinet resignation, a bloody demonstration and Barrientos' loss of support from his vice president has this background:

When Cuba first published the diary of Guevara's hardships leading a ragtag guerrilla band

in eastern Bolivia, most people here believed the army was responsible for the document reaching Cuba.

The army would not tolerate this kind of publicity, especially after the government spent $3 million tracking down Guevara and his band. Besides, the army had hopes of selling the diary to Western publishers.

Barrientos, meanwhile, visited President Johnson in Texas, and picked up a promise of $12 million in budget backing.

His position seemed secure as a president could hope for in this frequently violent land with the lowest per capita income in Latin America.

But on his return from the United States the army accused government minister Antonio Arguedas—one of Barrientos' best friends—of leaking the diary to Cuba.

Arguedas fled to neighboring Chile and announced he was a "Marxist-humanist" admirer of both Guevara and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. He added that he sent the diary directly to Castro "with a personal note" by airmail.

The leaking of the diary fell squarely on Barrientos and his administration. That the president harbored an admirer of Castro, his worst foreign enemy, in his Cabinet was too much for many Bolivians to stomach.

Housing Bill Passes Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to sign shortly a $5.4-billion housing bill that opens new vistas of federal aid to low income families and takes the first step in his 10-year goal to erase city slums.

The measure, a signal victory for Johnson after a year-long see-saw battle with Congress, passed the House Friday 226 to 135 and was sent to the White House.

The bill is an authorization and actual appropriations for the programs is expected to fall below the $5.4 billion.

Key feature of the compromise bill authorizes $300 million to help 500,000 families in the $3,000-$6,000 income range buy homes.

The government would pick up part of the interest cost over one per cent and in extreme cases all interest above one per cent.

To be eligible, families in general would have to have an income not more than 35 per cent greater than the level established in their own communities for admission to public housing.

They would have to devote 20 per cent of their income to housing with the subsidy based on the difference between that amount and the actual payments.

State Legion In Opposition To Gun Control

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)

The State American Legion was on record today as opposing "any proposal to regulate and control the ownership of rifles and shotguns."

The 2,000 delegates to the group's 50th annual convention took this position in a resolution adopted Friday.

It said fees for registering rifles would impose a hardship on Legion posts that have ceremonial rifle squads.

The three-day meeting ends today.

The group was addressed Friday by Betty Furness, President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs. Miss Furness said servicemen often return home to find their wives have signed sales contracts the family cannot afford.

She also said some insurance companies have increased automobile-insurance rates or canceled policies solely because the holders entered the service.

Miss Furness told the delegates the administration has begun a study of the insurance industry aimed at helping servicemen.

Another resolution approved Friday called for legislation "to disqualify from public employment any person who promotes, fosters or urges the doctrine that the government of the United States or of any state or political subdivision thereof should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means."

Glenford Pair Hurt In Rt. 28 Accident

By JON POWERS

Two Glenford teenagers were injured last night in a head-on collision with a pickup truck on Route 28, one and one half miles west of Route 375 in the Town of Hurley.

State Police from the Lake Katrine sub station report that the truck, operated by Sherman Moore, 68, of Glenford was traveling east on the west-bound shoulder of the highway when the accident occurred. His vehicle was struck on the right front fender when an auto driven by Steven Loughlan, 18, of Atwood Road, Stone Ridge attempted to turn into the Glenford Road from the west-bound lane. Loughlan, who told police he was blinded by the truck's headlights, apparently tried to avoid the vehicle by swerving to the inside of the road. He struck the Moore vehicle.

Two passengers in the Loughlan vehicle were injured in the accident. Jeri Bremer, 19, of Box 172 Glenford suffered multiple fractures of the left thigh and multiple lacerations of the face. She was taken to Kingston Hospital and reported in fair condition there this morning.

Shelley Bremer, 16, of the same address, suffered possible neck injuries, and is also being treated at Kingston Hospital. The drivers of the two autos were treated for minor injuries and released.

Trooper Carl VanWagenen investigated the accident at approximately 9:10 last night.

At 10:25 a. m. Friday morning, an 11-year-old boy was injured when he was struck by an auto on Route 209, 100 feet north of Route 213.

Gregory Roland, of Box 119, Kingston suffered a fractured left shoulder and abrasions of the left arm and knee after he ran in front of a car operated by Bertam Vandemark, 52, of High Falls. The driver of the auto was traveling north on Route 209 when the incident occurred. The boy apparently ran out into the highway from a parking lot, was struck by the right front side of the auto and thrown through the windshield. He is reported in good condition at Benedictine Hospital.

Six other persons were injured in highway accidents last night in the area.

The auto went off the right shoulder of the road, struck a culvert, and turned over.

Quackenbush was treated for chest, neck, and back injuries. Eric Molter, 25, of East Durham suffered a fractured left arm and contusions of the forehead.

Michael Conklin, 17, of South Cairo was treated for lacerations of the scalp and possible chest injuries; and James Price, 21, of South Cairo suffered multiple lacerations, abrasions, and contusions of the arms. Price was treated and released from the hospital.

Quackenbush was issued a summons by Leeds Troopers for driving at a speed not reasonable or prudent.

A four-year-old boy suffered minor injuries in a two car accident on Route 52, four miles west of Pine Bush last night. Frank Mara, 4, was traveling east on Route 52 in a car operated by his father, Francis, of Pine Bush, when an auto driven by Howard Kempf, 43, also of Pine Bush crossed over into the eastbound lane and struck the Mara vehicle head on.

DWI Charges

Kempf was arrested by Ellenville State Police for driving while intoxicated and failure to keep to the right. He was arraigned last night in Mag-

INVESTOR FORUM

WANTED: MONEY MANAGERS

America needs thousands of competent, ethical money managers. And this need grows every day.

There are more than 20 million stockholders in this great country, and this number is increasing rapidly. The volume of money is enormous, and with monetization of the huge federal debt it promises to get bigger.

June 1, 1968, commercial bank deposits totaled $376.56 billion. In 1948, they were $144 billion. On June 1, 1968, mutual savings bank deposits were over $62 billion—up from $18 billion two decades ago.

Potential money resident in the governmental floating debt (that which is due within a year) is well over $100 billion. Currency in circulation hovers at around $47.5 billion.

No country in the world's history has had a greater volume of money that requires proper management.

How does a person become a professional money manager? Well, there are many approaches to the field.

A young man, perhaps age 22, has been graduated from a liberal arts college. He majored in economics. He minored in English. He can speak and write fluently.

Without any difficulty, he gets a job as a trainee with a New York Stock Exchange firm and, at age 23, becomes an accredited customers' broker. For perhaps five years, he learns how to manage money.

He is an authority on corporate finance. The incidents of ownership comprising the capitalistic system—income, risk and control—he understands well enough to know how to help every type of investor.

He studies intently the bases of a score of industries, and he becomes a teaching encyclopedia of information about 100 leading corporations in these industries. He is also a student of the money market.

By age 27-30 he has served his financial "internship." He has 400 clients on his books. On a given day he advises them that his days as a salesman are ended and that he wants them to become his money-managing clients.

And on the day when he becomes an ethical, competent money manager, his clients agree to pay him from $100 to $5,000 a year for advice. Commissions, profits and bonuses are no longer in the center of his work.

Furthermore, as a free-lance operator, he starts speaking all over America to audiences, clubs and societies on subjects relating to sound investment.

A good money manager can write his own financial ticket. If he is efficient, he can handle 100 accounts, and his annual income can easily be from $50,000 to $100,000.

This article grows out of personal experience. Thirty-eight years ago I quit a security salesmanship to hang out my shingle.

I would earnestly suggest that 50,000 potential money managers do the same thing.

CBS TV's "Of Black America" series noted in a documentary, for instance, that it was Negro soldiers who rounded up Geronimo in the Old West. And, as an example of a story also set in pioneer days, NBC-TV's "The High Chaparral" will have an hour tale about a regiment of Negro cavalry troopers in the 1860s.

Peace-Nothing Less Goal of Humphrey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared today his goal is "peace—nothing less" and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said black power is the road to black dignity and responsibility. But Democrats' attention was focused as much on vice presidential prospects as on their two Democratic presidential rivals after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's announcement Friday he could not accept the No. 2 spot. "For me, this year, it is impossible," Kennedy said in a statement. "My decision is final, firm, and not subject to further consideration." Humphrey called Kennedy's decision "understandable." Some of his aides listed five possible running mates if Humphrey wins the nomination. The list includes McCarthy, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy brother-in-law, New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma.

Utah, today, listed the pursuit of world peace at the top of his "new agenda." He said this means working with Red China in the future and the Soviet Union now to reduce tensions; a slow down in the arms race, and a "stable and lasting peace" in Vietnam for which he promised a specific proposal in days.

Wallace Pledge: Will Maintain Law and Order

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Presidential candidate George C. Wallace described the nation's capital Friday night as a dying city "because people in high places have allowed anarchy to destroy the city." He pledged, if elected, to maintain law and order in Washington even if it takes 30,000 troops.

Wallace appeared at a rally in the West Palm Beach Municipal Auditorium. The turnout crowd was estimated at 5,300 by Ralph Boyes, manager of the hall, who said the latest attendance record was 6,020 for Negro singer James Brown about three months ago. Security precautions prevented spectators from sitting in a large section behind Wallace. "Too long leaders of both parties have bargained away the rights of this state," shouted Wallace, who described Democrats and Republicans as sounding alike on major issues. In the audience was at least one Negro woman, seated in the rows of spectators. She applauded when Wallace walked on stage. Two Negro men and a uniformed Negro deputy also were in the hall.

McCarthy said Negroes must be given power—with which he said will come dignity and responsibility—by bringing industry, locally-owned businesses and antipoverty programs into their communities.

"The fact is that poverty among black people is no accident," McCarthy said in a prepared speech in Detroit. "Black people are poor because they are powerless, and powerless because they are black."

On the Republican side, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said in Providence, R.I., that if the United States escalates the Vietnam war, China and the Soviet Union "will take it right up to nuclear war."

"The enemy is plenty sophisticated," Rockefeller said. "We can't win. We can't win. We're at a stalemate."

Confers With LBJ

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon spent 90 minutes Friday with President Johnson for a foreign policy briefing, talk of their days together in the Senate and renewal of an invitation to visit the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

"No politics was discussed," Nixon said. He added: "Win or lose, I'll accept the invitation to go to the ranch after the election."

Plans for a mass rally on the eve of the Democratic National Convention have been announced by the Coalition for an Open Convention, which includes a number of prominent Vietnam war policy critics.

Controversy Continues Over Fortas Nomination

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice is growing more vocal even though formal Senate debate and a possible filibuster are more than a month away.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, told

the Senate Friday that Fortas, since becoming a member of the high court in 1965, has joined in a series of decisions that have "practically destroyed" community moral standards.

He said he hoped Johnson would withdraw Fortas' nomination to succeed Earl Warren. Miller's comments followed statements earlier in the week by several members of the Senate Judiciary Committee that they wanted all committee members, before they voted on the nomination, to see a film that had been the subject of a Supreme Court ruling.

The film was ruled obscene by a federal court but the decision was later overturned by the Supreme Court with Fortas agreeing with the majority.

One senator confided to a newsman Friday that he feared the growing attacks on Fortas' decisions in obscenity cases could have greater impact on his confirmation than any other issue raised since Johnson submitted the nomination June 26.

At the same time, three Republican senators who, unlike Miller, have not joined in the opposition to the nomination, sharply criticized Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark for saying senators trying to block confirmation are motivated by political partisanship and opposition to civil rights.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, only Negro member of the Senate, demanded that Clark apologize. He said Clark's statements in an interview were without justification and an unfair attack on Republicans opposing the nomination.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., joined in Brooke's indictment of Clark's remarks.

No Bulletproof Vest for Ray

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Authorities say James Earl Ray will probably not have to wear a bulletproof vest when he stands trial in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "We do not anticipate any extra type of paraphernalia in the courtroom," Sheriff William N. Morris Jr. said Friday. "Our security will be of a perimeter type."

Morris, meeting with newsmen for the first full-fledged session since Ray was returned July 19 from England, indicated that getting into the courtroom when Ray is on trial will be most difficult.

Reporters covering the trial will be given special identification cards bearing their photographs and fingerprints. But they and other spectators will have to be searched and be video taped before being admitted.

The picture Morris painted of Ray, probably the most closely protected prisoner in Tennessee history, was of a man who is eating and sleeping well and getting his exercise. "He does pushups and walks," Morris said. "He reads, plays gin rummy with his guards, but he doesn't discuss the case with anyone but his attorney."

And Ray's attorney, Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., agreed his client is fine. After spending two hours and 45 minutes with Ray Friday, Hanes said he was "in a good mood" and was "very optimistic. He had very little to complain about."

Viet Casualties Lower Since June

SAIGON (AP) — Paralleling the pace of the ground fighting, casualties in the Vietnam war have dropped off since early June. But U.S. officials refused to predict that the lull will last.

One obvious reason is that the enemy has not chosen to fight. Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander, has summed up the current situation this way: "He is trying to make himself hard to find. He's devoting all his energy to it and there's lots of country out there."

Qualified authorities give different reasons for the lull. Some say enemy forces were so badly battered during the lunar year year and May offensives that they are not now able to mount major assaults. Some see political factors related to the Paris peace talks and calls for de-escalation of the war.

Many allied military men here, however, agree that this is a time when the enemy is replenishing troops, resupplying and refitting for more action.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford said during his visit here earlier this month there was evidence that major enemy units had crossed back into North Vietnam for this purpose. He said major attacks could be expected by early September and described the present period as the lull before the storm.

There also is evidence that the same thing is going on along the border sanctuaries of Laos and Cambodia.

The U.S. command, in its weekly summary issued Thursday, reported that 157 Americans were killed in action last week. That was the lowest death toll for one week since last October. Casualties among South Vietnamese and among enemy forces also were reported down slightly from the previous week.

Contrary Mary

TOKYO (UPI) — Typhoon Mary approached Japan's western coast today and police closed beaches and warned mountain climbers to stay home or risk torrential thunderstorms which trigger landslides.

High winds churned waves that swept a total of nine fishermen to sea. All were rescued.

Weather officials said the full force of Mary's 90-mile-per-hour winds should reach the coast Sunday.

BOSTON (UPI) — Lester Davis wrote Judge Elijah Adlow, who sentenced him to serve a year in jail, saying he had bet fellow inmates that he could persuade the judge to reduce his sentence to six months.

Adlow replied: "I regret to inform you that you have lost your bet."

Czechs, Soviets Near Day of Reckoning

By JAMES O. JACKSON

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czechoslovakia's reform Communists moved today toward their day of reckoning with the angry Soviet politburo on a wave of public support that may be unmatched in this republic's 50 year history.

Calls for defiance against Soviet demands for halting the Czech party drive for more democracy did not come alone from Communists and government officials. Thousands of citizens signed petitions. Letters and telegrams of support poured into party offices.

Observers said Alexander Dubcek, the Czech party first secretary and chief reformer, has let the support build to a point that leaves him little room for maneuver or compromise with the Russians.

The date of the confrontation meeting between Soviet and Czech party leaders remained secret. But informed sources said it would open Monday or Tuesday. It may be announced only when the talking is done.

The Soviets claim—in a thunderous propaganda barrage ranging from Moscow — that Czechoslovakia is in danger of going capitalist, slipping from the East bloc. This, Moscow has said officially, it will not tolerate. The Russians have especially denounced the Czechs' new freedom of speech.

There is fear of Soviet armed intervention. Russian divisions are maneuvering just across the Soviet border.

But the Czechs appear to have lost the lackluster, unemotional national face they wore under 20 years of Stalinist rule that ended with Dubcek's coming to power eight months ago. Thousands of Prague citizens have been putting their signatures to a petition issued by the avant garde weekly paper Literarny Listy.

The petition warns Dubcek and his party president they must "defend the path we have entered and which we do not intend to leave alone."

The Czech army newspaper Obrana Lidu has vowed that Czechs will not commit "suicide" by giving into Kremlin demands for halting the "democratization" drive. Dubcek, talking to a factory group Friday, gave his people the word: "Be assured that we shall succeed."

The strike had added significance in that it signalled a possible split between the American Newspaper Guild and newspaper craft unions over racial discrimination.

Wawarsing Given Month To Decide Camp Purchase

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

The Wawarsing Town Board was given one month to consider purchasing the 75-acre Sunrise Manor during special session of the governmental body last night.

Supervisor Frank Harkin, who urged the councilmen to "Keep your eyes on the future" in considering the $65,000 venture, said he would contact the Palisades Interstate Park Commission Monday morning in an effort to learn when the state agency could inspect the property.

The park commission is in a position to deliver 50 per cent of state funds towards the cost of the purchase.

The state's park commission already agreed, during the administration of former supervisor George M. Barthel, on the 50 per cent formula in the developing of the 218 acre Van Gorder site for the creation of a park.

Supervisor Harkin said, however, that it would cost the township about $100,000 "just to develop the Van Gorder property" and that the project would take years, "before a full time recreation area could be established."

Ready for Use
Sunrise Manor, on the other hand, is reported ready for instant use as a park site.

The area was offered to the town two weeks ago at the $85,000 price by Sunrise Manor co-owner Jack Kramer.

Last night, Kramer told the councilmen that certain outside interests had already inquired after the property but that he would wait for a month before accepting any other bid.

Aside from the possible approval of the park commission, councilmen displayed caution in their discussion on the purchase.

Councilman Frank Greco wanted to know the potential cost of operation of the park site and Councilman Jerome Elkin felt that the area could be developed by "private enterprise."

Elkin said that should a private business get involved, "it would keep (Sunrise Manor) on the tax rolls."

He also said that because the camp is five miles from the Village of Ellenville, there would be a transportation problem.

The Van Gorder site is located "right next" to the Camp Sunrise, according to Supervisor Harkin. The combined land mass is just beyond Cape Pond, or west of the Greenfield area.

Discussion also centered around adding the manor, a former resort, to the already approved Van Gorder site.

Kramer told the councilmen that operational costs of Camp Sunrise could be made up in admission charges and that the place "could pay for itself."

"All you would need is maybe two caretakers on the property," said Kramer, "and maybe two lifeguards."

The resort includes a swimming pool, baseball and softball fields, handball and basketball courts, a casino and varied other buildings all completely furnished.

Supervisor Harkin said that the area could be made into a center for the youth and the elderly, a town park, training area for rescue squads, a storage area for town highway department equipment, and he even went so far as to declare that the site could be used in the event a catastrophe struck the township.

Makes Request
Attorney Vernon Kelder asked Kramer to hold off selling the area until the town could check with the park commission over the matter of state funds.

After Kramer agreed to the one month moratorium, Harkin told the councilmen, "Don't overlook the youth in the area. They deserve more attention than other governments have given them."

I other action at the special meeting called by Harkin, the supervisor read a directive to the town by the Ulster County Board of Health that all open burning in the county was to cease by Jan. 1, 1969.

Harkin said he would go to exactly what is expected of the town.

The board of health action was seen as possibly revolutionizing the county's dumping operations and Harkin told The Freeman the move might mean the purchasing of large and expensive incinerators.

Harkin said that the town "may not be able to comply" with the health department order and councilman Elkin said, "I don't believe they (the board of health) can force us (to halt open burning). We'd like to comply to the letter of the law," Elkin continued, "but we may not be able to."

State Directive
The Ulster County Health Department, it was learned, was acting on the heels of a state directive.

Because of a lack of a suitable meeting place, District 3 voters may have to vote in District 4, the Wawarsing supervisor told councilmen.

The two districts encompass the Village of Ellenville and are separated by Main Street. Wawarsing Town Clerk Kenneth Mitchell said that it would be legal for town residents of one district to vote in another area within the township if facilities were scarce.

Because of traffic tieups in front of the Napanoch and Kerkonson post offices, the town board agreed to make up 1,000 cards to be placed on windshields of cars violating regulations.

Supervisor Harkin said that many people going to the two post offices park their cars on the wrong side of the street in an effort to save time.

Finally, Harkin told the board that the voltage problem in the town office building had been corrected and that he would call in an expert to make an electrical survey for future air-conditioning purposes.

Stand of White Birches Casts Shimmery Reflection in Local Stream

Full Week's TV Listings From July 28 Thru Aug. 3

'The Apple Tree' Blossoms Out as a Hit

"The Apple Tree" is not yet two years old (this Jerry Block Sheldon Harnick hit musical opened on Broadway in October, 1966), but it has already earned a reputation as one of the brightest musicals of all time. Currently playing at the Woodstock Playhouse, "Tree" blossoms out into what is actually three shows in one.

Based on three famous stories illustrating the interplay between man and woman, the art colony version stars dynamic Tanny McDonald, Gene Nye and Gary Miller.

Tree's music underscores each playlet with songs ranging from raucous parody to tender love ballads. That versatility provides Miss McDonald with material extraordinary enough to make hers a winning performance. Her portrayals of Eve singing "Go To Sleep Whatever You Are" and Passionella crooning "A Movie Star" are moments to be remembered for weeks to come.

Bittersweet Biblical

All in all, "The Apple Tree" is one of the most delightful evenings of musical comedy ever created for the theatre. The first play, "The Diary of Adam and Eve," based on a Mark Twain short story, is a bittersweet chronicle of the lives of the Biblical couple.

"What made you pick brown?" asks Eve, after she has infiltrated Adam's modest hut. "Because wood is brown," replies Adam, piqued. And Eve starts dolling up the hut with flowers and plants, and proposes that Adam cut the grass around it... slowly but surely, Eve changes Adam's life.

The second show, The Lady or the Tiger, is a tub-thumping farce, staged as a lavish laugh at high passion and marital histrionics. Princess Barbara, "her regal proudness, her self-flashing eyes, her self-indulgence, her goddessness," can't decide whether she'd rather have her lover dead or wed...

Passionella, the third and last offering, is a spectacular romp amidst a cacophony of exploding psychedelic TV tubes, Ella the chimney sweep gets her wish and is transformed — POUF — POW — into Passionella the movie star: instant blonde hair, golden gown, fantastic figure!

She's the Star

Tanny McDonald is the star of the evening, playing the persistently tender Eve, the deliciously bloodthirsty Princess Barbara, and the MOOV-IE star. Gene Nye is the slightly harried Adam, surprisingly moving at the play's end, and also Flip the singer (in purple leather pants). Gary Miller is the slick and liquorish snake and the doomed (or is he)? Captain Sanchar in Lady or the Tiger, who never gets to Gaul.

The clever sets, the wild special effects and lighting are the work of designer, David Segal. The costumes — Eve's silky dress of flowers, Passionella's solid gold gown — are designed by Mary Lou Schertz. The production is directed by Harold Baldrige with musical direction by Richard Albert.

Don't miss THE APPLE TREE! Playing for two weeks, now through August 4th with shows Wednesday to Saturday at 8:40 p. m. and Sundays at 7:30. There are matinees today and August 3rd at 2 p. m. For reservations call the box office.

Going to Saratoga?

Now in its final week at Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the New York City Ballet leaves in a blaze of glory after presenting 22 performances since July 4.

Tonight at 8:30 the Ballet offers "Swan Lake," with Suzanne Farrell and Peter Martins; "Episodes," with Violette Verdy and Anthony Blum; "Glinka: Valse Fantaisie," with Suki Schorer and John Clifford; and "Western Symphony," with Carol Sumner and John Prinz.

Tomorrow afternoon (Sunday, July 28) at 3:30 p.m., an additional performance of "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" will be danced by popular request. "Slaughter" was such a smash with its red-hot jazz dancing that it will replace the previously scheduled "Firebird" and "Ivesiana" on Sunday afternoon. It will share the bill with Bizet's "Symphony in C" (danced by Morris, Blum and Farrell) and with "Haydn Concerto" (featuring Verdy and Sieveling).

Orchestra. The mood is courtly, romantic, sprightly — like playtime in an old palace, and chic period costumes cropped at mini length add to the enchantment of the piece.

"Haydn Concerto" is a first for Saratoga and in its upstate premiere will whisk one back into the 18th Century as a dance visualization of Haydn's Concerto No. 1 for Flute Oboe and

With the Ballet leaving, the Philadelphia Orchestra comes in on its heels as the resident company at Saratoga, opening a 16-concert season on Aug. 1, when Eugene Ormandy conducts the North American premiere of Gianastara's Psalm 150 for mixed chorus, boys' choir and orchestra.

In honor of the opening concert, there will be a gala super-dance in the Hall of Springs immediately following the Aug. 1 debut. With Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller as honorary chairman, Polynesian food will be served (almond duck, oyster beef, snow peas and fried rice) and outside helium balloons will festoon the ceiling.

The Spa Summer Theater Film Festival in Saratoga will present "A Salute To The Novel" the week of July 28 to Aug. 3 when three famous novels will be shown in their screen versions.

"The Pearl" will play from Sunday, July 28 to Tuesday, July 30. Based on the novel by John Steinbeck, "The Pearl" is the story of the effect of sudden riches on a poor Mexican fisherman's happiness; won the Best Photography Award at the Venice Film Festival. On Wednesday and Thursday, July 31 and Aug. 1, the film will be a French version of Dostoevsky's "Crime and Punishment," starring Jean Gabin as the young law student who kills a pawnbroker during a robbery which he has justified morally. On Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2 and 3, a superb color Russian production of Cervantes' "Don Quixote," starring Nikolai Cherkassov, will be shown.

There are two complete shows nightly at the theater on Saratoga Spa, starting at 7:30 p.m.

STATISTICS SHOW that youngsters today are using libraries and reading more voraciously than any previous generation. And, for the grandchildren who do their checking out of books at the Woodstock Library, there is an added dividend. In a corner of the children's room there stands an honest-to-goodness, handcarved, colorfully painted wooden merry-go-round horse. Kids sit quietly in the saddle and thumb through The Adventures of Dr. Doolittle, or clamber up for an imaginary ride through the sagebrush while mom or dad pursue the stacks elsewhere in the building. Whets Appetite

Dear Editor:

I must tell you how much my family appreciates the many articles in Tempo on places to go and things to do — and I speak not only of local attractions in this area, but of the many attractions you have written about which are further away. No matter what Tempo writes about, it is written so colorfully and so well that it whets our appetite to go there and see it for ourselves. We have already made visits afar to Mystic Seaport and Constitution Island because of Tempo and we are making up a list of other places you recommend to visit in the future.

Sincerely,
MABEL CASE

Two Originals On Double Bill For Woodstock

Last week at the Little Theater on Tinker Street, Performing Arts of Woodstock opened its double bill of one act plays, "Charles the Child Beautiful" by Daniel Klein, and "The Beholder" by Kit Jones, directed by Robert Burgos, who last season directed PAW's highly acclaimed production of "The Banana Thief" by Holly Bey.

"Charles the Child Beautiful" is a hilarious curtain raiser concerning a critical moment in the family life of Charles, played by Ralph Santinelli, his mother, played by Pearl Blackman, and his Dad, by Larry Shufelt. Slides, by Elwood Ballard and Mike Sullivan, and a film, photographed by Mike Sullivan, and directed by Robert Burgos, show the family at a more carefree time in their lives, when Charles was but a precocious infant.

In the second play, "The Beholder," a man who has withdrawn from life meets a girl who escapes reality with the aids of make believe and self-hypnosis. The girl is played by Isabelle Liikala. The man, by Dean Schambach.

The two one act plays continue tonight and again on August 1, 2, 3. Curtain is at 8:30. PAW's Little Theater adjoins the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, on Tinker Street, Woodstock. For reservations call: Mrs. Ronald Blackman of Woodstock.

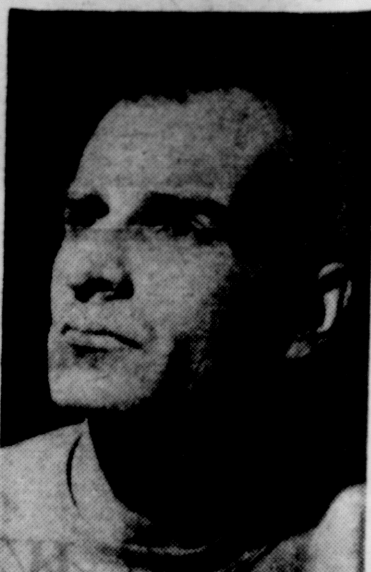

THE HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM of Tessi and Lee Aaron will present a concert of Jewish-American folk music to-night at 8 p. m. in St. Mark's Methodist Church, Napa-noch. The Aarons have performed in many East coast folk festivals, specialize in songs of the Jewish people, and have been lauded for her guitar and voice style (her songs are mostly sung in the Yiddish) and for his playing of the mandolin. Husband Lee has been called "straight man" for his wife's lines and music. They promise a distinctive and humorous concert... and, prior to the show, those attending will have the opportunity of viewing the paintings of Forest and Paul Moses, son and grandson of famed artist Grandma Moses, which are on exhibit from 1 to 8 p. m. in the church basement.

First There Was Pooh and Now It's:

Magical Mr. Pudgins

If you have ever doubted those statistics on the population explosion . . . if you have ever wondered if Kiddie shows can fill a theatre . . . if you have sometimes felt (as a rainy day mother) that children's entertainment is the orphan of the art world . . . you should have been with us at the Woodstock Playhouse last Saturday morning.

Somewhere in the vicinity of 900 avid youngsters turned out for a performance of "Winnie the Pooh" and chaos resulted when doting mamas learned to their chagrin that the theatre could only seat 600.

Tears trickling down freckled noses were in evidence everywhere but those who had had the foresight to make reservations sported faces that were sunbursts of joy. Harried and harrassed producer Edgar Rosenblum did the best he could — doling out tickets in a fast shuffle to busloads of area campers and local youngsters alike . . . but more than one child who had planned on spending an hour with Pooh Bear, Piglet and Tigger had to be turned away disappointed.

Those lucky enough to wrangle a seat, however, were not disappointed. Toddlers, tiny tykes and almost-teens alike clapped and cheered a youthful cast (headed by talented teenager Judy Moncure as a funny and frolicsome Pooh). The world of Christopher Robin and his friends had sprung to life again and every well-loved animal from the ageless story (each in easily identifiable and colorful costume) drew excited comment and applause with each entrance.

He's A Delight

Next attraction coming up for tykes at the Woodstock Playhouse is "Mr. Pudgins" and it's slated for presentation Aug. 3 at 11 a. m. All of which means that if you want to assure your youngster of a seat for this children's show about a delightful new character, you'd best get on the phone and make your reservations early.

Mr. Pudgins pops up on stage as something of a male Mary Poppins. When he comes to babysit — for a very proper family — wonderful, magical things begin happening. Mysterious new friends materialize from unexpected hiding places and boredom flies out the window. Surprises are in store for the audience via Mr. Pudgins' magical pipe and his marvelous car Annabelle.

Bruce "Buddha" Redner will cavort as Mr. P under the direction of Barbara Kendall, and a lively cast will answer the questions of whether a circus will really come to life and whether a live dodo will really put in an appearance.

So take your youngsters to the Woodstock Playhouse on Aug. 3 at 11 a. m. for a wonderful treat and, this time, don't be the one to be left out of the fun.

'Snow White' and 'Beanstalk'

Among the attractions geared specifically to younger children in this area are the special children's shows playing at Latham's Colonie Summer Theatre this season. Local mothers who have been driving to the Colonie Shopping Center near Albany to stock up on household wares and school clothes, know the theatre is within easy reach.

If you missed out on taking your youngsters to see the first matinee performance of "Mother Goose Go-Go" earlier this month at the Colonie, there are still two more productions upcoming. They're being presented by the highly acclaimed Prince Street Players, Ltd. and WCBS-TV on Wednesday afternoons at 2 p.m.

Comedienne Marcie Stringer, who played the title role in the recent "Mother Goose Go-Go," will be cast as the wicked Queenie in "Snow White Goes West," which plays the tent theatre Wednesday, July 31. And, on Aug. 28 she'll play the classic Golden Goose in "Jack and the Beanstalk," exactly as it was seen by millions on CBS-TV last year.

The sprightly Miss Stringer created such show stopping roles as Empress Carlotta the Least in "The Emperor's New Clothes," now a CBS color special and she's been one of the bright lights of the New York based Prince Street Players. She also toured nationally with "The Boys from Syracuse" and played Mammy Yokum in "L'il Abner" and the Countess in "Wildcat."

Other members of the company are Kal Salvatore, Joan Johnson, Joyce Griffen, Jim Eiler, Fred Grades, George Ryland and Robert Anderson. The drive to the tent theatre is well worth the effort in terms of entertainment value to be gained by youngsters. The Prince Streeters and CBS have received a citation in the form of a Special Emmy Award for "providing young TV and theatre audiences with imaginative entertainment of high production quality."

MARCIE STRINGER

Enrichment for Youngsters

A summer performing arts program for students is luring youngsters from all over the State of New York to the Saratoga Performing Arts Center for yet another year. SPAC offers its illustrious artists to both students and teachers at reduced prices for special matinees and the New York City Ballet just yesterday danced the last of three such performances from its repertoire. The Philadelphia Orchestra now moves in to offer three Wednesday matinees at 2:30 p.m. in the amphitheater.

Concerts of the Philadelphia musicians for children will include an all - Beethoven program, July 31; and all - Russian program, Aug. 14. William Smith, assistant conductor of the orchestra, and regular conductor of its children's concerts, will preside at the Saratoga offerings, giving a amusing and informative commentary on each work.

Tickets are priced at a very nominal rate for elementary and high school students and are only slightly higher for teachers and other adults accompanying a student. For every 12 students attending, one adult - chaperone with them will be admitted free.

This year, seats are reserved, although there has been no change in price. Tickets and information may be obtained by writing to the Education Department of Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. 12866, which sponsors the program in cooperation with the N.Y. State Education Department.

Fox Hollow Family Festival

If it stretches your imagination to believe that your child could have the time of his life at the former Prohibition Days hideout of "Legs" Diamond, then start stretching—for that's exactly the case. Over in next-door Greene County on a 180-acre estate where the gangster-man once dodged the law, lies Fox Hollow . . . and it's there that an entire day for children (a festival by children for children) is being planned Aug. 15.

The Fox Hollow Children's Day is the brainchild of the Beers Family (Bob Beers, his wife Evelyne and their daughter Martha, 20), famed for their homey, good old-fashioned harmonizing as folk singers.

Dozens of musicians will be performing before thousands of people at the Fox Hollow happening and the children's day offers a virtual potluck porridge of fun and excitement. There'll be a family opera based on The Three Bears; Punch 'n Judy shows with puppets and marionettes; songs, story telling sessions, and piping; exhibits of folk crafts and primitive art, "mini-concerts" and gatherings of famous family groups and individual musicians; "sacred harp" and round singing; weaving, wood carving, flower pressing and other crafts in parade.

"Knee - bouncing" children's songs will be the order of the day, accompanied by down-home fiddle playing and the clackety-clack rhythms of "limberjacks" (a pair of loose-legged, handcarved wooden puppets that dance from strings).

If your child has never seen a dulcimer, heard a circus baladeer, had his fortune told, listened to the uilleann pipes, or seen Sioux Indians dance, then—by all means—take him to the Beers Family Festival of Traditional Music and Arts in Petersburg, N. Y. on Children's Day, Aug. 15. You'll find the Beers Family offering a day of rare Americana and you'll find Fox Hollow easy to find (Route 2, a half mile west of Petersburg).

Hansel & Gretel

Children's matinees of "Hansel and Gretel" by Sarah and Alexander Maissel, have been delighting youngsters fortunate enough to be taken on an outing to the Forestburgh Summer Theatre on RD 1 at Monticello throughout the month of July. "Hansel and Gretel" will continue play every afternoon until the end of this month. Beginning Aug. 1 and running until the end of the month, Forestburgh will be presenting children's matinees of "Esther, Queen of Persia" daily.

THE BEERSES OF FOX HOLLOW

Television

While researching the fall shows that loom on TV's horizon, Tempo arrived at the conclusion that the media definitely ranges afar. For an animated special, The Mouse on the Mayflower, due Thanksgiving, voices were supplied by John Gary, who recorded in Chicago, Joanie Sommers and Ernie Ford, who duetted in San Francisco, Eddie Albert, whose songs were waxed in Los Angeles, and an orchestra recorded the score in London.

The number of Negro actors in TV series is increasing in the fall, even though Bill Cosby and I Spy are gone. In addition to new integrated series, old shows like Peyton Place and Mannix are adding Negroes as cast regulars. Percy Rodriguez is the new Negro neurosurgeon just introduced on "Place." Not all, however, will pinpoint harmony and good race relations as do Ironsides and N.Y.P.D. The Outcasts, new for ABC, has a Negro (Otis Young as a former slave) and a white (Don Murray as an ex-slave and plantation owner) as antagonists. On the series, they'll play two cowpokes who roam the post-Civil War west fighting outlaws and baring their inbred hatred of each other.

For the fall, too, Get Smart has an episode set called "Snoopy Smart vs. the Red Baron." And Harry Belafonte and Bill Cosby will do a TV special together. And — all to the good, we feel — with a few exceptions like Doris Day, Don Murray and Diannah Carroll, most of the actors starring in new series are unknowns. That should give viewers a chance to look forward to new, exciting young talent, just as they once did when they first saw Jim Garner as Maverick or Steve McQueen in Wanted: Dead or Alive.

REFLECTIONS: Dustin Hoffman recently told a reporter a story to make a TV producer jump of a bridge. Hoffman said he had badly wanted to play the part of Mother in the David Susskind-TV production of "A Hatful of Rain." But he didn't get the role. Nobody saw him as star material although he auditioned after he had made "The Graduate" but before the film was released... Joan Crosby reports in TV Scout that Tiny Tim gave a concert sponsored by a local radio station in California and his popularity is so high these days that a rival station bought a slew of tickets to give away to their listeners.

... She also printed a story that shows what a difference a year makes. When Universal Studios had its annual party for press and stars, actor Jean Pelequin attended. He was "discovered" working at that studio as a stable hand and he's new in The Virginian and being groomed for bigger things. Asked if he was at the party last year, he said, "Sure, I helped set up the tables and chairs and then when it was over, I came back to clean up."

Reviewing this past week's TV fare, we'd like to toss a bouquet to the Channel 17 show "You Don't Back Down." Absorbing plot concerned a young Toronto doctor who went straight from a Canadian medical school to a Nigerian Mission hospital where nearly everything he did was a compromise between what he had been taught and what was possible under primitive conditions in Africa. And an education in itself was NET JOURNAL's visit to Paris, citadel of high fashion, in "Plumes for My Rich Aunt," filmed in that city's most elegant fashion houses, it showed rich women cheating the ravages of time via frivolity and vanity.

A word of praise, too, for Robert Mitchum who was as humorous as one could wish as a modern-day Moses in the film "Mr. Moses" on Tuesday Night Movies. And for NET FESTIVAL's tribute to the great American poet Carl Sandburg, with eulogies by fellow poets and President Johnson, and Sandburg reading his own work.

Coming up on TV in the week ahead and previewed are the following:

Today, Sat., July 27.

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS (ABC, 5 p.m.). National Sky Diving Championships; World Karting Championships; National Surfing Championships.

THE PRISONER (CBS, 7:30 p.m.). Patrick McGeehan is back in the village, his wall-to-wall prison, and No. 2 is being played by a woman in tonight's episode.

ALL-STAR vs. PACKERS

(ABC, 9:30 p.m.). Pro-bound college football stars tackle the world champion Green Bay Packers in the annual College All-Star Game from Chicago. The college boys have won only 9 out of 34 outings over the years. (T.G.)

More Money to Spend

Today, Americans have $40 billion more to spend than they did just a year ago.

Since 1951, there's been a 51 per cent increase in personal income. The price of food in this same period is up less than 25 per cent.

One of the reasons things cost more today, and that, of course includes food, is that the salaries and wages paid people who produce, handle, foodstuffs, have gone up.

Tempo Readers Write

Dear Editor:
Our president, Dr. Richard Messina, and the members of our Ulster County Council, and I, want you to know how very appreciative we are for the wonderful help Tempo gave us in promoting the fund raising Rijstafel for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.
As a matter of fact, the Rijstafel was so successful... we are considering one or possibly two similar events each year.
Thank you again for your help.
Sincerely,
C. LINCOLN

Newsworthy

Dear Editor:
Thank you for mentioning and headlining our Washington radio interview in a recent issue of Tempo. I truly appreciate your consideration of this as newsworthy.
Cordially,

Could Write Book

Dear Editor:
I wish to thank you for the articles in Tempo. I particularly enjoyed the recent story on Green Kill Park since I was caretaker there for over 35 years and I know it inch by inch.
My wife and I and our family lived in the Maples Cottage and at the time I went to work there, the Cornell people owned it. It was a pleasure to be there with them and also in later years with the new owners.
It came to be an Ulster County showplace with people coming there from all over. We had a nine-hole golf course, 15 tennis courts, a swimming pool, a large dance hall and a large, sunny swimming pool.
I have pictures of all the seven to nine room cottages. In later years, 10 new cottages were built for girls to house five in one cottage.
I could write a book on Green Kill.
And, when I was a young lad, I put five years on the great Mary Powell, the greatest of steamships. Captain Anderson was in charge at that time and, later, Captain Arthur Warington, of Hone Street, Kingston, took command. They were both great men and I treasure the picture I have of the Mary Powell.

pilloried in Tempo for eulogizing his country. Judging by your usual reviews, if he had produced something so filthy that you couldn't bring your family to the theatre, he'd be hailed as a sensitive artist.
While your reviewer may be offended to find Wayne portraying Americans as "good guys" in their struggle against Communism, I can only hope that occasionally she thanks these "good guys" for making it possible for her to live in a country where she can enjoy the luxury of being repelled by John Wayne's belief that "the good guys are always us."
In conclusion may I suggest that in the future when Miss (sic) Geertsema unleashes her obtuse darts at any pro-American film efforts that either the review appear on the editorial page, or that it bear the disclaimer "The above was a paid political announcement."

Very truly yours,
EUGENE LOUGHLIN

(Mrs. Geertsema replies: "Obviously, I am caught on the horns of a dilemma. The gentleman suggests I take pride in my right to criticize that which fills me with moral outrage; then condemns my exercise of that right. And while I acknowledge John Wayne's right to make an easy million by sermonizing and fictionalizing history, I am also aware of the privilege of earning my bread and my children's shoes by doing that for which I am best qualified on the basis of the education this country allowed me to receive. As for the other charge, suffice it to say that I make it a point to see and screen all movies before allowing any of my three children to attend. If other readers feel, as the gentleman does, that my reviews lean towards the lewd side, let them take warning and keep the kiddies home when I heap praise on a film. Finally, any review, criticism, commentary or article that is signed or carries a byline need not necessarily appear on the editorial page. Journalistic tradition allows its placement anywhere in the paper in spite of the fact that it may or may not reflect the views of the paper, its publisher, or its management.")

Perfect Selection

Dear Editor:
Tempo's article "Get That Kid Out of My Sandpile" was one of the most humorous I have ever read. I secured extra copies and mailed them to friends out of town.
Sounds like a perfect selection for the most unforgettable character series of Reader's Digest.
Sincerely,
COLLETTE SONNENBERG

Tom Jones Romps

A riotous adaptation of Henry Fielding's best selling novel of 300 years ago, "Tom Jones," is currently playing at Forestburgh Summer Theatre, Monticello. Adapted by Brian Gilmar, who also stars as the irrepressible Tom, the play is all about that famous foundling who enjoyed a renewed popularity in the Oscar winning movie of five years ago. Background music is by Alexander Maissel, Forestburgh's producer.

Most movie fans are familiar with the rollicking adventure of Tom pursuing and being pursued. Cast as Sophia, the ever pure but entirely feminine sweetheart, is Judith Lane; playing Miss Western is Julia Fremon; and Edgar Daniels, a Lincoln Center performer, is Squire Western.

"Tom Jones" has one of the largest casts ever to appear at Forestburgh. It is directed with meticulous excitement and exuberance by Ken Coltigan and will run through Aug. 4.

Also at the neighboring summer theatre this month will be the second in the series of Ruffino operas, bringing Cavalleria and Pagliacci to its stage July 30. Jodelle Keating will sing Nedda and Edoardo Assali, who has sung with the Provincetown, New York City, Philadelphia and Hartford opera companies, will play Alfio.

"Ring of Nibelungs"

Four operas comprise "The Ring of the Nibelungs." The operas are "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure" (The Valkyrie), "Siegfried" and "Die Gotterdammerung" (The Dusk of the Gods).

Now, at KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK you can choose the Savings Plan you like best—and still get high SAVINGS BANK interest-dividends.

5% a year on REGULAR SAVINGS ACCOUNTS — latest interest-dividend, compounded quarterly, paid from day of deposit.

DAY OF DEPOSIT TO DAY OF WITHDRAWAL ACCOUNTS will earn one-quarter percent per annum less than regular savings accounts, as prescribed by N. Y. State Banking Law. Interest-dividends credited for whatever number of days your money is on deposit provided a balance of at least $10.00 remains in the account at the end of the quarterly dividend period. This account is advantageous for people who make frequent deposits and withdrawals.

5% a year guaranteed interest compounded semi-annually on TIME DEPOSIT ACCOUNTS, if held to maturity.

Available anytime in amounts from $1,000, maturity on any day you select from 6 months to 2 years. You may however, withdraw part or all of your money at any time after 30 days at a reduced rate in accordance with regulations of the N. Y. State Banking Department.

At Barn-Museum

A concert that should appeal to many will be held this Sunday afternoon, July 28, at the Barn - Museum of the New York State Symphony Orchestra, located within easy driving distance of Kingston at Coldenham - on - Hudson. It's a piano concert by William Penny Hacker, musical director of the orchestra and it'll begin at 4 p. m., allowing a late afternoon table spread for the audience on the grounds. Hacker will play three of the great Sonatas of Beethoven, the Moonlight, the Waldstein, and the Appassionata. A native New York Stater, Hacker was born in Albany; founded the Arkansas and Virginia State Symphonies; and has conducted the latter since 1949. Equally known as both a pianist and a conductor, he has appeared as pianist throughout the U.S. and also in Canada, Mexico, Holland, Austria and Germany. The Barn - Museum is located off 17K at Coldenham, N.Y. (west of Newburgh). It is easily accessible from the New York Thruway (Newburgh exit). The hay-rig platform of the old barn has been converted into the stage proper with the rustic setting of the barn being kept intact. The spot was especially chosen to combine great moments in music with the natural beauties and national historic backgrounds of the pastoral Hudson Valley.

Two for You: Mammoth Pageant and Fun at Fair

AERIAL VIEW of Orange County Fairgrounds zeroes in on mid-way, amusement park and exhibit areas. Fair opened yesterday; runs through Sunday, Aug. 4.

NATIONALLY REGISTERED 8-day Horse Show is part of the 128th Orange County Fair. Some 1,000 equine entries will compete from today through Saturday, Aug. 3.

JOEY CHITWOOD THRILL SHOW, appearing at OC Fair afternoons and evenings on July 29 and Aug. 1, sends auto astronauts into orbit and soaring through space.

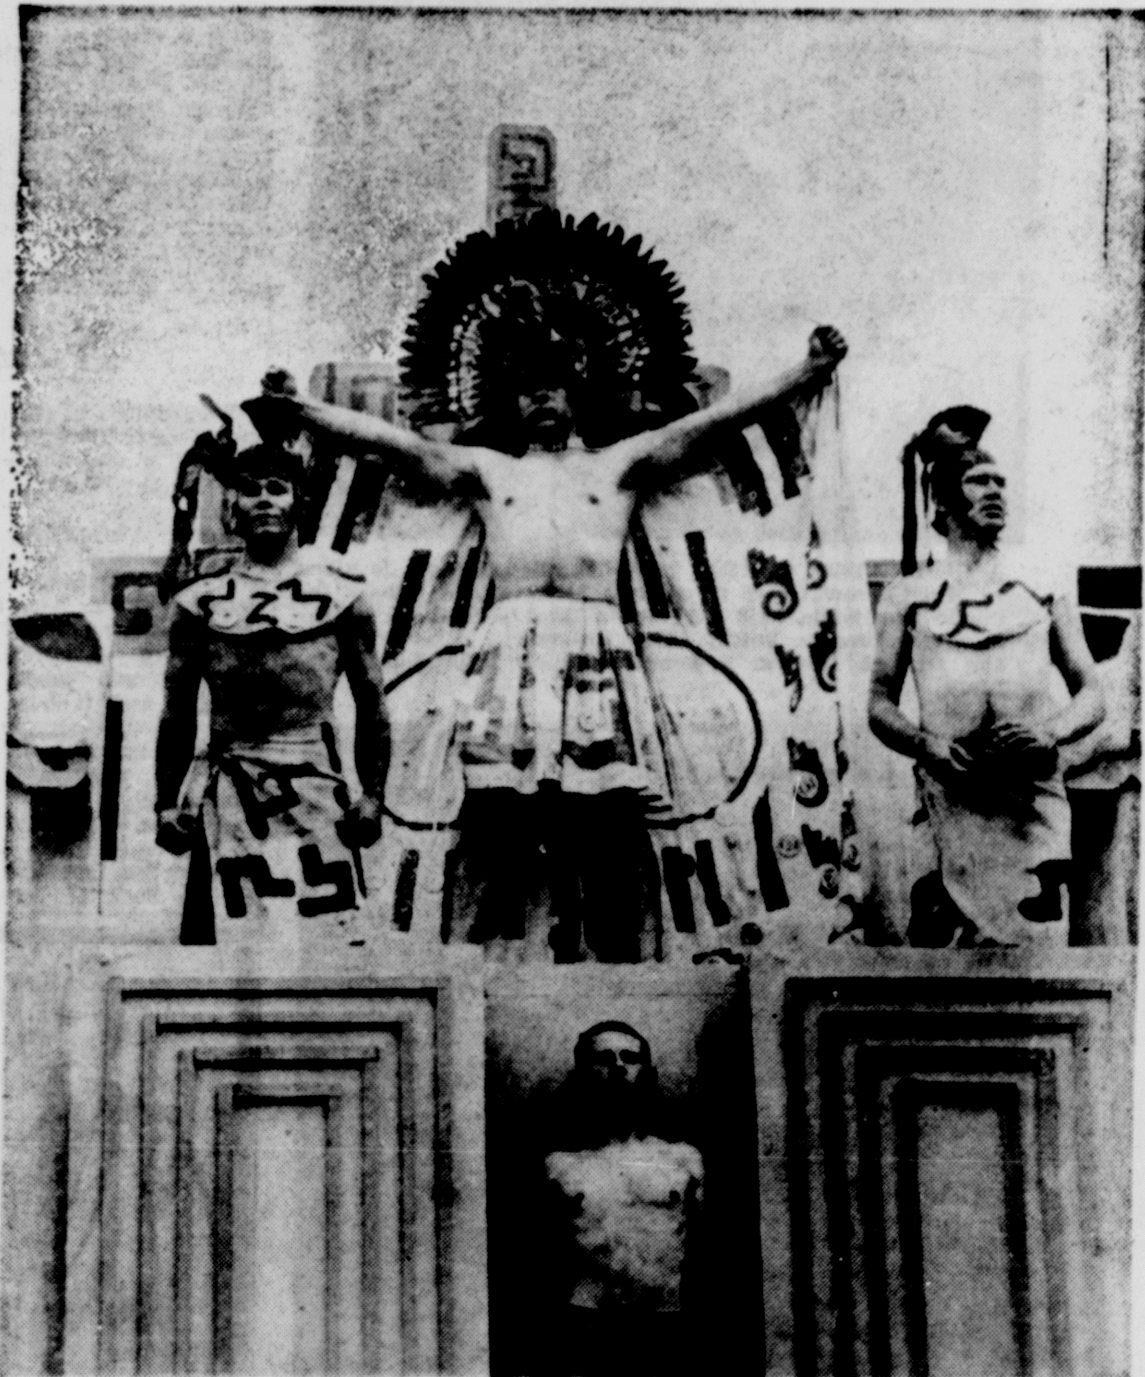

From the most elaborate religious pageant in the world (the Mormons' mammoth Hill Cumorah Pageant), which attracts some 100,000 people each year to Palmyra in New York's Finger Lakes area, come the photos on the right. Awe-inspiring spectacle marks its 31st annual presentation from July 29 to Aug. 3. Crowds of thousands gather under the stars at the foot of a steep hill at 9 p. m. each night of the run to watch the superbly staged production with a cast of hundreds in authentic costumes, playing against a natural backdrop and presenting a pulsating recreation of an ancient chronicle based on the Book of Mormon. Two Kingstonians are performing at Palmyra this year—elders Jeff Hansen and Dean Stubbs, of 124 Downs Street. Although it's a long drive from Ulster and Dutchess, it's worth the trip since it's world renowned and always highly praised for its breathtaking special effects, epic dimensions and show-stopping realism. Located on the N.Y. Thruway, just off Exit 43, the pageant can be seen free, with no charge for either seating or parking.

Subjects Sacred and Sprightly

Photos on left prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the Orange County Fair has opened down Middletown way for a 10-day run. It's now the second largest agricultural exposition in the state; has one of the most outstanding Horse Shows in the Northeast. For adults and children, it offers a change of pace—from the complexities of a computer civilization to the carefree charisma of the carnival. The Fair is FUN . . . from its Flying Cages and Bat Cars for youngsters . . . to its flower, pie, cake and sewing judgments for women . . . to its cattle and poultry competitions, tractor operators contest, and auto thrill shows for men. Incidentally, kids under 16 will be admitted free up to 6 p. m. on July 29 and Aug. 1, and senior citizens (those 75 years and older) pay no admission July 30.

CAST IN THE ROLE of a Nephite maiden in the Palmyra pageant is Ruth Ann Marble, college student from Mala, Idaho, and she's one of the 450 actors in the outstanding annual religious spectacle depicting the story of an ancient American civilization which existed from 600 BC to 421 AD as told in the Book of Mormon.

MOVIES

WILD IN THE STREETS.

The idea on which this film is based given less emphasis as a "put-on" and more on plausible possibility, could have produced an excellent and absorbing story. Unfortunately, whoever was responsible at American International (the production company that released it), molded "Wild in the Streets" into a movie that is definitely not for the "mature audiences" suggested in its advertising campaign.

It is, however, about a campaign. We are presented with Max Frost, 24 years old and President of the United States. To him, anybody over 30 is too old. He got to be President because more than half the nation's voters are under 25 and their power of the ballot put him in the White House.

Since America is indeed a nation in which the young will soon make up the major portion of the population, and since there is every possibility that 18-year-olds will shortly be given the vote, "Wild in the Streets" (if done well) could have provided food for thought and cause for reflection. But it has not been done well; is not worth seeing; and barely deserves reviewing.

If the U.S. is ripe for the plucking by the under 30 types, it is doubtful that a teen-age entertainer-turned-politician will be tapped as the next Eisenhower. But that's what happens in "Streets" when a delinquent caterwauler (Christopher Jones) gets the young, anti-establishment voters all shook up. It wouldn't have happened, of course, if an opportunistic Senator (Hal Holbrook) hadn't campaigned on the youth image to launch a hippie uprising . . . and succeeded in getting a law passed to enfranchise 15-year-olds. They elect Jones President, attack old befriender Holbrook, and create panic and pandemonium in the streets by hustling off all those who exceed the age limitation to concentration camps.

As shock drama, "Streets" misses (even when it shows members of the Senate hallucinated into hysteria by the effects of LSD in the water system). It is so bad that one can only wonder how Melvin Belli, Louis Lomax, Dick Clark, Walter Winchell, Kenneth Banghart, Pamela Mason and others were ever persuaded to appear in this campy nonsense as themselves.

THUNDER ALLEY, which shares the double bill with "Wild in the Streets" at the Sunset, is a mass of screaming wheels, shingaling dancing and scorched speedways. It features singing idol Fabian as a fiercely competitive young driver who's been suspended indefinitely from stock car racing because his recklessness killed another driver.

But he knows and we know that it wasn't really recklessness that was responsible. It was — hold your breath — a temporary blackout. Still none of his old friends will give him a chance and he's reduced to joining a Thrill Circus specializing in spectacular crashes.

And sure enough there's spectacular crashes and side-swiping races, and way-out dancing at jumping parties, and even Annette Funicello to help Fabian through his blank-outs and blackouts.

Eventually all blind alleys in "Thunder Alley" are conquered by the conquering hero, who ends up with the girl, the winner's trophy and the clue to his problem. Believe it or not, his subconscious was all hung up on a childhood experience of being boxed in and injured during a go-cart race. Leaping lollipops!

PURDENCE AND THE PILL. We didn't laugh once throughout this static comedy — but if you feel the pitfalls posed by the use of a supposedly fool-proof birth control pill could be funny, you might chuckle once or twice.

"Prudence" probably has the most complicated plot hatched in Hollywood this season. The viewer is more dazed than dazzled as he tries to keep up with the labyrinthine convolutions which evolve when four discreet couples, a pair of devil-may-care young moderns, and the maid of an elegant British banker and his wife get their aspirin and birth control pills mixed up. The interrelated chain of marital and extramarital problems ends up sorely lacking as good comedy material — even as a comedy of errors.

We're as broad-minded as the next guy but we still like our comedy with a little animation — and a bumper crop of babies is just a wee bit TOO ANIMATED for us. Still, if you don't wince at swallowing pills and other medications prescribed by your doctor, you just might find "Prudence" funny.

If not — and if you haven't seen it before — you could settle for the second feature at the 9-W Drive-In currently. That would be IN LIKE FLINT, which has to do with ZOWIE (Zonal Organization of World Intelligence Espionage) and its job of controlling a threat to sabotage the government's attempt to launch the first space platform and establish a space research laboratory. Laconic James Coburn stars as Derek Flint, the free-lance spy picked to do the job.

As Flint fans know, their man is a fellow of many talents (his only weapon is a cigarette lighter with more than 80 uses) and diversified tastes (a private harem, a private jet plane). Needless to say, Flint carries the day as superhero, super-intellectual, superspy, and supercool romeo.

Elsewhere around the area, movie-goers will have to settle for hold-overs or films which have already made the rounds. ROSEMARY'S BABY, a shocker about the Devil having designs on a mortal woman and starring Mia Farrow, Ruth Gordon, Sidney Blackmer and John Cassavetes, continues for a third week at the Mayfair. THOROUGHLY MODERN MILLIE, a Roaring Twenties song-and-dance fest with emphasis on comedy and offering Julie Andrews, Carol Channing and Mary Tyler Moore, is in its second week at the Community. THE FOX a controversial film that squares off on a lesbian-heterosexual love triangle (composed of Sandy Dennis, Anne Heywood and Deirdre Dullea), is at the Tinker Street Cinema in Woodstock. THE GREEN BERETS turns out to be red, white and blue headgear with John Wayne winning the Vietnam War and it has just moved from Kingston to the Orpheum in Saugerties. (T.G.)

YOUNG COMMANDOES on a ruthless mission move in swiftly to round up citizens over 35 as teen hippies take over U.S. government administration in this scene from "Wild in the Streets." The color feature is now playing at the Sunset Drive-In along with "Thunder Alley," all about the fiercely competitive world of stock car racing.

A GOOD LUCK CHARM, containing tannin root, is given to Mia Farrow (left) to wear in "Rosemary's Baby," the movie now being held over for a third week at the Mayfair Theatre locally. For Rosemary (Miss Farrow) the strange charm becomes significant for her entire life.

JAMES COBURN, seen here in one of his recent screen excursions as a cowboy, goes high fashion for his role in "Our Man Flint," which is staging a comeback appearance in this area currently at the 9W Drive-In where it's playing on a double bill with "Prudence and the Pill."

Splash of Color at Polari

Woodstock's Polari Gallery, next door to The Playhouse, will present a one-woman show by Dorothy Varian from July 28 to Aug. 10.

Artist Varian has received high praise as a colorist, and working with color is her first interest. Critics have lauded her work in oil as subtle and often shimmering — oriental in its serenity and based on simplicity. And it has been said that although her paintings are spontaneous self-expressions in color, they are controlled emotionally.

Also on display at the Polari show will be some 20 illustrations from the Mariquita Platon book of verse, "Tease the Tiger's Nose," staccato-like black and white drawings credited with being "provocative and evocative."

Rockefeller Evocations

Miss Varian has had one-woman exhibitions in Paris at the the Whitney and Downtown Durand-Ruel Gallery, twice at Galleries in New York City, in metropolitan centers across the nation, and in her native Woodstock. She has exhibited internationally at three World's Fairs, the Salon d'Automme, Paris, Duveen Galleries, London, Yale University, the Metropolitan Museum, and in all major museum exhibitions in the United States, including the Carnegie Internationals and

Whitney Museum Annuals. She is also represented in the permanent collections of the Whitney Museum of American Art, Duncan Phillips Memorial Gallery, Washington, Dartmouth College Museum, and in the private collections of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., and many others.

The Polari Gallery invites one and all to visit the Varian collection — a kind of cool oasis in the hot summer.

The gallery is open daily from 1 to 5:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 9:30; Saturdays 10 to 5:30 and 7:30 to 9:30; Sundays 12 noon to 5 and 7 to 9. The gallery is closed Tuesdays.

Festival's Weekend Features

The major work of the fourth weekend of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's 1968 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood is a performance tonight of the Brahms Requiem conducted by the Orchestra's music director, Erich Leinsdorf. Soloists will be Helen Boatwright, soprano, and Sherrill Milnes, baritone. The 78-voice chorus will be the combined Tanglewood Choir and Berkshire Chorus. The Choir consists of Fellows of Berkshire Music Center and participants in Tanglewood programs of the New England Conservatory of Music, and Boston University. The Chorus is made up of residents of the Tanglewood area who work under the direction of the Orchestra's assistant conductor, Charles Wilson. Also on the evening program will be the "Wedding" Cantata (No. 202) of Bach, conducted by Leinsdorf, with Miss Boatwright as soloist.

The weekend programs begin at 7 p. m. in the Tanglewood Music Shed when pianist Malcolm Frager plays the Weekend Prelude Concert, performing the Brahms C Major Sonata and the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody No. 8 in F Sharp minor. Tonight's Boston Symphony Orchestra concert conducted by Leinsdorf features Jorge Bolet as piano soloist in two works, the Konzertstueck of Weber and the Hungarian Fantasy of Liszt. Leinsdorf will also conduct Kraft's Concerto for Percussion and Orchestra, and Schumann's Symphony No. 2.

The Sunday concert will be conducted by the third guest conductor of the current Festival, Josef Krips, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Krips will lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra in performances of Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, Strauss's "Don Juan," and Stravinsky's "Firebird" Suite.

A Sunday Morning Chamber Music Concert will be presented in the Shed at 10:30 a. m.; will feature the Music Guild String Quartet, playing works of Haydn, Bartok and Ravel.

Looking ahead, the Festival of Contemporary American Music, co-sponsored by the Berkshire Music Center and the Fromm Music Foundation, begins Sunday, Aug. 4 and will run through Saturday, Aug. 10. Highlights of the week will be the premieres of four new works commissioned for the Festival from composers Mark De Voto, William McKinley, Stanley Silverman, and Richard Trythall.

Woody Allen's 'Death Knocks' Opening in Area

Woody Allen, one of America's foremost humorists, has been added to the roster of playwrights for the Berkshire Theatre Festival's third production of the current season, "Next," an evening of comedy opening Wednesday, Aug. 7. "Next" will run for two weeks at the Stockbridge, Mass., showplace, which is little more than an hour's drive from Kingston.

Woody Allen's play "Death Knocks," which he refers to as "an existential vaudeville sketch for two comedians," will join Terrence McNally's comedy "Next" and Elaine May's "Adaptation" in the evening of comedy.

"A Matter of Position," the Festival's first production this year was written by Miss May and Terrence McNally's "Cuba Si" recently received high acclaim at Theatre Four in Provincetown. Mr. Allen and Miss May are two of America's funniest people; are well known for their Broadway plays, recordings and numerous movie and television appearances.

"Death Knocks" and "Next," the confrontation between a middle-aged overweight draftee and a lady examiner, will be directed by Steven Vinaver, who directed "The Mad Show," the successful off-Broadway revue. Miss May will direct her own play.

They're in Residence

Both Miss May and McNally are in residence at the Stockbridge Festival currently, and patrons and visitors meet them frequently on the grounds. McNally's play "The Witness" was recently produced at the Barr-Wilder-Albee Playwright's Unit Workshop, and he will have a volume of his plays, "Apple Pie," published by Random House this fall. "Apple Pie" was praised after production on NET-TV this season and McNally is now represented off-Broadway with "Collision Course."

The three playwrights can be expected to create a "special" evening for the Festival, its stage and its audiences—an evening as open-ended as possible and with emphasis on the very funny and the truly experimental.

This past Wednesday, William Gibson's play "A Cry of Players," opened as Berkshire's second production and is running two weeks until "Next" takes over. Oscar winning movie star

Anne Bancroft and Frank Langella are starring in this work by the author of "Two for the Seesaw" and "The Miracle Worker." Gene Frankel directs "Cry" which takes place in an anonymous 1580's town visited by a troupe of players and jugglers. Action centers on a man trapped in a stifling marriage and narrow-minded society, who is fascinated by the traveling players and whose eventual decisions change his life and churn the dull existence of the town into a frenzy. Music by Richard Peaslee, who composed the score for the Royal Shakespeare Company's production of "Marat/Sade," highlight the play.

Tonight's show is sold out but tickets are available for all other performances by writing the Berkshire Theatre Festival in Stockbridge.

DANCE

Jacob's Pillow, the Dance Festival that holds forth just across the state line at Lee, Mass., will present a rare program of dance—combining modern dance works by Norman Walker and Company, and ancient Hindu dance styles by Nala Najan. Geared to fascinate, the program will have seven performances from July 30 through Aug. 3, with 3 p. m. matinees on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and 8:40 p. m. presentations Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Norman Walker has become a great favorite at the Pillow (he has also appeared in Ulster County with the Turnau Opera) and his part of the program will include works choreographed to the music of Richard Rodney Bennett, Benjamin Britten and a contemporary folk-rock piece.

Walker's new dance styles are expected to blend with the exciting but contrasting old styles and music of India. Nala Najan, one of the finest ex-ponents of Hindu dance, represents the 2,000 year old tradition of India's dance art, and his offerings will include the Bharata Natyam and Kathakali styles, along with rare and unique Chhau "masked dances."

Walker and his company have performed in Puerto Rico, the Peabody Institute, Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall—indeed, almost everywhere throughout the U.S. Najan has just returned to this country after an extensive tour of India and Italy.

A series of dance lectures also continues at the Pillow. Ann Barzel, noted dance critic for the Chicago American, will lecture on "Style and the Dancer" in the Ted Shawn Theatre this Sunday, July 28 at 8:30 p. m. She'll illustrate her talk with rare dance films from her own personal collection, all filmed during her 20 year career as a dance critic and editorial associate. Her illustrated lecture is open to the public.

Paltz Enters First Festival

State University at New Paltz is among the 191 entrants in the first American College Theatre Festival, says the Festival's national office in Washington, D. C.

New Paltz, which has a most active theater program, will be screened next fall along with other entrants from New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the three states comprising one participating region.

The American College Theatre Festival will be staged April 27 to May 12 (1969) in Washington in the newly restored Fords' Theatre (where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated) and in an innovative temporary Theater on the Mall. There'll be 10 Festival productions and each will be presented three times.

The Festival is being organized and produced by the American Educational Theatre Association (AETA) and the American National Theatre and Academy (ANTA). American Airlines, the Friends of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Smithsonian Institution are sponsoring the Festival.

Alternates, Too

Festival participants across the country will be judged by 13 regional committees. Each regional committee may nominate up to three productions for consideration by the Festival's central committee. In regions where there are more than 18 entries, two alternates may be named in addition to the three nominees.

The central committee will make the final selection of 10 Festival productions next February. Actress Peggy Wood, honorary president of ANTA, is co-chairman of the central committee with Dr. C. Robert Kase, former president of AETA.

The American College Theatre Festival has been organized to give national recognition to the high quality of college and university theater productions and to promote increased public interest in theater.

Cherishing the Old

Lake Mohonk Mountain House

Any list of "very special places" in this area would have to include the name of The Lake Mohonk Mountain House on Mohonk Lake at New Paltz. Still cherishing the old traditions and old world charm of the early mountain houses that once dotted the Catskills in abundance, Mohonk keeps pace with today in its commitment to culture and world affairs.

This season a series of International Nights is being held on Wednesdays during July and August. The entertainment potpourri featured includes films, slide talks, poster displays, and even favorite dishes on the evening menu. Next Wednesday's "Night" will take participants to Czechoslovakia.

Two lectures are also slated for Mohonk audience in the week ahead. Dr. Charles Smiley will speak on "The Earth as Seen from Space" this coming Monday evening, and on "The Mayan Civilization" on Aug. 1.

Emphasis on Art

Mohonk also boasts an art gallery in its Lake Lounge, where a succession of exhibits and displays are appearing during the summer. Currently on view: a stunning collection of colored photographs of land and sea by Ruth H. Smiley, and a collection of seaweed collages by Rose Treat, whose talent takes a hobby and turns it into an art form of fragile and delicate beauty.

So diversified is the leisurely life at Mohonk that it runs the gamut from conferences on international arbitration (pertinent in this day of Paris peace talks) to fishing contests and wild - flower - birding - hiking - and - nature presentations on weekends and holidays and — in some instances — over full weeks.

In Mohonk's Gift Shop, local handicrafts are available (including seaweed bookmarks by Rose Treat). Also of interest and on sale there: the first educational booklet of The Mohonk Trust in the area of natural history. Titled "The Natural History of Undercliff Road," it's by Daniel Smiley and Dr. Frank E. Egler; has 51 photographs by Mrs. Egler and Virginia Smiley. The booklet leads the reader on an excursion touching on 17 "stations" on Undercliff Road in the Trapps, an area readily accessible from Rt. 44 - 55 from the familiar steel bridge — and one which is probably the only locale in the northeast where it is possible for the average walker to traverse a talus slope.

Mansion Music

Music and mansions were made for each other and the Hudson Valley Chamber Music Circle knows this fact full well. The Circle is presenting the first performance of the newly formed Monteux Chamber Players at the Vanderbilt Mansion on Route 9 in Hyde Park, tonight at 8:30.

The new group is a 12 string ensemble, conducted by Claude Monteux, and the ensemble boasts seven violins, two violas, two cellos and a double bass. Tonight's program will include Purcell's "Three Pieces for String Orchestra;" a sinfonia by C.P.E. Bach; a contemporary work by Britten, "The Simple Symphony;" Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik;" and J. S.

Bach's "Polonaise and Badinerie from Suite in B minor." Conductor Monteux will play a flute solo in the latter piece.

Oils and More From Angeloch

Opening today with a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. at Woodstock's Lewis Gallery, a distinctive one-man show: oils, silk screen prints and water colors of Robert Angeloch.

The recipient of numerous awards, Angeloch rose rapidly to national prominence and his interpretations from nature range widely from representational toward more abstract.

Included in the Lewis Gallery show will be "Early March" which recently won first prize for oils at the 19th Annual Exhibition of the Academic Artists Association at Springfield Museum of Fine Arts. Also to be viewed: small paintings from the artist's trip to Ireland last year; paintings of the cliffs and dunes at Napeague and Montauk; subjects culled from this part of the Catskills; selections from a series of silk screen prints done last winter.

Angeloch works shown recently in New Orleans drew kudos from critics. Of his representational canvases, one writer said: "Excellent handling, good in color and poetic in mood." Another suggested "that the realistic styles 'pale' before the artist's more abstract works... that though much more removed from Mother Nature, they reflect even more of her true essence."

Robert Angeloch has been honored with a 10-year retrospective show of his work at the Albany Institute of History and Art. During the past year he has shown in Jackson, Miss., Memphis, Tenn., and New Orleans, La.

Following today's opening at the Lewis gallery, the Angeloch show will continue through Aug. 4. Gallery hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. daily and from 8 to 10 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Storm King's Baroque Fare

A Baroque Program will be presented by the Monteux Chamber Players of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society this Sunday, July 28, 3 p.m., at Storm King Art Center, Mountainville, N. Y.

Claude and Marianne Monteux, flutes, will join Kenneth Fricker, bass, and Sylvia Suzow, sky, harpsichord, in a chamber recital of Purcell, Pergolesi, Haydn, Vivaldi, Telemann and Handel.

Claude Monteux, Hudson Valley Philharmonic conductor, composer, lecturer in music, and recording artist, is acknowledged today as one of our leading flutists. As a recital flutist he has appeared in the major cities of Europe, has given a command performance at the White House, and has performed under the batons of Toscanini, Mitropoulos, Walter, with Casals in Puerto Rico, and his father, Pierre Monteux.

Mrs. Monteux, skilled on both flute and piano, has been an instructor with the New York College of Music, Westchester Conservatory of Music and Oakwood School.

Kenneth Fricker, a graduate of Juilliard School of Music, is associated with The Group for Contemporary Music under the auspices of Columbia University. He is personnel manager and principal bassist of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic; is currently on the staff of Westchester Conservatory of Music in White Plains.

Sylvia Suzowsky, harpsichord and piano, has been a soloist with the New York Philharmonic Pops, National Orchestral Association and the Norwalk Symphony. She has given recitals in the Northeastern States and Ireland.

Art Picnic Style

For the public is the fourth annual art show being sponsored by the Olive Free Library, Route 28A, West Shokan. The exhibit will be held on the library grounds Saturday, Aug. 3 and Sunday, Aug. 4; will feature the work of amateur and professional artists who reside in the Town of Olive. An extra added fillip on Saturday only will be an Old Fashioned Picnic Lunch, served up at a nominal cost and in nostalgic style.
